Some Cotton Put to Plow Despite Drop In Harvest

Output of Acreage In Excess of Quota Being Destroyed To Avoid Penalty

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Although this year's cotton harvest is so small that the Government yesterday cut exports by almost two-thirds, some farmers are plowing under part of their crops.

These growers are taking this method to avoid a penalty of about 15 cents a bale for all cotton they harvest and sell above the allotments given them by the Government last spring, when supplies were so large that Government officials were worrying about a cotton surplus.

Late yesterday the Agriculture Department announced that under the Defense Production Act, exports to all countries except Canada would be cut this year to two million running bales. Last year's exports totaled 5,770,000. The cut was far more than most observers expected. It emphasized the Government's concern over the sudden dwindling of cotton stocks in the face of growing need, both civilian and military.

The announcement of the export cut said supplies this year are about 16½ million bales contrasted with 21½ million bales a year ago.

Attributed to Acreage Law

The Government announced that domestic disappearance, including defense requirements, are expected to be greater than last year's 8,870,000 bales. The export limitation will cover all shipments abroad between August 1, 1950, and March 31, 1951.

The destruction of cotton, in spite of the 38 percent drop in production and in the face of the fact that prices are within a few cents a pound of the all-time high, was due to the provisions of the Anderson cotton acreage allotment law passed by Congress less than a year ago. This law provides a severe penalty for farmers

U. S. Sells Stored Eggs As Price Tops Their Cost

Ralph S. Trigg, administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration, revealed yesterday that Uncle Sam is selling a lot of his stored eggs.

Egg prices Monday reached 66 cents a pound, Trigg said. The Government's holdings were acquired at around 60 cents. The law permits Trigg to sell the eggs when the price gets to five per cent above the cost. The Government has offered 125 million dozen of Grade A eggs at 63 cents a dozen and 61 million dozen at 61 cents.

Congress Would Brush Off Lincoln Today, Says Sandburg

White-maned Carl Sandburg—perhaps Lincoln's greatest biographer—last night proposed some answers to a question whose difficulties and "illogic" he admitted:

"What would Lincoln do now? What would Lincoln do today?

"People ask that," Sandburg said, "as if the transposition is easy."

"We could make the deduction," the Pulitzer Prize-winner told a dinner at the Raleigh Hotel, "that he would labor for the present generation." Sandburg spoke before the Commandery-in-Chief of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, a group founded the day of Lincoln's death.

Sandburg thought, however,

Ten Sites Chosen for 4000 Low-Rent Housing Units Here

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

Early action by the District Commissioners on 10 specific sites for 400 low-rent housing units here was predicted last night.

The list of sites—selected after nearly a year's deliberation—was presented to the city heads last Thursday by John Ihlder, executive director of the National Capital Housing Authority.

Last night Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young, who handles the city's housing programs, said he probably will recommend approval of most, if not all, of the proposed building locations.

Young and other District officials said the exact location will not be divulged until purchase papers have been drawn.

Ihlder would only say that all the locations are in the District, two-thirds on vacant or sparsely-populated land, the remainder in the congested downtown slum areas.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission last month also approved the sites, with the exception of one.

Before Ihlder may secure Federal funds for land purchase and building, the Commissioners must sign a "cooperative agreement" with the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

That cooperative agreement pledges the District government to raze substandard dwellings equivalent to the volume of new low rent housing. It also commits the District to provide public utilities for the public housing projects on the same basis it extends them to private developers.

But it became clear last night the Commissioners probably will not sign the agreement until they can exact from Ihlder a written commitment which earmarks a certain portion of his public housing units to persons evicted from houses razed under the companion slum clearance program.

New Housing Curbs Announced

The Government yesterday acted to cut the record home building boom down to size by making it a lot tougher to buy a house.

Effective at noon Thursday, it was announced, controls on new real estate construction credit will become effective. They will apply to houses bought conventionally and through the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration.

The restrictions do not apply to loans on which written commitments were made before the effective date, or to conventional loans on housing construction started before noon, August 3.

Briefly, the new controls call for non-veterans to make down payments ranging from 10 percent in the $5000 and under bracket up to 50 percent for homes costing $25,000 or more.

Veterans are given a break in that the minimum down payment is less and the maximum loan is more than for non-veterans. Nonetheless, veterans will be required to fork over considerably larger down payments than heretofore. Their cash-on-the-line payments will run from 5 percent for a $5000-or-less house up to 45 percent for a house priced from $24,250 up.

The length of time in which mortgages must be paid off is pegged under the controls at 20 years. The only exception to this is the $7000-or-less house; its mortgage must be paid off within 25 years.

Announcement of the curbs was

31 Non-Defense Agencies Cut $580 Million; Few Jobs Hit

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

Thirty-one Federal agencies today will realign their activities to absorb a cut of $580,271,335 in their 1951 budgets, ordered yesterday by the Budget Bureau.

The bureau acted on a Congress order to recapture at least $550,000,000 of the nearly 36 billions in the General Appropriation Act without impairing national defense.

Budget Director Frederick J. Lawton conceded it may be necessary to release some of the impounded funds during the rest of this fiscal year. He also said new opportunities may be found for savings in other areas.

Some reductions were protested bitterly by the affected agencies. Lawton said: "We recognize the action will cause many protests and complaints. Obviously, we could not hope to please everyone."

Few employes will lose their jobs; one official estimated "no more than 3000." Most reductions will hit construction projects and agency expansions. Other agencies can operate within their smaller budgets by not filling vacated jobs. Thousands of additional employes would have been hired if there had been no cut.

Agriculture Department got the largest cut—150 millions— broken down as follows: REA loans, $66,427,000; rural telephone loans, $19,073,000; farm housing loans, $24,500,000; other cuts, 40 million dollars.

The Budget Bureau pointed out REA will have more than 300 million dollars for its 1951 program, including 35 million dollars for rural phones and $47,500,000 for farm tenancy and housing loans. The conservation and use program was cut 26 million dollars, but pay-

Ban Sought On Nonunion Camp Work

AFL carpenters, who were on strike 10 days in a protest against working with nonunion carpenters, returned to their jobs at Fort Belvoir yesterday.

Hardly were the 150 union carpenters back to work, "under protest," when the Washington Building and Construction Trades Council launched its own battle to exclude nonunion craftsmen and laborers from construction projects on military reservations in this area.

The council, which represents most of the 20 AFL building unions—not including the carpenters—refused to go along with the strike of the carpenters who were joined for the day by the AFL painters in the Fort Belvoir protest walkout.

Protested Nonunion Contact

The carpenters walked out on three barracks repair and reconstruction jobs which had been awarded to contractors employing union men — Beauchamp, Scriber, and Pruitt construction companies—in a demonstration against working alongside carpenters employed by a fourth contractor, Pomponic & Sons.

Fort Belvoir authorities and Army industrial relations officials say that under the present laws, construction projects and other military installations must be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, whether or not he hires union help.

Leaders of the AFL Building Trades Council are known to have considered the strike of the carpenters unwise and untimely in view of the national issue involved.

The council had planned to attack the problem through the national union level. However, on Monday the word got out that a second contractor employing nonunion craftsmen had turned in the lowest bid on a new reactivation project at Fort Belvoir and is about to get the job.

Frank O'Connor, secretary treasurer, in response to a query by The Washington Post, last night issued the following statement.

"The Washington Building and Construction Trades Council is disturbed over the policy or lack or policy being pursued by some authorities that may unduly impede our defense and rearmament program.

"It is the intention of this council, as abundantly demonstrated by past performances, to give the fullest cooperation to that program, and we are hopeful that our efforts in that direction will not be hamstrung by unrealistic attitudes of practices.

"We are doing what we can to persuade the proper authorities to formulate and apply a policy that will not frustrate our endeavors.

Allies Seize Wonsan; Red Troops Flee

BULLETIN

First Cavalry Headquarters, Korea, Wednesday, Oct. 11 (U.P.), A First Cavalry Division spokesman said today that elements of the unit had reached Yugadon, some 12 miles north of the 38th parallel.

TOKYO (Wednesday), Oct. 11 (AP).—The North Korean government flatly rejected United Nations surrender demands today and ordered Communist forces in Korea to fight to the death.

Red defiance came as South Korean troops occupied Wonsan, a key port and airbase only 95 air miles east of Pyongyang, North Korean capital. Republican patrols fanned north and west of the freed city in pursuit of fleeing North Koreans, field dispatches said.

United States First Cavalry troopers, biting deeper into Communist territory, drove within 85 air miles of the Red capital from the southeast.

Two North Korean divisions of possibly 20,000 also were making a stubborn defense against South Korean attacks along a 30-mile front 10 to 40 miles east of the First Cavalry sector.

The official Communist radio at Pyongyang broadcast the fight-to-death order some 36 hours after Gen. Douglas MacArthur made a final surrender demand upon Red Premier Kim Il Sung.

Kim Il Sung, as commander in chief of the Red army, called on "the entire peoples army, partisans and all people to fight until the final day of victory."

Admitting the Communist motherland "is face to face with a grave crisis," Kim said:

"We should study the example of Soviet Russia's October revolution."

In referring to the Russian revolution in 1917 Kim apparently was drawing a parallel between the Communists' setback then and the North Korean Reds' current failure to gain control of all Korea.

The October revolution in Russia overthrew the Czarist government but the Communists were unable to set up their own regime immediately and a government under Alexander Kerensk, was established. Later the extreme Bolsheviks under Lenin overthrew the Kerensky government and Russia became a Communist-governed country.

"Fight until the final victory, peoples army and partisans, overcoming all difficulties," Kim's message said.

"Workers in communications and rail transportation strive still more to bring reconstruction out of destruction. All labors in productive positions send more weapons and ammunition to the front. Laborers and farmers strive still greater to supply food and mate-

Rats Prefer Death by Thirst To Water With New Drug

By James E. Hague
Post Reporter

A drug so distasteful to rats that they would rather die of thirst than drink water containing minute quantities of it was described yesterday.

The discovery carried the hope that the drug, actidione, once on the point of being discarded as useless, could be incorporated in packaging materials, providing an almost impenetrable barrier between a hungry rat and the food inside the package.

The scientific report was published in the Journal of the American Pharmaceutical Association by Maj. Robert Traub and Doris Newman of the Army Medical Center here and James B. DeWitt and Jack F. Welch of the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service.

The scientists cautioned that actidione is a dangerous drug, is now expensive to produce and that much more work must be done before it could be put to work reducing the 300-million-dollar havoc wrought annually in this country by rats.

The strange story of actidione started in the work with antibiotic, streptomycin, when the new drug was produced as a by-product. It was sent to the Army Medical Center to see if it would be effective against certain human diseases, such as amebic dysentery.

The procedure was to infect a mouse or a rat with a disease and then give it the drug to see what happened. Major Traub reported that when mice were given actidione in water nothing happened because they wouldn't touch the water. When it was given to them by injections, they just got sicker.

Before discarding it as useless, Major Traub and Miss Newman decided to check to see just how strong a rat's dislike of actidione was.

They put 200 milligrams of actidione in one litre of water (approximately one ounce to 3675 gallons) and offered the water to the rats. The rats got no water for 11 days but refused to touch the actidione mixture after the first experimental sip.

Food was dipped in the same water and left to dry. Starving rats would have none of it. What they did nibble, they spit out. Once fooled, they were always shy of actidione-touched food, although they relished untreated morsels.

The drug was by this time so promising that it was given to the Fish anad Wildlife Service, which has rats specially trained to get through tough barriers. But when sheets of plywood were coated with actidione, the specially trained rats failed to damage the barriers.

The report said "the animals were observed to avoid the barriers after initial contact and there was little evidence that any animal reattacked a barrier during subsequent exposure periods."

One field test of actidone is now under way at the Army Medical Center. An ultra high-speed centrifuge was put out of action because mice gnawed the insulation on the wires. The wires have been reinsulated with actidione added. No damage has been reported yet.

Peiping Says It Can't Stand By With U. N. Entering N. Korea

LONDON, Oct. 11 (Wednesday) (AP).—Communist China declared today she could not "stand idly by with regard to the serious situation" created by the advance of United Nations' forces into North Korea.

The new warning was contained in a lengthy statement issued by the Red regime's Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

But like similar Peiping statements, it gave no hint that the Chinese Communists would intervene directly in the Korean war.

The statement attacked as "entirely illegal and against the will of the overwhelming majority of the world's population" the resolution approved by the United Nations General Assembly on October 7, giving the go-ahead to United Nations forces to enter North Korea.

The statement declared the Korean question could be settled peacefully only on the basis of Russian proposals already rejected by the U. N. These included an immediate cease-fire, withdrawal of all foreign troops and organization of free elections in the country by an equal number of both North and South Korean representatives.

The statement added:

"The American war of invasion in Korea has been a serious menace to the security of China from its very start . . . The Chinese people cannot stand idly by with regard to such a serious situation created by the invasion of Korea by the United States and its accomplice countries and to the dangerous trend toward extending the war . . .

"The Chinese people firmly advocate a peaceful solution to the Korean problem and are firmly opposed to the extension of the Korean war by America and its accomplice countries. And they are even more firm in holding that agressors must be answerable for all consequences resulting from their frantic acts in extending aggression."

Army to Draft 40,000 More, Raising Total Called to 210,000

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The Army yesterday asked Selective Service to call up 40,000 more draftees in December.

The newest draft call raises to 210,000 the number of selectees sought for the Army since the Korean war broke out last summer.

The December call came some 10 days later than expected by Selective Service officials, who admittedly were surprised that the Army's request for draftees was only 40,000.

The three previous Army draft calls were for 50,000, 50,000, and 70,000. It's no secret Selective Service had prepared for a 70,000 to 100,000 call in December.

The Department of Defense offered no immediate explanation on the 40,000 figure. Only last week an Army spokesman testified on Capitol Hill that the Army intended to raise 350,000 men via the draft by April 1. Thus, 140,000 draftees are still to be called in the first three months of 1951.

Meanwhile, the Army also announced plans to draft 922 doctors, 500 dentists and 100 veterinarians during November, December and January. The Navy and Air Force intend to fill their medical manpower requirements by calling up reservists and by attracting volunteers.

In preparation for the medical draft call, the Nation's local draft boards next Monday will conduct the registration of all doctors, dentists and veterinarians up to the age of 50 who have served less than 21 months in the armed forces.

Before any one of the registrants is drafted, however, he must be cleared as available to the armed forces—and not "essential" to the civilian community—by a medical advisory board. Tentatively chosen to serve on such a board in the District are Dr. G. Victor Simpson, of the District Medical Society; Dr. E. Milburn Colvin, of the District Dental Society; and Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger, District health officer.

Ching Named Head of New Wage Board

Cyrus S. Ching, who since 1947 has guided the Nation through some of its toughest labor disputes, has been appointed chairman of the new Wage Stabilization Board, the White House announced yesterday.

The tall, 73-year-old official, now chief of the National Mediation and Conciliation Service, will take a leave of absence to assume his new post which may offer the greatest challenge of his long career.

Last Saturday, Dr. Alan Valentine was appointed to head the Economic Stabilization Agency. The job of Ching's board will be to make recommendations to Valentine's concerning policies for holding down wages in the event of wage-price controls.

Under Valentine, too, will be a director of price stabilization, still to be chosen.

If President Truman eventually decides to impose price and wage ceilings—a step which seems increasingly likely—Ching's nine-member board will be charged with recommending a "fair" wage level.

This means it would have to work out some base similar to the "Little Steel formula" of World War II which played an effective part in prevening crippling war production strikes from 1942 through 1945.

Best indications now is that such a pattern might range from 10 to 15 cents an hour above pre-Korean war levels. But it presumably would be worked out only after long and probably stormy sessions between labor, management and public members of Ching's board.

Presidential Secretary Charles Ross said the President was not ready to announce the names of Ching's eight colleagues on the wage board.

Chest Drives Vital to Nation, Marshall Tells Fund Workers

Secretary of Defense Gen. George C. Marshall warned yesterday that the success of local and national Community Chest campaigns was "a test of the moral strength of our people."

Speaking at a luncheon rally of 600 business men and women in the Hotel Washington, General Marshall called the drive "vital not only to all our communities" but "for the defense of our Nation."

The address was also broadcast at 10 last night over a nationwide CBS hookup and heard locally over Station WTOP.

General Marshall commended the Chest agencies for assuming their responsibility of providing "recreation and welfare for the (service) men and women on leave in communities near their stations.

"As an ever greater number of young men are called into military service, a greater portion of our population will be families and dependents of servicemen," he stated.

"What you do to improve the welfare and security of our homes has a strong effect on military morale, and I know what morale means to a military organization, as probably do most of you men here today."

Calling "voluntary giving" a measure of fitness for citizenship in a democracy, he said that "all over the world democracy is being forced to prove that it is the finest way of life."

The luncheon was the kickoff rally of Business-Employes Unit II, Community Chest drive.

Conference Set for This Weekend at Pacific Site

Location Secret; Two Will Discuss Korea and Other Far East Matters

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur will meet "somewhere in the Pacific" this weekend to talk about the final phase of the fighting in Korea and other Far East problems.

The conference, it was emphasized at the White House, was not arranged as the result of any "sudden emergency."

The face-to-face meeting of the two men, their first, will serve as a dramatic prologue to two foreign-policy speeches by Mr. Truman. One will be delivered in San Francisco next Tuesday and the other before the United Nations General Assembly on October 24.

For security reasons, the White House declined to say where the Pacific conference would take place. Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the President would fly to Hawaii, but he would not say that this would be the meeting place.

Wake Island, Midway Island and Guam were mentioned as possible sites for the rendexvous in the speculation, and from Tokyo came a suggestion that the President and the Far East commander might get together on the battleship Missouri. This famous warship, named for Mr. Truman's home State, was the scene of the Japanese surrender in 1945.

The President's long air journey, coming as it does in the midst of the 1950 battle for Congress, aroused considerable interest in political circles.

Some Republicans regarded it as a political move—and a shrewd one. The GOP has been hammering at Mr. Truman for his handling of Far Eastern affairs and charging that there never would have been war in Korea except for Administration "bungling."

"It is a smart political move on his part to put himself into the role of victorious Commander in Chief," said one Republican, who preferred not to be identified.

Guy G. Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican National Committee, who has been heaping praise on General MacArthur, had a terse and snappy comment when he heard that Mr. Truman would meet the Pacific hero.

"It's about time," he said.

A statement of praise came from one Republican, Senator Flanders of Vermont. He said the meeting was "a great thing," and noted that many serious problems confront the United States in the Far East.

Bandit Gets $33, 50 Cents for Cab In Office Holdup

Two early evening holdups of a Western Union branch office and a grocery store netted $183 yesterday.

Shortly before 7 p. m. an armed man described as a shabbily dressed Negro walked into the New Neighborhood Market at 1415 10th st. nw., and told Mrs. Gussie Osherhoff, wife of the manager, that it was a holdup. She fled screaming into the back where her husband, Ben, was working. The bandit went around the counter, scooped about $150 from the cash register and ran south on 10th st.

A lone operator held up the Western Union branch office at 3027 Nichols ave. se., at 6:15 p. m. and fled with $33 and "fifty cents to pay the cabbie."

The cab in which he made his escape was spotted a few minutes after the holdup near 3530 Nichols ave. se., but the holdup man escaped.

Units of Commandos Organized by Army

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Taking a leaf from the North Koreans, the Army is organizing new-type commando units, trained especially infiltration methods and guerilla warfare.

As a starter, four companies are being set up at Fort Benning, Ga., and will become an integral part of four infantry divisions. It is expected additional units will be established later — one for each division.

The new companies will be known as "Rangers"—the name given to American commando type forces in World War II. The latter, however, were formed into separate battalions, rather than as a regular unit of an infantry division.

Carefully Screened Volunteers

Volunteers will make up the Rangers—and only trained paratroopers, who are "rugged specimens" and carefully screened for aptitude for the work are selected.

In announcing the move, the Army said it resulted from World War II experience "accentuated by combat lessons learned in the fighting Korea, where enemy forces made highly successful use of small groups trained, armed and equipped for the specific purpose of infiltrating U. N. lines."

Col. John G. Van Houten, a veteran infantryman who fought in Europe but was not a Ranger himself, is in command of the new Ranger Training Section at the Infantry School.

One emphasis of the rigorous training program now underway at the school, he said, is on long, fast night marches. The companies are being drilled to travel 4 or 5 miles an hour over long distances, on the order of Stonewall Jackson's famed "Foot Cavalry."

Too Accustomed to Riding

Unlike the modern American infantry unit, which is heavily motorized, the Ranger companies will have only a few administrative vehicles and not use them in the field. Some of the news dispatches from Korea have quoted officers as complaining that too many soldiers were too accustomed to riding and not hardened to long marches over rough terrain.

Because there can be no replacements for units working behind enemy lines, all men of each company will be trained to do the other fellow's job, said Van Houten. Every man must learn to cook his own food, and become skilled in judo and knife work, he said.

The announcement said that each company will have five officers and 110 enlisted men. There will be three platoons of three 10-man squads, plus headquarters personnel, to a company.

Bazooka for Each Squad

Every Ranger will carry a light automatic rifle and every squad will have either a bazooka or 60 mm. mortar. Besides his individual weapon and ammunition, rations, etc., each man will carry two rounds of bazooka or mortar ammunition and demolition equipment.

"Training will stress use of foreign weapons and maps, demolitions and sabotage, guerilla warfare, amphibious and airborne operations and close combat," said the Army.

Van Houten said that each volunteer gets a six-week rigorous training period ending with a continuous 48-hour maneuver. Seasoned, mature soldiers are preferred rather than teenagers, and high mental as well as physical standards must be met. The men wear the World War II Ranger shoulder patch.

61 Red Mines Are Spotted By Helicopter

Navy helicopters have spotted another 61 Communist mines off the Korean east coast near Wonsan, where American escort carriers and other warships are operating, the Navy said yesterday.

The newly-discovered mines were an extension of a field previously located in the area, a spokesman told a press briefing.

"Some appear to be of a very old type—possibly World War I," he said.

He said South Korean minesweepers have destroyed two mines near the Mokpo naval base on the south coast of Korea.

A few of the 61 spotted off Wonsan were of the illegal floating type, but the majority were moored, the spokesman said.

The Navy reported that it destroyed more than 65 mines in Korean waters during September.

French Troops Annihilated In Indo-China

SAIGON, Indo-China, Oct. 10 (AP).—The bulk of a force of 3500 French troops has been wiped out in the biggest battle of the 4-year-old war with the Communist-led Viet Minh, the French high command announced tonight.

A French communique admitted the severe setback in the region near the frontier of Communist China. Several hundred of the French troops escaped the Nationalist's trap, but the remainder "after a bloody combat succumbed, but only after inflicting extremely heavy losses on the enemy," the bulletin said.

The defeat created a major stir. In Paris it brought an announcement that Colonial Minister Jean Letourneau and Gen. Alphonse Juin, Resident General of Morocco and a trouble-shooter, would fly to Indo-China to take whatever steps necessary to bolster the French position.

A Paris source close to the French cabinet commented that "the rather bad developments in northern Indo-China prove again that there is no longer a border between the Communist of Indo-China and the Communists of China."

The French repeatedly have accused Red China of aiding the Indo-Chinese guerillas of Moscow-trained Ho Chin Minh in the war against the French-sponsored Viet Nam regime.

A few hundred crack Foreign Legionnaires and Moroccans who managed to break through the trap after a five-day battle reached the French-held border stronghold at Thatkhe. The others remaining behind apparently ran out of ammunition.

The battle was on a 15-mile stretch of road between Dongkhe and Thatkhe. The troops were among those who were withdrawing from the garrison at Caobang. Also involved was a column from Thatkhe sent to screen the Caobang withdrawal.

Folsom Blocks Extradition Of Sen. Taylor to Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 10 (AP).—Chances for Senator Glen Taylor (D., Idaho) to serve his 180-day sentence in the Birmingham jail dropped almost to zero today.

Gov. James E. Folsom refused to ask the Senator's return to this State.

Taylor already had announced he would stay away from the Birmingham "chain gang." He was convicted of disorderly conduct in May, 1948, when he sought to use the Negro entrance to address a Negro youth rally.

Folsom, at his Montgomery press conference, said he regarded Taylor as a "political prisoner." The Alabama governor disagreed on the "chain gang" phrase, however.

"Alabama's prison system is better than Idaho's," he said. "Prisoners here have not been chained for many years."

Taylor lost his appeal from the Birmingham conviction yesterday when the United States Supreme Court declined to review the case.

Birmingham Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor took a verbal crack at Folsom for the decision not to seek Taylor's extradition.

"Thank God we don't have but 3 more months to put up with Folsom and his crowd," Connor said. Folsom's term ends in January. Connor and the Governor have been political opponents for years.

Connor announced he would make every legal effort to have Taylor returned to Birmingham to serve the jail term.

Taylor was a candidate for Vice President on the Progressive Party ticket with Henry Wallace when he was arrested.

He was taken to jail, but made bond in a few minutes.

He contended at his trial that his arrest stemmed from the Birmingham segregation laws for whites and Negroes. The city contended successfully that the case involved a "simple assault and battery upon a police officer."

Taylor had posted a $500 appeal bond. So far, no move has been made by the city to have it forfeited.

Surrender Offers Boomed at Reds By Area Officer

TOKYO, Oct. 10 (AP).—A giant loudspeaker mounted on a transport plane is booming out surrender messages to trapped Korean Reds. The Reds are told they will get fair and humane treatment if they give up.

Capt. Terrence Biggs, 43, of 513 69th pl., Seat Pleasant, Md., flew to Japan with the big loudspeaker units and picked up a group of Navy and civilian technicians.

A communications expert, Captain Biggs has been in the service 21 years. He has served continuously since 1932, and first joined the Army in 1925. He is married and has eight children. He has lived in the Washington area five years, and left on the mission to Korea September 29.

U. S. Refuses Soviet Charge Of Air Attack

The State Department refused yesterday to accept a Soviet note protesting the alleged American strafing of a Russian airfield 62 miles across the North Korean border, but related its contents to the Defense Department and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The department was understood ot be making a quick check to determine whether two United States Air Force F-80 Shooting Star jet fighters actually shot up the airstrip Sunday and damaged property, as the Soviet note charged.

It said all United Nations pilots had been told to stay at least 30 miles inside the border.

State Department press spokesman Michael L. McDermott reported that United States Counselor-Minister Walworth Barbour refused to accept the note in Moscow because it should be addressed directly to the United Nations or MacArthur as U. N. commander in Korea. A later attempt to deliver it by messenger also failed.

Typifiying the firm diplomatic policy being taken toward Russia, McDermott said the State Department had not formally asked for a Defense Department investigation of the incident.

Whether the incident occurred, it dramatized the dangers facing U. N. forces as they move northward in Korea. Two other border violations have been reported in Chinese Communist Manchuria and U. N. forces shot down a snooping Soviet bomber.

Soviet Likely to Take A Most Serious View

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—Foreign observers believed today that Soviet authorities would take a most serious view of the reported incursion of Russian territory by two American fighter planes.

Earlier in the day Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko protested to the United States Embassy that the planes had bombed a Soviet airport 62 miles north of the Korean border.

Gromyko's note, which he read to United States Minister-counselor Walworth Barbour, was couched in relatively moderate language. It did not demand compensation for damage caused to the airport, and did not threaten reprisals.

Area Soldier Reported POW; Three Wounded

A Fort Belvoir Army veteran of World War II, reported missing in Korean action in July, is now known to be a prisoner of war.

Two other area Army men and one Marine have been wounded, the Department of Defense listing No. 120 showed yesterday.

The prisoner of war, Sergt. 1/C Ernest M. Kelly, 36, was among the first troops shipped to Korea. He was stationed at Fort Belvoir for four of his eight years in the Army. A brother, Master Sergt. Jeffrey D. Kelly is now at post headquarters there.

With the Army Air Corps in Gulfport, Miss.—During the last war, Ernest Kelly went to Bolling Field and then transferred to the Army engineers at Belvoir.

Sergt. Kelly

His mother, Mrs. Blanche D. Kelly, living with the brother and his wife, Dorothy, at 172 Gunston rd., Fort Belvoir, said the information received was based on a report by the International Red Cross.

Pfc. Benjamin F. Gill, 18, of 710 Xenia st. se., wrote home that "he went through the air like a bird" when a mortar shell hit near him. A National Guard enlistee at 15, the former carrier for The Washington Post, joined the regular Army on his seventeenth birthday, May 12, 1949.

He attended Anacostia's Cramer Junior High.

Sergt. James E. Clay of Washington, is heading for an operation table in San Francisco, Calif., because "a hand grenade fight did everything but kill" him.

A Shaw Junior High graduate and one of the five Washington orphans who were raised together by a foster mother, Clay, who is 34, had served with the Army in this country since 1942, before leaving for Korea in July. His foster sister, Mrs. Louise Mason of 1620 7th st. nw., received word yesterday that he was a patient on the USS General A. E. Anderson somewhere in the Pacific.

Sergt. Plummer

Pfc. Gill

The third wounded victim is Marine Sergt. Alfred Plummer, a World War II Marine veteran with South Pacific duty. His wife, the former Cecile Kirby of Falls Church, now living at 1227 Semms pl. ne., said she had not heard how he had been injured. Born in Chicago, where his family lives now, Plummer enlisted from there in 1941. He was stationed at Quantico, Va., after returning from overseas, and left for Japan on August 12. He has no other relatives in Washington.

Sergt. Alfred Williams, jr., 25, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, who recently moved from 1702 12th st. nw., was listed as injured. He was previously reported "wounded in action" on September 1, 1950.

Sadowski Loses Race For House in Recount

DETROIT, Oct. 9 (AP).—Canvassers today declared Thaddeus M. Machrowicz of Hamtramck winner of the Democratic nomination in the First Congressional district.

Representative George G. Sadowski had demanded a recount of 117 of 261 precincts after he lost out for renomination in the September primary.

But Marguerite Montgomery, chairman of the county board of canvassers, said Sadowski picked up only 14 votes. Machrowicz's final margin was 162 votes.

Truman Will Fly To See MacArthur

mittee remained silent, on the ground that Mr. Truman was acting in his capacity as President and not party leader.

Senator Tydings (D., Md.), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said the Truman-MacArthur conference was an inspired move, and added: "We have lost too many lives in Korea in keeping the peace to lose it now through some misstep."

Policy To Enter New Phase

Career officials, those more concerned with the world situation than the political battle at home, said there would be much for the President and the five-star general to talk about besides the pacification and the rehabilitation of Korea. They pointed out our Pacific policy will enter into a new phase once the situation in Korea has been settled.

The question of Formosa, they said, is certain to come up. Back in August, Mr. Truman and Gen. MarArthur were in disagreement over this island, now the last stronghold of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalists. The United States Government has proposed that the future of the island be settled by the United Nations. Mr. Truman himself has promised that the Navy's Seventh Fleet will be withdrawn from the Formosan Straits after Korea is pacified.

The question of a Japanese peace treaty also is likely to be discussed by the President and MacArthur. Mr. Truman recently directed a speeding-up of the processes of bringing Japan back into the family of nations.

Will Board Plane Today

The Chief Executive will start out on the first leg of his long trip at 3:30 this afternoon when he takes off in his airplane, the Independence, for St. Louis. This evening he is to see his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, installed as grand matron of the Order of Eastern Star of Missouri. Thursday he will attend a luncheon for Miss Truman and other newly installed officers.

Mr. Truman will take off again at 5 p. m. Thursday and head toward the Pacific.

At this stage, two airplanes will be carrying the President and members of his entourage, the Independence and an Army Constellation.

In Mr. Truman's party will be Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, jr.; W. Averell Harriman, Special Assistant to the President on foreign affairs; Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs; Dean Rusk, and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In the President's immediate party will be Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, Army aide; Gen. Wallace Graham, his personal physician; Charles S. Murphy, counsel to the President, and White House Secretaries Matthew J. Connelly and Ross..

Press, Guards to Go Along

Reporters, photographers and Secret Service men will travel in a chartered plane.

Press Secretary Ross, in giving out the itinerary, said the President would fly from St. Louis to the Fairfield-Suisan airfield between Sacramento and San Francisco, arriving there at 10 p. m., Pacific Coast time. The schedule then calls for a take-off at midnight Thursday and a direct flight to Hickham Field at Honolulu, Hawaii. The party is expected to arrive there at 7:30 a. m. (local time (Friday).

Ross said the schedule was not complete beyond that. He explained he could not give out the site of the Truman-MacArthur conference for security reasons.

"It came up fairly fast," Ross said apropos the trip, "but it was the result of no sudden emergency."

He said it was Mr. Truman, and not General MacArthur, who suggested the conference.

Returns Here Wednesday

Later in the afternoon, Ross announced that Mr. Truman had accepted an invitation to speak in San Francisco at 8 p. m. Tuesday, on his way back to Washington. He said the President would be introduced by Mayor Elmer E. Robinson. and would make a nonpartisan speech on foreign policy.

The President, Roos said, expects to arrive back in Washington on Wednesday. On the following Tuesday he will speak before the United Nations in New York.

When Mr. Truman and General MacArthur meet, it will be the first time the noted soldier has seen a President since 1944. In that year—which also was a campaign year—President Roosevelt journeyed to Hawaii and talked to MacArthur about Pacific strategy.

Mr. Truman, in August, directed General MacArthur to "withdraw" a statement he had sent to the Veterans of Foreign Wars encampment in Chicago, which dealt with the importance of keeping Formosa out of unfriendly hands. The White House at that time emphasized there could be but "one voice" in the field of foreign policy—the President's.

Praises MacArthur

Mr. Truman, in a statement yesterday, paid high praise to MacArthur, saying:

"General MacArthur and I are making a quick trip over the coming weekend to meet in the Pacific.

"When I see him I shall express to him the appreciation and gratitude of the people and Government of the United States for the great service which he is rendering to world peace. As Commander-in-Chief of United Nations forces in Korea, he has been acting for the world organization as well as for us. His mission has been to repel aggression and to restore international peace and security in the area, as called for by the United Nations. He is carrying out his mission with the imagination, courage, and effectiveness which have marked his entire service as one of our greatest military leaders.

"I shall discuss with him the final phase of United Nations action in Korea. In this phase, the United Nations command will be working closely with the United Nations Commission which has just been created by the General Assembly and given heavy responsibilities for the establishment of a unified, independent, and democratic Korea.

Must Move Rapidly

"We must proceed rapidly with our part in the organization of the United Nations relief and reconstruction program in order to give the Korean people a chance to live in peace. Secretary Acheson in his opening address to the General Assembly stressed the importance of this great opportunity to demonstrate the capacity of the world organization to re-establish the economic and social life of Korea, which has suffered cruelly as a result of aggression. The successful accomplishment of this peaceful mission of reconstruction can serve as a pattern for other efforts to improve the lot of people all over the world. The task of reconstruction in Korea will be a heavy one and will require tions; the United States will carry a major effort by the United Nary on its full share of this load.

"The only interest of the United States is to help carry out these great purposes of the United Nations in Korea. We have absolutely no interest in obtaining any special position for the United States in Korea, nor do we wish to retain bases or other military installations in that country. We should like to get our armed forces out and back to their other duties at the earliest moment consistent with the fullfillment of our obligations as a member of the United Nations.

"Naturally, I shall take advantage of this opportunity to discuss with General MacArthur other matters within his responsibility."

U. S. Policy Attacked At Lucknow Parley

LUCKNOW, India, Oct. 10 (AP). United States policy came under bitter attack today at the Pacific relations conference here, as Asian delegates expressed the fear that Asia may be turned into a battleground against Russia.

The Pakistan delegate led the attacks, declaring there was still resentment because the United States had chosen an Asian country (Japan) as the first target for the atom bomb. He also declared there was great fear over the growing number of American outposts in the Pacific.

Surrender Is Inconceivable, Moscow Gazette Declares

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—The Soviet Literary Gazette said today that surrender of the North Koreans in accordance with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's demands appeared inconceivable.

"Warriors, the People's, Army, partisans and all patriots rally even more tightly around the legitimate government headed by Kim Il Sung," the publication said.

"The scale of guerilla war will become wider and wider. Many occupants will find their death at the hands of fighting Korean patriots not only at the front but deep in the rear."

MacArthur's surrender call also was mentioned by the Communist Youth organ, Komsomolskaya Pravda, whose correspondent A. Kozhin reported from Pyongyang. "Let those gentlemen American diplomats not elaborate their impudent lies. They won't fool anybody."

"It's better to die standing than to live on the knees, than to admit into one's own home the raging American beast—such is the battle cry of the Korean patriots who are defending every inch of their native land," the correspondent added.

The publication emphasized the North Koreans' continued resistance and refusal to accede to MacArthur's order. Correspondents for both papers indicated that fantastic atrocities awaited those falling into American and South Korean hands.

Soviet papers carried purported eye-witness accounts from Seoul that said Americans seized 11 wounded North Korean soldiers and tortured them by publicly gouging out their eyes with bayonets and chopping off their arms.

Pravda said a stream of refugees who escaped nightly from Seoul brought tales of horror and mass executions of soldiers and civilians.

It said that numerous witnesses reported that "American monsters seized Korean girls because MacArthur promised that after the capture of Seoul the city would be entirely at their disposal for three days."

It charged that girls were bartered for whiskey and cigarettes.

Pravda said the unburied bodies of American, Japanese and British soldiers still cluttered the outskirts of Seoul.

Loan by Export Bank Is Announced in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—Premier General Ali Razmara announced in Parliament today that the United States Export-Import Bank had granted a loan to Iran to help the country in its seven-year economic plan.

Informed sources said the loan totaled 25 million dollars and probably will be augmented by another 8 million to 10 million dollars from the International Bank and perhaps another loan under the American Point 4 program of aid to undeveloped areas.

Vishinsky Reverses Field, Hits U. S. Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 10 (AP).—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky, in a return to his old-time bitter style, today rejected as "bizarre" and "illegal" the major portion of Secretary of State Acheson's anti-aggression proposals.

The Soviet Foreign Minister opposed Acheson's plan for U. N. members to maintain specially trained military units for instant U. N. duty and for a collective action committee to study how to train such forces for the U. N.

He accepted a plan for special emergency sessions of the General Assembly but on such conditions that these sessions could be thwarted by a Soviet veto in the Security Council.

Suddenly casting aside his mild manner in the 60-nation Political Committee of the General Assembly, Vishinsky dashed hopes of delegates who had been encouraged by his brief comment yesterday that he would accept some of the proposals.

The only point that Vishinsky agreed to, with almost no strings, was a proposal for a fact-finding committee to go to trouble spots for an investigation.

Commenting to newsmen after the Vishinsky speech, United States delegate John Foster Dulles said "my initial reaction is disappointment that Mr. Vishinsky has been so negative."

Dulles said Vishinsky "accepts small parts of our proposal, but only with reservations which would make it largely ineffectual."

"The important thing," Dulles continued, "is to have armed units in readiness to act promptly to repeal aggression. That Vishinsky rejects. This will disappoint all people who want positive action to strengthen the United Nations for peace."

Vishinsky devoted a big portion of his speech to a defense of the Big Power veto, which he called the "foundation stone" of the U. N. Then he ticked off his position on the proposals originally made by Acheson on September 20 and now contained in a resolution called "United Action for Peace" supported by the United States, Canada, France, the Philippines, Turkey, Britain and Uruguary.

Here are the four main proposals and what Vishinsky had to say about each:

1. If the Security Council is stymied by the veto in the case of a threat to peace, the General Assembly shall meet in emergency session within 24 hours on the request of any seven members of the 11-nation Security Council.

Vishinsky said he could accept emergency meetings of the Assembly but only if they are called for by the Security Council as prescribed in the Charter. This would mean that a veto could stop a call for an emergency session. Vishinsky objected to 24 hours, preferring instead two weeks.

"I am expected to get from Azerbaijan (a Russian republic) to New York in 24 hours," he said, scornfully.

2. There should be a peace observation commission to observe and report on the situation in any area where there is international tension. This group would move upon the invitation or with the consent of the country into whose territory it would go.

Vishinsky accepted this on the condition that its membership must be representative. Some delegates interpreted this to mean Russia must be on the commission.

3. Each U. N. member should maintain in its national armed forces troops so trained and organized that they could be made available quickly as a U. N. unit on the recommendation of the Security Council or the General Assembly.

Vishinsky said this was an attempt to cut down the rights of the Security Council and said such armed forces must be at the disposal of the Council, not the Assembly.

He said this section was "bizarre" and it would make Secretary-General Trygve Lie "a military chief" on a "white stallion" who would lead forth his forces against aggression.

Yugoslavia Supports U. S. Peace Proposal

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 10 (U.P.).—Communist Yugoslavia, expressing fear of a Soviet attack, today supported the American blueprint for veto-free United Nations machinery to resist aggression.

Yugoslav Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj told the General Assembly's Political Committee his country had reservations about some parts of the revolutionary American plan. But he strongly indorsed the idea of enabling the vetoless General Assembly to move against an aggressor if the veto paralyzes the Security Council. And he backed the proposal to earmark national troop units for U. N. use.

Argentineans Ask U. N. Move on Press Curbs

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (NYHT).—A proposal that the United Nations move to reestablish freedom of the press in countries where dictatorial governments have restricted it was laid before the sixth Inter-American Press Conference today by delegates from an Argentinian newspaper.

The resolution, clearly intended to apply to the government of Argentina, among others, was signed by Gorge W. Ferreira, Hestor Blanco Boeri and R. Emilio Poitevin, all representing El Diario of Parana, Argentina. Action on it is scheduled later.

The problem of press freedom dominated the session, although the formal program provided only for discussion of the activities of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Stanley Ross, publisher of The Sunday Star in Wilmington, Del., and former publisher of El Caribe in Ciudad Trujillo, the Dominican Republic, suggested that economic conditions in Latin-America obliged publishers to accept government subsidies and thus made it impossible for them to be independent.

Cranston Williams, general manager of the ANPA, said the suggestion was "gratuitous," and a number of Latin American delegates sought a chance to speak. Jules Dubois of The Chicago Tribune read a letter from the Dominican Department of State that said President Rafael L. Trujillo had given the initial impetus to El Caribe and other newspapers in that country, and turned them over to private owners.

Ross shouted from the floor that he had not been allowed to finish. Further claims of independence were made, and then a man who identified himself as Carlos Felix, representative of the Dominican Revolutionary Party, interrupted.

"I am not a delegate because there is no free press in the Dominican Republic," he shouted. "Trujillo will not let me publish my paper."

German Ornes, present publisher of El Caribe, denounced Felix as an interloper, and the chair ruled him out of order.

Iran Shah to Introduce Beauteous Bride-to-Be

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 10 (AP).—The Shah of Iran is expected Wednesday to introduce his beauteous bride-to-be, 19-year-old Saroya Esfandiari, to Tehran society. According to rumors, the royal couple will marry October 26, on the Shah's thirty-first birthday.

An official court communique announced the ruler, Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, was engaged to marry Saroya, a European-educated daughter of an Iranian tribal leader. The surprise announcement did not say when the wedding would take place.

Fires Rage in Battered Wonsan, Many Reds Captured

By Robert Bennyhoff

WONSAN, Korea, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—Huge fires blazed in Wonsan tonight after South Korean troops occupied the battered city and sent most of its Communist defenders fleeing to the north or west and southwest toward Pyongyang.

Artillery shells continued to crash into parts of the city as the Reds withdrew.

The South Koreans also captured the Wonsan airfield—one of Korea's best—in almost perfect condition.

The South Korean Third and Capital Divisions entered the city shortly after noon, to climax a 10-day advance—mostly on foot—from the thirty-eighth parallel 140 miles away.

I reached Wonsan about 1 p. m. (11 p. m. Monday EST) as fires sent smoke columns into the sky. I saw few civilians. Buildings were boarded up. About 30 percent had been damaged or destroyed by American bombs, particularly factories. The rail yards were a mass of twisted rails and shattered locomotives and freight cars.

Four large factories had camouflage nets over their roofs. Some were a total loss, while others apparently could be repaired easily. A gasoline refinery was wrecked but a large red brick winery did not have a mark. Near the refinery several big tanks were crumpled like paper. By late afternoon many civilians appeared.

I sat on a hill and watched an artillery duel between the Communists and South Koreans. American fighter planes spotted the enemy gun positions and most of them were silenced.

As the Communists pulled back, South Korean troops streamed through the outskirts.

At the airfield I found few buildings damaged. The macadam landing strip was in excellent condition. A J-6 observation plane landed after we waved to its two occupants.

The South Koreans captured numerous prisoners. I counted 500. Most were young and their heads were closely shaved. They did not seem unhappy. Many North Koreans trotted about the streets, carrying guns and waiting to be rounded up. Others were put to work carrying ammunition or weapons for the South Koreans.

One South Korean regiment captured seven 76-millimeter cannon, several anti-aircraft guns and 60 prisoners. The prisoners said a "Russian unit" was 10 miles to the north, but little credence was given the report. It may have been an advisory group.

Several islands off Wonsan harbor appeared to have been occupied.

95 Aliens from 2 Italian Liners Quizzed Under New McCarran Law

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP).—Immigration men boarded two big incoming Italian liners today and ordered 95 alien passengers to Ellis Island for a detailed examination.

It was the biggest mass screening so far under the new McCarran law—which bars past or present Communists or Fascists from the U. S.

Among those caught in the net was a 25-year-old mezzo-soprano, Mrs. Fedora Barbieri, on her way to sing with the Metropolitan Opera Co. She said she once attended a Fascist school.

However, the most prominent among the passengers — Maestro Arturo Toscanini—breezed through the preliminary exam in a few minutes and went on his way.

The liners were the Vulcania and the Italia.

Immigration inspectors ordered 75 of the Vulcania's 1465 passengers to Ellis Island. Twenty of the Italia's 1219 passengers got the same treatment.

Crew members of both vessels also were ordered to remain aboard until Immigration officers decide whether they should be permitted shore leave.

District Immigration Director Edward J. Shaughnessy said the passengers on Ellis Island will be temporarily detained while a report on each of them is forwarded to Washington. Then it's up to the Commissioner of Immigration to decide what happens next.

The Home Lines—which operates the Italia—said one of the detained passengers was an employe of the Italian Government. He was not identified by name. He was asked whether he ever had been a Fascist and was quoted as replying:

"But, of course—one had to eat."

(In Washington, the United Press reported, Italian Ambassador Alberto Tarchiani formally protested to Secretary of State Dean Acheson yesterday against the application of the new anti-subversive law to the two Italian ships.

He said in a strong note that the detention of passengers aboard the vessels for screening violated the United States-Italian treaty of friendship and commerce.)

Entry Ban to Be Waived For Approved Ex-Nazis

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—New American security regulations banning former Nazis from the United States will be waived for approved Germans scheduled visit under the United States high commission's exchange program.

United States Consul General Albert M. Doyle said new directions will permit mass exceptions to the stringent new entry regulations of the law passed by Congress over President Truman's veto.

Whether visits sponsored by the Economic Cooperation Administration's technical assistance program and "dollar drive" will be covered has not been decided.

An estimated 90 percent of all Germans are affected by the law, which, if applied strictly, would end the high commission and ECA programs of sending Germans to the United States to study democratic American institutions, industrial and business techniques.

Exceptions are to be made after the State Department certifies to the Justice Department they are "in the interest of the foreign policy of the United States" and after Justice Department approval of each individual.

U. S. Admits Toscanini, But Singer Is Detained

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

Draft-Eligible Medical Men Advised to Seek Commission

About 275 members of the District of Columbia Dental Society learned last night from the top-ranking dentists of the services and the Selective Service director how they stand in the forthcoming doctor draft.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the draft, sounded the keynote of a panel discussion when he "strongly" advised dentists and physicians required to register Monday to be sure and apply for commissions voluntarily as soon as possible.

Thus, he said, they would be eligible for the $100 "volunteer" bonus which won't be available to inductees under the law requiring registration of dentists and physicians who received training at Government expense but who served less than 21 months on active duty.

Maj. Gen. Walter Love, chief of the Army Dental Corps, told the audience at the Shoreham Hotel that his service is "very short" of dentists, but expects to fill its quota through volunteers and inductees without calling up reserve officers.

(The Army announced yesterday that it plans to draft 922 physicians, 500 dentists and 100 veterinarians by January 15.)

Rear Admiral S. O. Claytor, chief of the Navy Dental Corps, said the Navy is "up to ceiling" in dentists for the present and does not plan to call on reserves.

Maj. Gen. George C. Kennebeck, chief of the Air Force Dental Corps, said the Air Force, like the Navy, plans to make up its shortage of dentists—it now has 686 and needs 286—through volunteers and inductees without calling on reserves.

Dr. Richard Mieling, medical chief of the Department of Defense, mentioned "reports" that the armed services may be boosted to 3,400,000 men next year. Disclaiming any responsibility for such reports, Dr. Mieling said, however, that such a force would require 4000 more dentists than the approximately 2800 now on duty.

Saucer Film a Flop

DAYTON, Ohio, Oct. 10 (AP)—Air Force officers today said they couldn't make out any flying saucers in film taken by a Great Falls, Mont., baseball manager. Officers said the film will be returned to Nick Mariana if he wants it. Mariana took pictures last August 15 of two objects he said buzzed over the Great Falls ball park.

Housing Credit Curbs Are Set

made by Thomas B. McCabe, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and Raymond M. Foley, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. The restrictions, they said, are designed to cut housing production by one-third over the country.

New dwelling units are being built at the rate of 1,300,000 a year. Foley said the "general target" of the restrictions is a volume of from 800,000 to 850,000 houses next year.

So far as the VA and FHA are concerned, the new regulations will apply to all applications for mortgage insurance received after noon Thursday—regardless of when the house was built. For mortgages written by banks and private institutions, the controls apply not to existing houses but to those put under construction since noon, August 3, and not covered by loan commitments made before then.

The restrictions are rigid in comparison with those now in effect. As of now for instance—and since July 19, when the Government first clamped down on the housing boom—a veteran is required to put up only 5 percent cash, regardless of the cost of the house. He has, in many instances, up to 30 years to buy the house.

Requirements for FHA loan insurance range from 10 to 25 percent down, with up to 30 years to pay off the mortgage.

The new regulations apply only to real estate credit on one and two-family houses. They do not apply to apartment projects, stores, industrial construction. It was announced, however, that consideration is now being given to "early issuance" of credit regulations on rental housing, non-residential properties, and other real estate credit.

Walter Reuther, president of the CIO Auto Workers, said the new order was "merely a rationing system under which those with ample funds can secure the housing they desire, who those who need housing are deprived of it now and for some time in the future."

In a statement earlier, Reuther had called on the National Security Resources Board to withhold action until some program could be devised to meet essential military and civilian housing needs.

Barrett Opposes Bill to Legalize Police Wire Taps

Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett told District Commissioners yesterday he opposed legislation that would authorize his department to tap telephone and telegraph wires.

Asked for his views on a Senate bill that would permit District and Federal law enforcement officials to listen in on conversations under certain conditions, Barrett reported:

"This department now operates successfully without the use of interception of telephone or telegraph communications by means of . . . wire-tap equipment. I do not feel that we need to resort to interception . . . and I recommend disapproval of any legislation which would grant such authority to our Police Department.

China-Germany Pact

BERLIN, Oct. 10 (AP).—A trade agreement between Communist China and East Germany was signed at Peiping today, the Soviet-licensed news agency ADN reported. China will supply Germany various raw materials, getting industrial goods in return.

'Fight to the Death' No. Koreans Ordered

riel from the rear to the front lines."

With such words Kim voiced the determination of his Communist regime to fight to the death.

In demanding the surrender of North Korean forces Monday, General MacArthur said that unless they quit the war he would take military action deemed necessary to destroy the enemy's war machine.

Capture of Wonsan by Third South Division Korean troops gave the U. N. forces a prize of immediate strategic importance.

Pyongyang, the North Korean capital 95 air miles west of Wonsan, is only 20 minutes flight away from Wonsan. The Air Force expects to have the field in use soon.

Wonsan's harbor facilities were at least 50 per cent intact even after heavy bombing attacks by B-29 Superforts destroyed the city's industrial and oil refining centers. The deep-water port gave the United Nations fleet a base of unlimited anchorage.

Republican troops drove into Wonsan at 10 a. m. Tuesday. They expected to mop up remnants of Red snipers and secure the city completely today. The Japanese-built airbase, 2½ miles east of Wonsan, was captured at 4 a. m. Tuesday.

Associated Press Correspondent William Jorden with the South Korean Third Division said the South Koreans were surprised that resistance was not more intense inside Wonsan, although it took grim street-by-street fighting to win the rubbled one-time manufacturing and communications center.

"The South Korean army would still be miles from Wonsan if the Reds had the determination to resist," Jorden said.

Reds Still Hold High Ground

Communist forces held on to high ground west and southwest of the city itself. From these positions the Reds rained small arms and machinegun fire, mixed with sporadic mortar and artillery shelling on troops inside the city.

Allied air power supported ground troops in slowly wiping out these hill pockets and in pushing north and west of the city after the main body of retreating Communists.

It was a different story on the western end of the battlefront in North Korea. There American troops 120 air miles from Wonsan and 80 air miles south of Pyongyang battled a stubborn and determined enemy believed to be stacked 25 miles deep.

The Reds were employing log pillboxes built before the war as strong points, much as the Japanese during World War II.

Little Progress Above Kaesong

The U. S. troopers pushed their drive northward from captured Kaesong in three armored spearheads but gains were measured in yards. Field reports, which had placed the Americans about one mile north of the thirty-eighth parallel Monday, said little progress was made Tuesday.

Eighth Army headquarters confirmed that gains were not appreciable.

One First Cavalry column advanced up the main road to Yyongyang to the vicinity of Simchon, 2½ miles inside North Korea.

A second cavalry column crossed the Yesong River 10 miles west of the main road and moved northwest into Red territory. A third column about 15 miles east of the road was near Panbu. Panbu is just north of the thirty-eighth parallel.

British and Australian troops, airlifted from deep South Korea, were on this front but an Army spokesman was unable to say whether they had yet gone into action north of the parallel.

Communications Poor

Communications with front units continued to be poor for correspondents covering this front. It was not clear just where the deepest American penetration across the thirty-eighth parallel has been made.

It appeared, however, that U. S. patrols probably were operating 2½ miles north of the parallel, but that the main body of troops was 1 to 1½ miles north.

There still was no indication just where or when the Communists intended to make their major stand before their capital of Pyongyang

General MacArthur's headquarters said the largest known concentration of Red troops was in the center of the peninsula—east of the First Cavalry Division front. A spokesman said the Red concentration was made up of two and possibly more divisions between Yonchon and South Korean-held Hwachon.

It was in this zone that the South Korean Sixth and Seventh Divisions were pushing northward, while the Capital Division bore in from the east coast.

There still was no word of acknowledgement from Communist authorities in Pyongyang in response to General MacArthur's latest surrender-or-else demand, broadcast Monday.

Instead the enemy continued to offer bitter resistance across the peninsula. The Red army's latest communique omitted reference to the loss of Wonsan, spoke only of continued fierce fighting.

In an effort to take the United Nations' commander's surrender message direct to North Korean troops, a United States transport plane was fitted out with loudspeakers and sent over the fighting front. In the Korean language the loudspeakers called upon the Reds to throw down their arms. Humane treatment was guaranteed to all prisoners of war.

The total number of North Koreans who have surrendered continued to soar. Thus far more than 55,000 have given up, including hundreds in the Wonsan area and some 22,856 during a four-day period ended last Saturday.

The whereabouts of the bulk of the Allied striking force in Korea was top secret. Only high military authorities could say when the next big U.N. blow would fall on the Communist Pyongyang regime.

Lincoln Would Get Brush-off, Says Sandburg

The Brush-off

"What he would get would be a brush-off; in popular language, he would be told: 'The hell with it.'"

"I am quite sure," said Sandburg, "that Lincoln had the instinct of human solidarity, the feeling for the whole great family of the world that would have placed him behind the United Nations to the very last."

"He would try to know what was going on in India, Thailand (Siam), and—I was about to say Formosa. But I meet so many people who know what to do with Formosa. They are all ready to go and hand it to Chiang and the Madame."

Sandburg was certain Lincoln today "would have infinite patience, patience in circumstances under whch other men would break.

Same Sense of Justice

"Hs sense of humor would be operating," he said.

"He would have today the same sense of justice he had then. He had an inquiring mind. He asked questions so those hearing the questions would resolve them in their own minds.

"He had over the years the ability to put himself inside the other man and knowing what that other man felt."

Sandburg read, in his deep voice, from Lincoln papers and documents to make his points. When he did so he modulated his voice to simulate accounts of Lincoln delivery. Sandburg, 72 stood erect, spoke with assurance.

One of his main points was that Lincoln would not have tolerated irresponsible speeches from Government members.

"Sometimes I am afraid of what might start a third World War," Sandburg boomed. "It is liable to come because of a number of loose mouths around.

The Civil War itself could have been averted had there been no "reckless utterances." South America—principally through the attitude of the Catholic Church—managed "by a series of measures to abolish slavery without the awful ordeal of blood," the poet-historian maintained.

Cannot Be Projected

But some of Sandburg's most illuminating conclusions concerned the reasons Lincoln's actions cannot be projected from the post-Civil War era to the post-World War II era.

"Lincoln dealt with a nation of 30 millions, eight millions of which were in rebellion. Today there are 120 millions more—a nation vastly larger in population. Vast areas in his time were barren. . . .

"Lincoln dealt with the Civil War. He know the people of the South; he came out of Kentucky. And he lived most of his life in the North.

"He was," Sandburg said, "keenly attuned to both North and South.

"There is today no American statesman who is so attuned, so sensitive to Europe and Asia as Lincoln was to two sections of the country."

And so, he said, "we arrive at a point at which it is illogical to ask, 'What would Lincoln do today?'"

Further, "the idea—the conception—of a World War I, or a World War II, would have been inconceivable in Lincoln's time."

Communication and transportation today are fabulous—would have astounded Lincoln's contemporaries. But Sandburg thought Lincoln "could have understood" the fact that a jet plane can cross a continent in less than seven hours:

"He had a mind for science."

"We have to consider," Sandburg warned, "that he made the point (at the time the question of abolition was pressing him) that we had no precedents—what steps to take day to day.

"So definitely that will go now, when communications are instantaneous throughout the globe."

Miss Wiegand Wins Church Unit Award

The Washington Post
MISS BARBARA WIEGAND
. . . Honored by church group

Miss A. Barbara Wiegand was presented the Washington Federation of Churches' annual "Layman of the Year" award yesterday.

She became the second woman to win the honor in the past 12 years.

The Rev. Carl Heath Kopf, minister of the First Congregational Church, presented Miss Wiegand a plaque in recognition of "distinguished service rendered in the development of the moral and religious life of the city." He headed a five-man federation committee which made the selection.

Miss Wiegand, in accepting the honor, paid tribute to the "fellowship" which made her "leadership" possible. She said she had been doing church work all her life, and the award came for "doing what comes naturally."

Native of Washington

A Washington native, Mss Wiegand is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. She was the first woman vice president of the Federation, and at present is on the Federation's board of directors, a member of its business and finance department and of the evaluaton study committee of the Federation and the Washington Council of Church Women, as well a member of the latter's executive committee.

She is president of the Women's Board of the National Lutheran Home here, and a member of the board of education of the United Lutheran Church in America.

A resident of 5924 16th st. nw., Miss Wiegand is secretary of the Martin Wiegand, Inc., Lumber Co.

Dr. Adams Speaks

Several hundred persons attended the luncheon held in the Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw., which was also addressed by the Rev. Dr. Earl Adams, executive secretary of the planning commission for the new National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States.

He described the unification of the eight interdenomination agencies, including the Federal Council of Churches, which will take place in Cleveland November 28-December 1.

He stressed that it was a merger of "church agencies," not a merger of denominations.

Milk Group Enters Source Fight Again

The Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association jumped back into the squabble over the sources of District milk yesterday by asking to be heard on requested changes in District milk regulations.

Last week three independent dairies here asked the District Commissioners for: (1) 10 changes in regulations that would make it easier for their producers to qualify for District permits; and (2) an extension from October 31 to next June 30 of the wartime order permitting importation of milk from farms not inspected by the District Health Department.

The independents had contended at hearings last summer that cutting off imported milk would give a monopoly to the association which now supplies about 85 percent of the District supply. They then asked changes in regulations.

Association Attorney William E. Leahy yesterday asked Daniel L. Seckinger, Director of Public Health for the District, for information on the changes requested and for permission to be heard on them.

Wrote Leahy: "We know that nearly all of the farms proposed by them (independent dairies) . . . have failed miserably to meet the minimum requirements . . ."

On extension of the importation order, Leahy wrote:

"If we successfully withstood the danger from inferior milk during the war it is hardly an argument now to break down regulations so that we should continue the danger when necessity for continuance no longer exists."

British Plan Town Heating With A-Energy

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP).—British scientists are designing equipment to warm towns and industrial plants with the heat from atomic energy piles.

A Ministry of Supply announcement today said engineers at the Harwell atomic energy station will start building the necessary machinery early next year. Their first project will be to heat all the buildings of the Harwell establishment. It is hoped to supply heat to towns near atomic energy plants.

Atomic piles produce intense heat, which now is thrown off by passing air out through tall chimneys.

"One of the difficulties of using this heat is to find metals that can withstand it," a ministry official said.

Czech Catholic Bishop and Aide Vanish

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 10 (AP). The Vatican radio said today that Bishop Paul Gojdic of Presov, head of the Catholic Eastern Rite Church in Czechoslovakia, has vanished from his diocese and no word has been received from him.

Bishop Basil Hopkow, auxiliary to Bishop Gojdic and Vicar General of Presov, also has disappeared, the report said.

The broadcast also said Czechoslovakia's Communist regime has increased its activity against priests in a drive "to annihilate the Catholic Church in Czechoslovakia and force its union with the Orthodox Church."

More than 100 priests in the Presov region have been jailed, the Vatican said.

The Eastern Rite represents a small minority of Catholics in Czechoslovakia. It stems from that branch of the Catholic faith which turns to the Greek rather than the Latin tradition.

TB Pregnancy Peril Discounted

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 10.—A Norfolk internist today told Virginia doctors tubercular women may have children without harm to themselves. This conclusion was promptly challenged.

The controversial subject in medical practice high-lighted a virutal "family doctors day" in the current 103d annual meeting of the Medical Society of Virginia, at Hotel Roanoke, here. Some 800 doctors are attending the sessions, which end Wednesday.

Dr. Alfred L. Kurger, assistant chief of the tuberculosis division at Norfolk hospital, precipitated the tuberculosis-pregnancy dispute with a review of his findings in 128 births among 110 tubercular patients.

He said he found "no evidence that pregnancy or delivery exerts a deleterious effect" in the course of the mother's disease. The patients, he said, ranged from mild to severe stages of tuberculosis.

Dr. Kurger said his studies were carried out with Drs. Robert S. and Samuel A. Cosgrove, at the Pollak Hospital for Chest Diseases and the Margaret Hague Maternity Hospital, both in Jersey City, N. J.

Chief Challenges

At his report's end, he was challenged by his own chief, Dr. C. Lydon Harrell, of the Norfolk hospital, for "presenting one side of the case excellently, but leaving the other to the imagination."

"Dr. Kurger does not mention, nor does he know, what happens to the mother three or six months later" declared Dr. Harrell, incoming president of the MSV. "He can not tell us whether the mother breaks down, or the child develops tuberculosis meningitis."

Dr. Harrell said that in his opinion only minimal and moderately advanced cases of tuberculosis may be taken safely through pregnancy. In such cases, he added, the child should be taken immediately from the mother, and the mother returned to the sanatorium.

No one disputed the accepted fact that a child is born free of tuberculosis, but may acquire the communicable disease from its tubercular mother.

In an earlier session, the practicing physicians debated the benefits of cortisone, the new wonder drug, on rheumatoid arthritis. Some objected to the newsstories, which they said have been "too glowing."

Some Disappointed

The "most distressing feature about cortisone therapy," said one general practitioner, "was the 'disappointment' in his patients when continued use of the costly drug failed after three or four months "despite any changes we make in the dosage."

Another doctor arose to confess he tried to persuade one of his patients against taking the drug, only to "feel very humble" later. The patient, he said, was 60 years old, deformed and virtually bedridden with arthritis of 40 years duration.

Today, the doctor said, the patient shaves, feeds and dresses himself, on a minimal daily dose of the drug. The doctor described the conversion, since July, as "one of the greatest miracles I have seen in my practice of medicine."

English Births Decline

LONDON (Wednesday), Oct. 11 (AP).—The registrar general today reported the birth rate in England and Wales for the second quarter of 1950 dropped to 16.7 per 1000 population. Last year the rate was 17.6 per 1000. Births in the quarter totaled 181,784, compared with 192,038 for the same period last year.

Army to Probe Camp Pickett Conditions

The Army Department said yesterday it has directed Second Army Headquarters to make an investigation and "full report" on charges by Congress members about conditions at Camp Pickett, Va., where the federalized Forty-third National Guard Division is in training.

The request was sent to the Fort Meade, Md., headquarters of the Second Army yesterday.

The complaints came from Senator Green and Representatives Forand and Fogarty, Rhode Island Democrats.

Their protest included insufficient food, lack of recreation, insufficient clothing, poor telephone facilities, an 11 p. m. curfew and a parking area 2 miles away from the division area.

Meantime Gen. Mark Clark, chief of Army field forces, after studying enlisted men's complaints gave Camp Pickett a clean bill of health.

After a personal inspection tour Monday Clark said food is ample, winter uniforms are available and the Second Army will expand recreation facilities.

Widespread Use of Home Garbage Disposal Units Forecast

Home garbage disposal units some day may be in almost universal usage, the Federation of Sewage and Industrial Wastes Associations was told yesterday.

Morris M. Cohn, a public health engineer of Schenectady, N. Y., and editor of Sewage and Industrial Engineering, reported more than a half million disposal units are in use. The federation opened a four-day meeting Monday at the Statler Hotel.

"Some communities still prohibit the use of home units," said Cohn. "Some [do so] by ordinance and others by unwritten rulings for reasons of ineffective sewer design, inadequate sewers, overloaded or no treatment facilities."

But Jasper, Ind., he said, has outlawed the garbage can in favor of the disposal unit. The town is "backed by the first State law in history that permits municipalities to purchase, install and finance home waste units as a sanitation utility."

How AMITONE Relieves And Automatically Regulates

AMITONE'S patented formula works two ways to bring relief. First, because it contains the safest, fastest acid neutralizer known, it immediately relieves the pain caused by the pressure of excess acid stomach gases on the sensitive cardiac end of the stomach (see arrow). Second, it continues the relief longer because wonder-working Glycine as used in AMITONE acts as an "automatic regulator," keeping the digestive juices at the "good digestion" level for longer periods of time.

Glycine Does More

The Glycine in AMITONE makes it impossible to overalkalize, protects you against alkalosis or "acid rebound" no matter how many tablets you take. AMITONE is completely safe, will not constipate or cause laxation. Won't rob the stomach of digestive enzymes.

EATS BIG DINNER, SLEEPS WELL—THANKS TO AMITONE!

IT'S WONDERFUL TO SEE YOU EAT LIKE THIS, DEAR, BUT YOU'LL ROLL AND TOSS ALL NIGHT WITH GAS PAINS
I'D LIKE SOME MORE OF THAT PUDDING... DON'T WORRY ABOUT ME, DEAR, I'VE GOT A SECRET
I DECLARE! HE SLEPT THE NIGHT THROUGH AND NEVER EVEN TOUCHED HIS BAKING SODA
ZZZZ
WELL, TELL ME THE BIG SECRET... HOW COULD YOU SLEEP LIKE THAT AFTER SUCH A BIG RICH DINNER?
AMITONE! ONLY TWO LITTLE AMITONE TABLETS BUT, OH, BOY! WHAT A DIFFERENCE! THEY START TO WORK RIGHT AWAY AND KEEP ON WORKING. MY STOMACH NEVER BOTHERED ME ALL NIGHT!

So Convenient-Tastes So Good

You never know when gas pains or heartburn will strike. So follow the lead of other AMITONE users and carry AMITONE in your pocket or purse wherever you go—to work, to parties, in the car, shopping, everywhere.

Melts in Your Mouth Refreshing Minty Flavor

These quick acting little tablets dissolve almost instantly on the tongue and immediately you taste their refreshing clean flavor. We guarantee you'll never go back to old-fashioned, chalky-tasting, slow-dissolving preparations once you've tried AMITONE.

Take AMITONE To Stop Needless Suffering From "Hurry-Worry Stomach"

It's the life you lead, doctors say, that gives you "Hurry-Worry Stomach!" Gulping meals on the run . . . working under pressure . . . worrying about the kids and the bills . . . that's what brings on those sudden attacks of gassy acid indigestion and heartburn!

Yes, modern living takes its toll, causing your system to secrete excess amounts of stomach acids until inevitably you have an acid stomach condition.

Because medically-proven AMITONE goes to work fast to relieve acid stomach, it has helped thousands of "Hurry-Worry Stomach" cases. Two small AMITONE tablets will bring soothing, comforting relief for nervous stomach upsets . . . let you keep on the go all day.

If you have the kind of job that keeps you under constant strain, whether in office, factory, store, or running your home, acid indigestion can make life miserable. Don't suffer needlessly any longer. Start today to enjoy AMITONE'S guaranteed relief.

There's Only One GENUINE AMITONE

Make sure you get the genuine AMITONE, for it alone contains the "automatic regulator" (Glycine). Look for the U. S. Govt. Patent number (2,429,596), prominently shown on every package.

Druggists know the secret of AMITONE'S sensational relief. They understand the basic principles involved in AMITONE'S exclusive and medically proven formula — the scientific combination of ingredients — the new, ingenious way this antacid works. These are what make AMITONE so outstanding in the antacid field. His knowledge of how AMITONE works led Mr. Peter Seeberg, Buffalo, N. Y. pharmacist, to say, "AMITONE is as fine an antacid as I've ever sold."

Wiley Declares GOP Clear in Crime Quiz

Democrats are more to blame than Republicans for tieups between crime and politics in the United States, Senator Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.) asserted yesterday.

A member of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, he took issue with Committee Chairman Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), who said inquiries so far show crime is "bipartisan," with criminals playing "both sides of the street."

"The major responsibility for the tieup between crime and crooked politics is at the doorstep of the Democratic Party," Wiley said in a statement.

"To invoke in effect a plague on both Democratic and Republican Party houses is completely unfair, I believe, to the Republican Party which has certainly kept its house relatively clean."

Wiley said practically all major crime exposes have centered around big city political machines which, he asserted "are practically entirely Democratic-controlled."

Those machines, he said, "have invariably been the nesting place for every sort of politically protected hoodlum."

Wiley had no criticism for Kefauver, who, he said, has been "tremendously conscientious and diligent" and completely fair to each witness.

Asked About His Wealth

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—Senate Crime Committee agents questioned a third wealthy police captain today and said he would be called back again to elaborate on where he gets his money.

Col. George S. White, chief investigator for the committee, questioned Capt. Thomas Harrison of the rich Gold Coast and night club district for an hour and 15 minutes.

Afterward, White said Harrison "is a likely candidate for a return visit" before the committee.

White yesterday questioned Capts. Louis Klatzco and Joseph Goldberg, who is reported to own an Arizona ranch. White indicated that both gave satisfactory explanations of their income.

But he said Harrison "is different," although he refused to elaborate.

The crime committee turned its attention to police incomes after learning that some police officials live in luxurious houses and drive expensive cars.

Harrison was under fire recently by the Chicago Crime Commission with disclosure of the fact that former gambling kingpin William (Billy) Skidmore held the first mortgage on his fashionable home.

University Group Votes Recheck on 5 Fired Teachers

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 10 (U.P.). The University of California Academic Senate began a study of teachers' tenure today after unanimously voting that its committee recheck the firing of five faculty members in June.

About 500 members approved the investigation. The faculty felt that the five should be rehired unless were were evidence suggesting they were Communists.

The five did not state their beliefs on communism when they were discharged. Twenty-seven professors have been fired by the board of regents for failing to sign a non-Communist statement.

50,000 Legionnaires Parade For 6 Hours at Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10 (AP).—Fifty thousand strong, the American Legion today paraded through downtown streets before a cheering, shirt-sleeved crowd that jammed sidewalks five and six deep.

Newspaper estimates of the throng ran over a million, but police sidestepped guessing at a figure.

The temperature was in the middle seventies and the sun shone hazily through a product that wasn't invited—smog.

The rat-a-tat-tat of the uncounted drum and bugle corps thundered up and down Broadway as the river of men and metal rolled along the two-mile route. The parade, six miles long, thus had many units dispersing before others were formed.

First came cars bearing Honorary Grand Marshal Perry Brown and Grand Marshal Brig. Gen. Leroy H. Watson and their staffs.

Snappy units of the Thirteenth Armored Division of the California National Guard followed. Caterpillar-treaded dreadnoughts clawed along the asphalt streets, mounting 155 mm. howitzers. The big guns shot off blank charges. Fifteen giant M4A3 Sherman tanks also lumbered along, accompanied by truckloads of infantrymen in full combat gear.

Who Runs America?

the Congress? the President?

OR YOU AND THE MAN NEXT DOOR?

RUNNING AMERICA is the joint job of 150,000,000 people. It's the biggest job in the world today—keeping it running for liberty and for freedom. And the whole world's watching to see whether Americans can do it!

IN MUCH OF THE WORLD today, the people have resigned from running their own countries. Others have been quick to step in—first with promises of "security"—and then with whips and guns—to run things their way. The evidence is on every front page in the world, every day.

FREEDOM COMES UNDER ATTACK. The reality of war has made every American think hard about the things he's willing to work and fight for—and freedom leads the list.

But that freedom has been attacked here recently—just as it has been attacked in other parts of the world. One of the most serious threats to individual freedom has been the threat of Government-dominated Compulsory Health Insurance, falsely presented as a new guarantee of health "security" for everybody.

THE PEOPLE WEIGH THE FACTS. In the American manner, the people studied the case for Socialized Medicine—and the case against it.

They found that Government domination of the people's medical affairs under Compulsory Health Insurance means lower standards of medical care, higher payroll taxes, loss of incentive, damage to research, penalties for the provident, rewards for the improvident.

They found that no country on earth can surpass America's leadership in medical care and progress. They found that able doctors, teachers, nurses and scientists—working in laboratories where Science, not Politics, is master—are blazing dramatic new trails to health for Americans—and for the world.

THE "GRASS ROOTS" SIGNALS CONGRESS. In every community in the Nation, people stood up to be counted on this important issue. Thousands of local women's clubs, civic groups, farm, business, religious, taxpayer, medical, educational and patriotic organizations spoke out—giving the great United States Congress its unmistakable Grass Roots signal from home!

And ever watchful, ever sensitive to an alert people, The Congress saw that signal, and heard the people speak out, loud and plain. That's democracy in action. That's the American way!

Today among the 10,000 great organizations on militant public record against "Compulsory Health Insurance" are:

- General Federation of Women's Clubs
- American Farm Bureau Federation
- National Grange
- Veterans of Foreign Wars
- National Conference of Catholic Charities
- American Protestant Hospital Association
- American Legion
- National Association of Small Business Men
- United States Chamber of Commerce
- National Association of Retail Grocers
- National Retail Dry Goods Association
- American Bar Association

• Doctors of this Nation are grateful that the people refused to be wooed by the fantastic promises of this un-American excursion into State Socialism. • Doctors of America are dedicated to serve their fellow citizens at home and their comrades in uniform, wherever service to this Nation may take them. • And the thing they stand ready to fight for—to sacrifice for—to die for—is not the alien way of life of Socialism, but the prideful security of a free and self-reliant people!

THE VOLUNTARY WAY IS THE AMERICAN WAY!

• Throughout the Nation, free men and women, working and planning together, are finding the American answer to every question of medical service, care and cost. Hundreds of Voluntary Health Insurance Plans are in healthy competition—sponsored by doctors, insurance companies, hospitals, fraternal organizations—by industry, agriculture and labor. • Today in America—70 million people are protected by Voluntary Health Insurance! • Throughout the Nation, families are insuring themselves against the major costs of illness—at reasonable, budget-basis prices. Voluntary Health Insurance takes the economic shock out of illness. Protect your family now. • For information, ask your doctor—or your insurance man.

An American's greatest heritage is the right to learn the facts—and to speak his mind. Maintained with honor and used with sincerity—that right will guarantee forever that

Roosevelt, Warren Praised by Barkley

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10 (AP).—Vice President Alben W. Barkley slipped into Los Angeles amid the American Legion national convention hubbub yesterday for a news conference, a Democratic dinner and a Democratic rally.

He told reporters that "I'm not in California to attack the Republicans. I have great respect for the Governor of this State (Republican Earl Warren).

"I am not attacking Governor Warren. I am calling attention to Mr. Roosevelt's (James Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for Governor), experience and the fact that he was overwhelmingly nominated as the candidate of his party. I don't have to draw comparisons between them."

When questions turned to Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, and her congressional voting record, Barkley said: "I'm not familiar with all of Mrs. Douglas' votes. I'm quite sure Mrs. Douglas voted her conscientious convictions. The mere fact that she voted the same as Marcantonio (Representative Vito Marcantonio, New York, American Labor Party), I don't regard as of any significance. He didn't influence her vote."

The vice president in his broadcast address at the rally reviewed American foreign policy. He said the tragic cost of Korea would be worthwhile if the world's aggressors learn that they can't have their way without opposition from the United Nations, thus bringing peace to the world.

Green Backs Sen. Lucas As True Friend of Labor

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 10 (AP).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, says Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) should be reelected because he is "a tried and true friend of labor."

Green addressed 1500 AFL union leaders at the convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor yesterday. The delegates represent about 800,000 Illinois AFL members—more than half of them in Chicago.

Green told the crowd at Peoria's Armory that he is "convinced" Senator Taft (R., Ohio) will be defeated November 7 by Democrat Joseph Ferguson.

Delegates cheered and converted the convention into something like a political rally when Green assailed Republican Everett M. Dirksen, election opponent of Lucas, and Taft, coauthor of the Taft-Hartley labor law which organized labor is trying to get repealed.

Machinists' Board Favors Rejoining AFL

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP).—The International Association of Machinists executive council today unanimously recommended reaffiliation of the 600,000-member independent union with the American Federation of Labor, which it left five years ago.

A. J. Hayes of Washington, IAM president, said the union rank and file will vote on the reaffiliation question in each of the union's 1800 local lodges probably in January.

Hayes said all differences between the union and the AFL, which led to the IAM withdrawal from the AFL in 1945, have been worked out, and a verbal understanding has been reached. The machinists were reported to have been at odds with AFL carpenters in a jurisdictional dispute.

The IAM executive council recommended reaffiliation after hearing a long report from Hayes on the talks with the AFL executive council.

Hayes told the IAM grand lodge representatives and district council and local union business agents who met here yesterday and today that negotiations have been concluded successfully on five points originally proposed by IAM officers last January.

Phone Workers Ask 'Voluntary' Pay Increase

Workers are seeking a "voluntary" wage increase from the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., it was learned yesterday.

A request for such a pay boost has been presented to C. & P. by Division 36, CIO Communications Workers of America, representing 3500 craft and commercial employes.

Union sources said a meeting is scheduled this morning between representatives of Division 36 and the company. There was "no comment" from C. & P.

Division 50, CWA, which speaks for 2700 telephone operators, is understood to be preparing a similar request for a "voluntary wage increase."

Both CWA divisions have work contracts with C. & P. which do not run out until next May.

The Gallup Poll

Democratic Strength Growing; Turnout of Voters Is Problem

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 10.—The Democrats enter the homestretch in the Congressional races with an important advantage—and a serious problem.

The party can lay claim to being the major party in the United States, a 10-year trend being definitely in its favor. That is the advantage.

But while numerically the Democrats have a substantial margin over the G. O. P., the problem is to get their supporters to the polls on election day.

In contrast to the Democrats, the Republican Party in off-year elections can count on a fairly high turnout of its membership.

It was to a great extent the Democratic failure to get their own followers out in the last two mid-term elections, 1942 and 1946, that gave the G. O. P. substantial gains in the House of Representatives. This explains the current almost frantic effort of Democratic leaders to "get out the vote" in this year's mid-term race.

Surveys conducted over the last 10 years by the American Institute of Public Opinion, show that the high tide of Republican strength was reached in 1946.

In 1940 the "spread" between the two parties on this question amounted to only 4 percentage points in favor of the Democrats. In 1950 the difference is 12 points in favor of the Democrats.

In short, a diminishing proportion of the population considers itself Republican.

The following table gives the story. Voters were asked:

"In politics, as of today, do you consider yourself a Republican, Democrat, Progressive or Independent?"

	'40	'44	'48	'50
Democratic	42%	41%	42%	45%
Republican	38	39	34	33
Independent	19	20	23	21
Minor parties	1	*	1	1
	100%	100%	100%	100%

*Less than 1 percent. (In 1948 and 1950, the term "Progressive" was used in the question while in earlier years the term "Socialist" was used. The questions were otherwise comparable.)

Siberian Border

The Minister-Counselor of the American Embassy in Moscow has acted properly in refusing to accept the Russian protest over the alleged strafing of a Siberian airfield by two United States fighter planes. Any protest, if a protest is warranted, ought to go to the United Nations, at whose instance and direction the putting down of aggression in Korea is being conducted. Russia knows this, and her insistence that the matter is one solely between the Soviet and American governments is merely more of the Kremlin propaganda line—the propaganda which singles out the United States as "the enemy" and ignores the U. N.

Whether there is truth to the charge of border violation is something that must be determined by investigation, and there is no reason to suppose that the Air Force will not acknowledge a mistake if one has been made. Despite the halt in strategic bombing of industrial targets in North Korea, the Air Force is still striking at Communist supply lines and routes. It is not impossible that F-80 fighters strafing convoys coming through the narrow corridor where Russia adjoins North Korea inadvertently strayed across the border.

Since the violation of a Manchurian airfield in August the Air Force has taken precautions against repetition. Targets near the border are restricted, pilots are carefully picked and missions are conducted only in clear weather. These precautions do not, of course, rule out the possibility of an accident or even the deliberate ignoring of instructions, and the very touchiness of the situation makes a thorough investigation imperative. Military activities near the Soviet border are dangerous business, and while it is not likely that Russia would choose such an incident to touch off a general war at this point, we ought to avoid giving her a pretext. The Air Force might well forgo operations which might go awry in this respect.

In the larger sense, however, neither the Russians nor the rest of the world can have any illusions about why such an incident happened, if it did happen. Soviet support of the aggression in Korea is known to everyone. If the Russians are really interested in preventing border incidents, they have only to cease their support of aggression. Then the way would be open for them to join with other members of the United Nations, as well as Communist China, in a pacification commission to insure that the fighting is confined to Korea.

Endurance Test

For the seventh time in the course of five years, John Stewart Service, a career foreign service officer, has won formal designation as a loyal American citizen. He is now entitled, we think, to permanent possession of the coveted trophy—a trophy which most of us outside the Government claim for ourselves as a matter of course. He appears to have been guilty of nothing more than foresight respecting the dissolution of the Nationalist government of China and forthrightness in reporting his views to his superiors. For this offense, he was subjected to calumnies by Senator McCarthy. The McCarthy charges were carefully sifted by the Tydings Subcommittee and by the State Department's Loyalty and Security Board; both bodies declared them to be groundless and cleared Mr. Service of any suspicion of disloyalty.

Mr. Service's ordeal raises two questions of public importance beyond the injury done to him as an innocent individual. One is the question of the future of the Government loyalty program. The President declared it to be a principal purpose of this program to protect loyal employes of the Government from unjust accusation. In the case of Mr. Service, it has manifestly failed so far to do this. Unless the findings of the loyalty boards—the appropriate bodies for determining employe loyalty—are respected by members of Congress, the loyalty program is likely to suffer a breakdown.

The other question raised by the Service case concerns the independence of Federal workers. If loyal employes are to be maligned, as Mr. Service has been, for reporting facts or expressing opinions that displease members of Congress, the Government is likely to become the victim of faulty and inadequate intelligence. It is of particular importance that foreign service officers should call the turn as they see it from their outposts abroad. They cannot be expected to do this candidly unless they can feel confident that at least the good faith of what they say will be respected. They do not make final policy decisions, and their judgments must, of course, be subjected to checks; but policies can be shaped wisely in Washington only on the basis of realistic information. The Government needs not only loyal employes but also employes free enough and loyal enough to say what they believe.

Truman–MacArthur

President Truman's sudden decision to meet General MacArthur somewhere in the Pacific unloosed a flood of speculation that has been only partly curbed by the White House statement. Mr. Truman says that he wishes to discuss the final phase of the United Nations' action in Korea and the work of rehabilitating that strife-torn land. But he also makes it plain that his discussions with General MacArthur will range over various other subjects. One may readily assume that the discussions will be as extensive and as complex as the Far Eastern situation itself.

Before drawing any extreme conclusions about the conference it is well to remember that it is not unprecedented for the President to travel to the Pacific to meet a military commander. President Roosevelt went to Honolulu in 1944 to confer with General MacArthur and Admiral Nimitz on the conduct of the war and the command of the American forces in the Pacific. Nor is there any foundation for the hasty assumption that the President is out of order in conferring directly with the commander of the United Nations forces in Korea. General MacArthur is not directly responsible to the Security Council but to the President of the United States. It was the United States as a Nation that was made the agent of the Security Council in unifying the military effort in Korea. General MacArthur was in turn designated by the President to carry out this assignment. The relation between them was clearly indicated last August when the President disciplined the general by preventing him from giving a distorted view of American policy regarding Formosa in a speech prepared for delivery before the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Certainly there are plenty of issues on which a face-to-face discussion between the President and General MacArthur is desirable. One is Formosa. Having announced that the United States intends to withdraw the Seventh Fleet from Formosan waters as soon as the fighting in Korea is over, the President may wish to discuss that problem in detail. The wind-up of the war in Korea involves innumerable problems on which a clear understanding should be had. The question of what would be done in the case of direct Chinese or Russian intervention in the war also calls for hard-headed discussions and clear understandings. The public interest will undoubtedly be served by a first-hand exchange of information on these delicate problems and by unequivocal instructions from the Commander in Chief within the policy laid down by the United Nations General Assembly. Mr. Truman undoubtedly is alert to the political possibilities in the meeting, but the public business cannot stand still because an election campaign is in progress.

Peace Insurance

John Foster Dulles has focused attention upon an interesting bit of history that illuminates the desirability of strengthening the powers of the General Assembly to cope with aggression. In presenting the Acheson plan to the Political and Security Committee of the Assembly, Mr. Dulles recalled that when the United Nations Charter was taking shape at San Francisco 45 nations (the Little 45) stoutly opposed the granting of an absolute veto to the Big Five in the Security Council. To satisfy the Little 45 the U. N. founders wrote Article 10 into the Charter. It gives the General Assembly authority to discuss "any questions or any matters within the scope of the present Charter" and—when the Council is not dealing with such issues—to make recommendations to U. N. members. The provision was specifically designed to prevent a veto in the Security Council from having finality.

The small nations accepted this compromise, but it met opposition from the Russian delegation. It was not until the final days of the conference that the Soviet Union withdrew its objections. "The powers of the General Assembly we now invoke were won that day in San Francisco," said Mr. Dulles. "There is no occasion now to put them in question. Rather, now is the time to use the rights then so hardly won." It was understood at San Francisco, as it should be understood now, that in equipping the Assembly to move against an aggressor by means of recommendations to member nations, the responsibility of the Security Council is not weakened. On the contrary, as Mr. Dulles points out, the Council is much more likely to do its duty if it is known in advance that failure to act will have the effect of shifting the problem into the hands of the Assembly.

The potent appeal of Mr. Dulles' argument was demonstrated when Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky announced that he would agree to "some parts" of the plan for strengthening the U. N. What this means is not yet clear, but it is evident that the United States' leadership in strengthening the peace machinery of the U. N. has put Soviet propagandists the world over at a grave disadvantage. Soviet spokesmen profess to believe, as Mr. Dulles pointed out, that the United States has aggressive intentions. If they really believe that, they should be the first to support the proposal to give the Assembly eyes and ears in troubled areas, to enable it to hold emergency meetings and to recommend action against any aggressor. There seems to be little likelihood that the Soviet Union will follow any such course, but Mr. Vishinsky's squirming before the Political and Security Committee is sufficient evidence that he sees the appeal of this Western antiaggression plan to world opinion. While the Russians talk peace and foment aggression, the Western powers are actually creating machinery through which the peace-loving states can act together to protect themselves and put a maximum of insurance behind the peace.

Vargas' Victory

Although by no means all the votes in Brazil's presidential election have been recorded, it is evident that former President Getulio Vargas is the strong popular favorite. His lead over Gen. Eduardo Gomes of the National Democratic Union is commanding, and the government-backed candidate, Christiano Machado of the Social Democratic Party, has run a poor third. While the attitude of Senhor Vargas toward democratic government and toward the United States is an open question, there are several praiseworthy angles to his victory.

In the first place, it was a free election, conducted without intimidation, and Vargas' victory is so pronounced as to eliminate any charge of vote-fixing. Apparently the army stayed out of the election, as evidenced by the position of the Brigadeiro, as Gomes is popularly called. This abstention of the military from politics is an encouraging sign of maturity and civil supremacy. Finally, the very fact that the government-backed candidate ran third is in itself a healthy indication that the political machine in Brazil is not powerful enough to perpetuate itself in office.

In one sense the election is a peaceful revolution. There can be no question that the choice of Getulio (in Brazil all presidential candidates are known by their first names) reflects the growing power of labor and is a repudiation of the elite. Getulio has been the chameleon of Brazilian politics. He was ousted by the army five years ago when it became apparent that he might renege on his promise of new elections after a long period of dictatorship. Since then he has been a member of the Senate, in and out of the limelight, and at one time he played footie with the Communists. A master politician, he used a good deal of demagoguery in his campaign. It was largely at his insistence, for example, that Brazil did not send troops to Korea; but then he made capital by attacking the government for not meeting its obligation. His anti-United States tone softened after Korea, but he played deftly upon grievances aroused by the unfortunate Gillette coffee report and the feeling of some Brazilians that the United States has ignored their requests for loans.

An unknown quantity in the election was the problem of inflation, which has been outgoing President Dutra's gravest concern. Dutra, a colorless personality, got the blame for the rising cost of living, although he worked diligently to meet it, with no false promises, and gave Brazil a genuinely democratic regime where free institutions and civil liberties were respected. This will be the point on which Vargas will be most closely watched in view of his past record. It is hoped that the election will make no difference in the traditional friendship between Brazil and the United States, but beyond this, Brazil's influence is needed as a positive force for representative government in the Americas.

Canadian Volunteers

In the early days of the Korean war Canada was the object of some criticism, some of it unjustified, for the seeming slowness with which it came to the aid of the United Nations. Since that time Canada has contributed substantially in relation to her resources—three Canadian destroyers have taken part in the sea action, and a squadron of four-engined transports of the Royal Canadian Air Force has been shuttling supplies across the Pacific. But the most meaningful contribution of all is the one that Canada is currently preparing—a 10,000-man volunteer ground force, which, though designed as a combat unit, could become the nucleus of a U. N. police force in Korea.

The very raising of such a force represents a fundamental change in Canadian defense policy, as Prime Minister St. Laurent noted the other day. In the old days there was a legal restriction against sending Canadian troops overseas without specific sanction of Parliament. Now, as a result of new legislation this summer, the government's powers have been strengthened. The present force may be used not only in combat in Korea, but elsewhere to meet Canada's obligations under the United Nations Charter and the North Atlantic Treaty—though in the latter instances the government is pledged to call Parliament within 10 days and report. Interestingly enough, the largest proportion of volunteers for the new force has come from Quebec, traditionally the most isolationist province of Canada.

Here is a force tailor-made not only for use as a part of the deterrent army to be stationed in Europe, as Mr. St. Laurent has mentioned, but more immediately for the sort of pacification duty that will follow the active military phase in Korea. In fact, Canada is one of the few nations with such a special force now in training and free of legal restrictions. We hope that Canadian authorities will see the particular value of this army of volunteers in protecting Korea—and that other countries will use it as a model for the discharge of their own joint responsibilities under the United Nations.

Virginia Pollution

The Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin is very reluctant to use "scare words" in describing the critical sanitary condition of the Potomac River in the Washington metropolitan area. Since many people do not use the river for recreational purposes, they are lukewarm toward any corrective measures.

This commission desires to emphasize the fact that dangers arising out of the sanitary condition of the river are not confined to those actually using the stream. The Potomac River is a tidal stream and the filth exposed along its banks between high and low tides is a notorious feeding place for insects, particularly flies. These insects are capable of carrying many types of diseases and we may not even be safe with the best type of protection in our own homes.

It should not be necessary for a tragedy to befall us in order to make us aware of the condition of the river. Should we permit the river to degrade into a cesspool, the threat to our health, welfare and security will be intensified to the breaking point.

The District of Columbia and the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission in Maryland are actually engaged in a program for cleaning up their pollution. The District of Columbia is now spending over $3 million as a part of a $11 million program for the expansion of its treatment plant which will ultimately render adequate treatment to all sewage from the east side of the river. In the meantime it is essential that Virginia communities do their part.

The Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin fully realizes the need for other improvements in Virginia, but appeals to the people to support the efforts of their governing bodies by voting for funds to construct pollution abatement facilities as their contribution to the overall effort for the protection of the people in the Washington metropolitan area.

Power For Peace

I think the Administration underestimates the intelligence of the American public if it thinks it must count on the irritation of Russian denunciations and the fear of military defeat to maintain an adequate Department of Defense.

The situation as I see it is this: The people of the world have lost faith in the ability of physical force to combat ideological challenges. The voter is therefore more inclined to support a defense program that is merely an adjunct to an over-all plan for peace that utilizes every known avenue and seeks to find others. We Western fans like our sheriff to hold a gun all-right, but we expect him to use it to back up his insistence that the judge, not his gun, settle the dispute.

When Mr. Harriman declares that only force is effective in any arena, he displays a most disturbing lack of confidence in the superior power of democracy with freedom as against dictatorship with coercion. I think that if we use it for all it's worth, its superiority will be demonstrated, and more convincingly than guns can do it. A man who knows the power of electricity doesn't have his feelings hurt when the power is challenged. He merely says, "So you don't think electricity will do it? Come here, Bub. I'll show you."

Truman And Lewis

Regarding the recent facetious rumpus between President Harry S. Truman and Mr. John L. Lewis, I, as one Mr. John Q. Citizen, wish to voice my opinion.

I voted for Harry S. Truman in November 1948. I am not apologizing for that. I would again. I spent 15 years of my life in the Appalachian coal fields. My moral support has ever gone to the United Mine Workers of America. Harry S. Truman is the top man of the greatest and best governed country in the world. John L. Lewis is the leader of a great and humane labor organization. All glory to both of them.

I cannot fathom those who would bring down the American living standard. I feel that all those who have bitter and cruel things to say about the Fair Deal and labor unions would do just that. I have a lot of admiration for both Mr. President and for Mr. Lewis. WILLIAM K. TINSLEY.

AMA Kitty

My attention has been called to the fact that the American Medical Association is about to launch a publicity campaign against Federal medical-aid legislation in which it will spend about one million dollars and entice others to spend about 20 million dollars on advertising tie-ins. This is indecent, immoral and contrary to good sense.

If there is a favored group in the United States it is the doctors. They have a costly education handed to them at a fraction of what that education costs the medical college. They need nothing more than a medical degree to go to the head of the class in income, and many become rich in a few years. They are given special privileges. Yet they fight tooth and nail against anybody other than themselves having anything to say about what shall be done toward giving everybody more adequate medical care. They fight to the last ditch against expanding the medical colleges. They are guardians over life itself for all of us yet their group attitude is selfish and mercenary.

The doctors say, of course, they are fighting "socialized" or "state" medicine. Those terms are used because they imply there is something evil in Federal aid to equalize medical-care facilities and reduce Government costs. Actually, nobody wants to put medical care under a Government bureau. All that anybody wants is to help everybody get the medical care he needs. A. J. HASKELL.

Drafting Veterans

As the mother of two sons who served, respectively, four and one-half years and two years in combat, I think that I have something to say about the draft as it is conducted today. Both are above the draft age at the moment. However, if they were called, I know they would go, and if I objected they would in all probability say, "Now, mother, you keep out of this."

There must be thousands of veterans who sat on their rears in the good old States while my sons and thousands upon thousands of compatriots were in combat. These chair sitters—those men excused because of preferential work, those so-called farmers, etc.—should have a chance to find out what combat is like.

There must be many, many men who remained, worked in uniform, who could go now. They had all the comforts of home while others, when they could, piled into tents still dressed in all of their clothes, including their shoes and overcoat and the blankets they could scrounge, for maybe a few hours of sleep.

I can't see why those stateside veterans should not go before the men sent outside and those who were in combat units. L. P. S.

"Atrocities In Korea"

In its October 9 editorial on atrocities in Korea, The Washington Post concludes that "Even though total war is horrible in itself, the civilized world must always attempt to check the deliberate descent into bestiality and barbarism." That is a fine sentiment and one with which, I am sure, all Americans will concur.

It seems to me, however, that while we are rightly protesting against the "illegal" use of floating mines by the North Koreans, we should examine a little more closely into some of the "legal" devices employed by our own armed forces to subdue the enemy. I refer specifically to that instrument of diabolism, the flame thrower.

Can we be said to be truly civilized when, at short range and with calculated deliberation, we roast alive other human beings? Can we be said to be a truly compassionate people when we look, without horror and without revulsion, upon pictures of "Burned Reds" such as the one published in Life magazine? We all, in our hearts, know the answers to these questions.

Most of my life has been spent as a professional soldier, yet I pray for the time when universal peace may be maintained honorably without recourse to war. Until that time we should do what we can to advance our so-called civilization. One way to prove our good intentions might be to seek to classify the flame thrower with poison gas, as a weapon so inhuman that its use would be banned by universal agreement.

Evicted Dogs

The Animal Welfare League of Alexandria, Inc., has noted with horror and disgust the eviction notices confronting tenants in certain Alexandria housing projects —Cameron Valley, Chinquapin Village, John Roberts Homes, George W. Parker Homes and Samuel Madden Homes—if they fail to get rid of their pets by November 1. Certainly in an enlightened age in which we like to pride ourselves as living, it is difficult to believe that such ruthlessness and lack of sentiment can prevail to the extent that people are faced with the prospect of homelessness for no other reason than ownership of a pet.

The restriction not only applies to future tenants but to those now living there who have had their pets for months and years. Surely any one who has ever had a pet knows that that animal is as much a part of the family and family life as any human member. To deprive people of their pets is not only heartless but smacks of the very principle we protest in other countries, that is, rule of the iron hand of a few over hapless many. We of the Animal Welfare League of Alexandria register our indignation and disapproval and do earnestly hope that those responsible for this outrage will reconsider and rescind the order.

Doctor Bonus

Another mystery of the times is why doctors and dentists should get a bonus of $100 per month if they volunteer for the armed forces. Just what is it that makes them more valuable than other professional people? It would seem there is not enough drain on the national income, we must pay more taxes to give bonuses to doctors and dentists.

Much is said of the scarcity of doctors. Why not comb through the ranks of the private practitioners of psychiatry, for example, and put the many who are fattening their bank accounts through foolish women, to doing something useful? TAXPAYER.

U. S. Pilgrims On Wheels

By Malvina Lindsay

From Shrine to Shrine

THIS SEASON'S shrine pilgrims will soon be back at their television hearthstones watching today's jittery world unfold in their living rooms. But often their minds will flash wistfully to the quiet majesty of Mount Vernon, Monticello, Stratford, the remote calm of Williamsburg, even the brooding peace of Gettysburg.

Any encounter with this year's vacationists emphasized two things; that American restlessness and curiosity are at high tide and that our national shrines are drawing ever larger cavalcades of pilgrims.

Motor car production has helped swell the ranks of shrine tourists. But one also senses a widespread longing for the national security and remoteness that historic shrines symbolize to many tourists —also a tendency to contrast disparagingly the public men of today with the great men that these shrines honor. This could make an imprint on the balloting November 7.

Scenic wonders vied with shrines, especially in the West, and some indefatigable tourists included both. For the American vacation is one of movement rather than rest, of sightseeing rather than recuperation, though to some these are synonomous. Tonight at this lodge, hotel, tourist camp, tomorrow night at a place 300 miles distant. This shrine, or scenic wonder today, another — and bigger—one tomorrow. The motor car must have cut down materially on the porch and gossip brigades at summer resorts.

VIRGINIA is the shrine capital of the pilgrims, though many of them can cite endless strings of obeisant stopovers from the Coolidge home in Vermont to St. Augustine, Fla. This season the restored mansions of Washington, Jefferson, Monroe, Lee, Mason especially seemed in their calm perfection, their solid impregnability, refuges of the spirit from the uncertain, confused, contentious America without. This led many tourists into an attitude of "those were the days"—though in the next breath they bemoaned the hardships of baronial life without plumbing and of traveling by chaise over country roads to Washington.

Yet always the attitude that these mansions harbored demigods living in a sort of Arcadian world hangs on. Seldom does the shrine tourist think of the financial problems that bedeviled Jefferson through his public career, of the modest nest egg with which Monroe started his "cabin castle" (now Ash Lawn), adding to it as finances permitted. And who remembers that Washington endured much newspaper abuse and ridicule, that Jefferson in his public campaigns met slanders and gossip mongering?

At Monticello, however, the shrine tourists find it a little harder to retreat worshipfully into yesterday. For the spirit of Jefferson shrieks through the place "Tomorrow." Time and again tourists exclaim, "He certainly was a man ahead of his time!"

All of his inventions—the weathervane with its inside ceiling windvane, the glass doors that open automatically, the suspension bed, revolving chair, table and footrest that provide a chaise longue effect for working comfortably (such as some physicians recommend today), the dumb waiter—all these are constant reminder of a man who would not accept docilely the status quo, who wanted something better and set about getting it.

AT ASH LAWN where shrine tourists "Oh!" and "Ah!" about the ancient boxwood, and guides relate proudly that Monroe, the last President to wear Colonial attire, wouldn't change — though everyone else was changing—the tourist might happily think also of Monroe's ironic humor . . . "A little flattery enables a man to endure great fatigue" . . . "I don't believe in slavery but I don't know what I would do without it." They might also think of his courage in proclaiming the Monroe Doctrine that was as bold a gamble on a dangerous war as was the resistance to North Korean aggression a century and a quarter later.

In the Lee Mansion at Arlington shrine tourists also could well take time from admiring the beautiful furnishings to think about its builder, George Washington Parke Custis, that eager mental adventurer who dared to hold social and economic ideas in advance of his day and even to try some out among his labor.

And on James Island just beyond Williamsburg, where the illusion of eighteenth century living flows on so pleasantly, tourist pilgrims might also think of the daring and fortitude of the men and women who pioneered on that first fateful winter on the virgin continent.

As the lines to American shrines lengthen those suffering a nostalgia for an older and seemingly safer America might well remember that those who played it safe in the good old days didn't get enshrined.

Hitch-Hiking

Your October 5 edition has a nifty front page decoration in the photograph of the daughter of the owner of the W. M. & A. bus line hitching a ride. I wonder, however, if it is wise to publish it in view of the fact that we are trying to discourage hitch-hiking because of the many dangers involved? Young people seeing this attractive, well-dressed lady from a prominent family hitching a ride will certainly think it proper to emulate. ALFRED F. NIXON.

British Labor

By Marquis Childs

Utopia Versus Defense

LONDON—At the start of the effort to rearm the West, you find certain parallels between the Labor government here in London and the Truman Administration in Washington. They are both governments with reluctant, uncertain support, stuck on a kind of dead center of political and world crisis.

Childs

If there were an election in England this fall, as there is in the United States, the Labor Party would probably stay in power by the same marginal majority that gives the present government such an uneasy time. That is the view of Laborites and Conservatives.

But Prime Minister Attlee is said to be firmly opposed to having an election this year. He rules with a tight rein over eager beavers, such as Minister of Health Aneurin Bevan, who argue with considerable logic that now is the time for a showdown with the Tories.

The fear is that six months from now the Conservatives can win. The rearmament program will have forced prices up. Some of the bated economic controls may have to be restored and the Labor Utopia postponed for an indefinite period.

That is why many Laborites make a wry face over the rearmament program. They are swallowing the dose, but with a grim sort of reluctance. Things have just begun to get at least nearer a balance and then along comes this bloody armament business.

THE COMPLAINTS from the Conservative side sound like those that come from the Republicans. The Conservative press has been full of criticism of the British maneuvers held in the British zone in Germany. Equipment was for the most part outmoded and the Tories want to know where the money spent for defense has gone.

As in America, the fact is that a comparatively small amount—in comparison, that is, to the seriousness of the threat to peace—has been spent. According to American estimates, 6.8 percent of Britain's total gross national production has gone in the past two years for defense. The British themselves put the figure at 7½ percent. Under the expanded arms program it will go to approximately 10 percent.

Labor cabinet members talk hopefully of expanding production within their planned economy in such a way that their welfare state will not be harmed. But privately they are not too optimistic, especially as the world prices of such essential commodities as rubber and wool are soaring. And even now, before the expanded arms program has got started, the complaint against high prices is bitter and prolonged. The government can show statistically that the rise is small, but the housewife who goes to shop finds price tags higher.

While parallels can be discovered, there also are sharp differences between London and Washington, the Laborites and the Democrats. Attlee presides over a thoroughly disciplined party. Those who do not obey orders are read out, as were the wobbly leftists who persisted in opposing the party's determined stand against communism at home and abroad.

Thus the program of economic and social change goes forward. Some timid Laborites in the House of Commons would have liked to put off the issue of nationalizing the steel industry. But on party orders, they cast their votes to supply the slim majority of 6 out of 606 votes cast.

THE LABOR PARTY conference just ended at Margaret is an example of the kind of control exercised by the leadership. Resolutions sent up by the rank and file made plain the smoldering resentments, particularly on various phases of foreign policy. But the party machine rolled over them.

Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, just back from New York, is a powerful persuader. And he had some persuading to do.

In one wing of the party there is resentment over what is said to have been "dictation" by Secretary of State Acheson on German policy. According to this view, Acheson forced Bevin to agree in principle to the formation of German military units of division strength. Among some who hold influential positions in the Labor government the fear of Germany is as great as it is in France.

The decision on Germany fans the anti-American feeling that exists in some sections of the party. This comes out of a double-barreled delusion. One side of the delusion that lingers nostalgically from the past is that the Russians really don't mean any serious harm and that if they're just left alone, everything will be all right. The other and more insidious phase of the delusion is persistently cherished by the left-wingers who find expression in the New Statesman and Nation. This is that communism is inevitable anyway and therefore the best thing for Britons is to try to adapt themselves to the coming of the new era with as little pain and fuss as possible.

These disputes do not touch very directly the average voter. As with his counterpart in America, he grumbles over having to stir himself out of the peace and quiet that at long last he thought he was entitled to enjoy.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

The New Look

TOKYO. — American forces have now crossed the thirty-eighth parallel, and unless the enemy receives powerful external aid, the Korean war has entered its last phase. This simple fact, long forecast in this space, gives an entirely new look to the whole world situation.

On the still-existing problem of Soviet and/or Chinese intervention in Korea, there is very little that now needs to be said. If the Kremlin had been determined to win the Korean war, Stalin could have done so by sending in hardly more than a corporal's guard, dressed up in false whiskers to boot, at any time up to about a month ago. If the Kremlin had been determined not to lose its North Korean satellite, but overestimated North Korean capabilities, Stalin could have arranged preventive occupation of North Korea by the Chinese armies on the Yula River on D-day plus one after the Inchon landing.

Stalin took neither of these obvious steps. Therefore, if either the Chinese or Russians now intervene, at this late date, with so much water already over the dam, it will mean only one thing. It will mean that the Kremlin positively, actively and knowingly desires to plunge the world into a third world war.

UNDOUBTEDLY, now is the right time to intervene if another world war is what the Kremlin wants. Even for the Inchon landing, our forces in Korea were actually only reinforced by two Marine regiments plus the skeleton of an American division, the Seventh, with flesh put on it by incorporating South Korean infantry. But with the Third Division now entering Korea, we are as fully committed as we conceivably can be. With everything here, and with the rest of the world undefended except by our strategic Air Force, this is the time for the Kremlin to strike if the Kremlin chooses.

Unless every sign to date has been fantastically misleading, however, the Kremlin will not choose. If so, the world situation will have a new look for a whole series of reasons. On the one hand, there will be the previously suggested effect on our allies and potential allies of the discovery that there is an element of "bogeyman" in the remorseless Soviet power which has so terrified them all.

On the other hand, and even more important, is the effect on our own estimate of the Kremlin's capabilities. As for the Kremlin's intentions, these were all too clearly revealed by the crudeness and the naked aggression of the North Korean attack. That showed us what the Kremlin would do if it could, in a very helpful mind-clearing way.

There can no longer be any doubt at all that the Kremlin propelled the North Koreans into war on the flat, unquestioning assumption that they would meet with no opposition except from the feeble forces of the government of Syngman Rhee. There can no longer be any question that this action was intended to be the first step in a much larger scheme of Asiatic and European conquest—but conquest on the cheap.

THE QUESTION that has remained open is whether the Kremlin possessed the power, or believed that it possessed the power, to carry through this scheme of conquest at all costs, even if the great prizes could not be bought at bargain prices. This is the measure of the Kremlin's capabilities.

If the Kremlin accepts the loss of a satellite, as a poor pawn risked and taken in the world power-game, it means that we have time. It emphatically does not mean that we can forget the lesson of Korea; it emphatically does not mean that we can sink back into complacency while the Soviet Union continues to rearm and the Kremlin waits the chance for another, more sure aggression. But it does mean that if we now muster all our energies to build the Western strength that we forgot to build, we may have time for the job. With all-out effort, we may be able to achieve an effective, deterrent Western defense before the Kremlin is ready for another attack.

So dreadful has been our situation, so terrible has been our peril, that even this has been in serious doubt, and still is in partial doubt. But the immediate peril is diminishing, and may soon vanish altogether.

We cannot abandon vital positions for specious reasons. We cannot stop rearming. We cannot let ourselves worry about the heavy cost. We must go forward in the time we now have, until we achieve solid strength. Then, and only then, may we relax.

Korea, which is the worst mistake the Kremlin ever made, and a graver mistake than Hitler was ever guilty of, has set our feet on the hard road. It has also shown that the road, though hard, is almost surely safe. It has finally shown that any other road is a quick trip to suicide. In all these senses, despite the heavy cost in blood and treasure, Korea has been a net gain for America. This is the best way this reporter can sum up the meaning of Korea, as he prepares to return to the United States.

1950 Harvest Near a Record Despite Cuts

Although it stated that "growing, maturing and harvesting conditions in September were less than satisfactory," the Crop Reporting Board yesterday said this year's harvest will be the fourth largest in history.

Reductions in some stand-out crops, such as cotton, corn and wheat, have been overcome by increases in others, so that the aggregate will have been exceeded only in 1946, 1948 anad 1949, the report stated. The decreases in the three big crops as compared with a year ago ranged from 38 percent in cotton to about 10 percent in wheat and corn. All were attributable to reductions in acreages ordered by Congress.

The index for the 1950 harvest is 125 percent of the 1923-32 base, the board reported. "Only soybeans and sugar beets promise record production," it states, "but sorghum grain is virtually at the record point.

"Among other crops exceeding average production are corn, oats, flaxseed, rice, all hay, potatoes, tobacco, sugarcane, hops, apples, pears, berries and cranberries.

"Only slightly below average are wheat, barley, sweet potatoes and grapes. Relatively small crops include cotton, dry beans, peanuts, peaches, apricots and pecans. Only rye, buckwheat, dry peas and broom corn rate as very small crops."

In trimming yesterday's estimate of corn production as compared with last month's figures by 45 million bushels, the board warned that the crop faces further losses from frosts.

growing more than their allotments.

(Cotton is now selling for about 40 cents a pound. The all-time high was 43.75 cents a pound on July 22, 1920. The record low was 4.91 cents a pound on June 10, 1932—18 years ago.)

Reports vary as to the amount being destroyed. Texas and California sources have informed The Washington Post that thousands of bales in those states will not be harvested. On the other hand, Ralph S. Trigg, head of the Production and Marketing Administration that operates the Government's farm price support program, declared last night that the total "can't be more than 50,000 to 60,000 bales."

Here's the way the law works: A farmer is granted an allotment of so many acres to plant in cotton. He gets Government price support protection on the crops grown on the acres so allotted. If he plants more than the allotted acreage, he cannot sell the cotton from this extra land without paying a penalty, fixed at half the price support figure.

This year the price support level is slightly less than 30 cents a pound—set by the law at 90 percent of parity. Thus a farmer who has grown more than his allotted acreage of cotton must pay a penalty of 15 cents a pound on all cotton he sells from acreage above his allotments.

Some large planters have long followed the practice of overplanting their allotments. In the fall they plow under enough of the poorest-yielding acres to comply with the law. Although only about 5 per cent of the growers follow this practice, these are usually the largest growers, so that far more than 5 per cent of the acreage is affected.

Trigg stated there was not more than 100,000 acres overplanted in cotton this year. "We made a survey last August when this question first presented itself," he declared.

Trigg added that he expected most growers who have overplanted would harvest their cotton and pay the penalty. "With cotton at 40 cents a pound they could pay the penalty and still net 25 cents a pound," he said. "This would be profitable. They have got less than 25 cents a pound most of the time in the last 50 years."

Trigg also revealed that Government supplies of cotton have dwindled almost to the vanishing point. Only about 500,000 bales of cotton in the Commodity Credit Corporation's inventory remained yesterday. Last May CCC holdings amounted to 3,525,000 bales. This emphasizes the demand for cotton.

31 Agencies Cut $580 Million

ments to farmers won't be cut this crop year.

Foreign aid was cut 100 million dollars—50 million each for European recovery and relief in occupied areas. The Korean fighting has increased dollars available in Japan.

Federal Security Cut $88 Million

Federal Security Agency was cut $88,397,035, of which 75 million dollars was for hospital construction grants, a controversial item.

However, Budget explained 167 millions will be available the rest of this fiscal year for hospital grants.

The cut will affect four hospitals in Greater Washington:

1. Children's—A $121,000 allotment toward a $2,500,000 109-bed building will be cut to $75,000.

2. Casualty—A $200,000 grant toward a new $750,000 75-bed hospital will be cut to $127,000.

3. George Washington—A $150,000 allotment toward a $900,000 building for cancer patients will be cut to $75,000.

4. Arlington—A $207,000 grant toward a $375,000 building to double the 115-bed capacity will be eliminated, since Virginia's share of Federal funds—cut from 4 million dollars to 2 million dollars—has been committed elsewhere. Hospital to conduct drive immediately for $400,000, present estimate of the cost of construction.

Veterans Administration was cut $12,635,000, mainly because of the smaller number of hospital patients than had been estimated, and the reopening of several military hospitals. Interior was cut $73,012,000, the bulk of it on Reclamation and other construction projects. Public power projects will go ahead as planned. The 51-million-dollar cut for the Army's civil functions also exempts public power projects.

Housing & Home Finance was cut $15,750,000 which means this and its constituent agencies such as Public Housing and Federal Housing will have to abolish several hundred jobs. Among other reductions were: General Services, $21,500,000; Commerce, $21,245,000; Justice, $1,600,000; Labor, $7,622,000; State, $7,980,000, and Treasury, $2,000,500.

The Budget Bureau cut itself $50,000, the only agency affected in the President's offices. Other reductions:

Civil Service, $500,000; American Battle Monuments Commission, $3,000,000; Displaced Persons, $200,000; FCC, $50,000; Federal Power, $100,000; Federal Trade, $100,000; Interstate Commerce, $200,000; National Capital Parks and Planning, $125,000; National Gallery of Art, $25,000; National Labor Relations Board, $20,000; National Mediation Board, $36,000; Railroad Retirement, $19,827,800; SEC, $150,000; Smithsonian, $100,000; Tax Court, $17,000, and TVA, $3,000,000.

The agencies themselves have wide authority to apply the cuts.

D. C. Nonchain Sales Up 22% For August

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington independent merchants scored a 22 percent sales increase in August, one of the largest monthly jumps in their history, according to the Census Bureau.

August saw the peak of the Korean buying rush here. Although September sales continued high, there was a tapering off.

For the first eight months this year, non-chain sales here advanced 6 percent over the like 1949 period, according to the Census Bureau.

Biggest gains for August were in the categories where shoppers feared that a war might cause shortages. Appliance sales, including television and radio, leaped 60 percent to lead the way. Next largest gain was recorded in auto accessories, including tires, which advanced 56 percent. Auto sales were up 39 percent; building materials, up 42 percent, furniture, up 47 percent.

Only three fields showed declines in August sales—restaurants, drinking places and jewelry stores.

Following are comparisons for August and the first eight months, as compared with the like 1949 periods:

Smelter Zinc Stocks Hit 25-Year Low

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP).—Smelter stocks of zinc—now among the scarcest of this country's basic industrial metals—dropped to the lowest level in nearly 25 years at the end of September, the American Zinc Institute reported today.

At 10,267 tons, stocks compared with 14,451 the previous month and were smallest since December of 1925. At the beginning of this year, smelter stocks were 94,221 tons.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP).—Traders found little to enthuse them in the grain and soybean futures markets today. Prices were on the downgrade almost all day.

Wheat was depressed by lack of favorable export news. Corn and soybeans were sold on the outlook for favorable weather.

Many traders remained on the sidelines awaiting the Government's monthly crop report, issued after the close of trading.

Wheat closed 1⅜ to 2 cents lower than the previous finish, corn down ¾ to 1¼, oats off ½ to ¾, rye 1 to 1¼ lower, soybeans down 1½ to 2½, and lard was unchanged to 25 cents a hundrdr pounds lower.

There were foreign reports that Russia may supply large quantities of grain to the United Kingdom and some European countries later this year. This led to some selling. It also was reported that expected flour business with the Netherlands failed to develop.

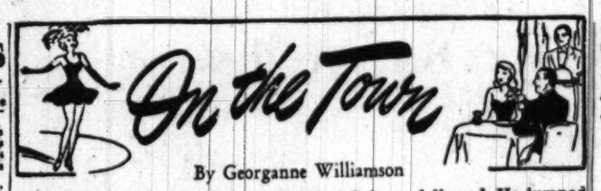
On the Town



By Georganne Williamson

DWIGHT FISKE, musical storyteller at the Old New Orleans, is introducing four new tales during his month's stay here. Fiske fans pride themselves on knowing each of his stories, but these have not yet been recorded.

"Morning" is about a young Indian girl who escaped from an Indian reservation to see the white world, and in all of New York falls in love with a cigar store wooden Indian. "A Fountain of Youth," set in Arabia, is the story of a sheik. He falls in love with a young girl, wants to be her age again. He orders his aides to find the fountain of youth, and then gulps down so much of the fountain's water he disappears.

As Fiske was telling about this new one, he added: "Greed, you know—too much greed." And suddenly it was obvious that in each of his mock-tragic tales there's too much greed. Dwight Fiske could never be classed as a moralist, and yet in each disastrous ending there's a moral.

"Salome" is Fiske's contribution to the many versions of the Bible story of Herod's stepdaughter who demands John the Baptists head for her dance. "Senorita Margerita del Campo," just to be different, takes place in Mexico. It's about a beautiful Senorita and El Morocco, toreador from Spain.

The Old New Orleans' main attraction writes his songs himself. He has done 127 in all, but only keeps about 34 at performance pitch at one time.

Since he opened the Latin Quarter at the Old New Orleans last winter, he has made a complete circle of the country on tour. Palm Beach was his next stop after he left; the Mardi Gras at New Orleans followed. He jumped to the Southwest and Dallas, and from there to San Francisco and Los Angeles. Next—Kansas City, Chicago, up to Minneapolis and then back to New York. And now he's in Washington again, at the same place.

OCTOBER is the best month of the year for Normandy Farm enthusiasts. Inside there's a bright wood fire to sit around while having cocktails and dinner. Outside the extensive grounds are gold and crimson as the rolling country provides a view of the woods.

Marjory Hendricks bought the farm during the depression; it was then a country club. Its large acreage produces vegetables for Normandy Farm, Watergate Inn and the local market as well.

There is also a spring and an old blacksmith shop. The blacksmith shop figured in pre-Revolutionary history. General Braddock, coming through on an Indian fighting expedition which included George Washington in its ranks, had his horses shod there. It was then an outpost on the road to the West.

Parking Rate Boosted To $1 by One Lot Here

All-day parking rates on the Great Plaza Parking Service lot at 14th and D sts. nw., will be increased from 85 cents to $1 as of October 16. Special monthly rates will go up for $15 to $18.

Harry Dunn, partner in the parking concern, said increased operating costs—such as higher wages and additional insurance—made the price boost necessary.

Surrattsville School Bid Under Study

The B. & J. Construction Company of Washington submitted the low bid of $565,318, opened yesterday by the Prince Georges County Board of Education, for an addition to the Surrattsville Elementary-Junior-Senior High School.

The bid will be studied for a possible reduction in costs. It was "several thousand dollars" higher than estimates, according to Thomas S. Gywnn, jr., director of school planning.

The addition would include nine classrooms, a kitchen and gymnasium. The present school has 15 rooms.

Plans call for the enlarged school to accommodate 900 junior and senior high pupils after a new elementary school is built.

The contract, if awarded, would call for completion of the project by September 1, 1951, Gwynn said.

The board announced that six abandoned school properties will be sold at public auctions at each location on an unspecified date.

The schools, supplanted by larger consolidated schools, are the Ammendale, Muirkirk, Lakeland, Fletchertown, Glenarden and Accokeek Elementary Schools. All are Negro schools.

The board also promised to give early consideration to the construction of a white elementary school at Accokeek in response to request of a delegation

Anglers Asked To Watch for Drowned Girl

Fisherman were asked yesterday to keep a watch for the body of Roberta Gilbert, 13, who drowned below Great Falls Sunday.

Montgomery County police said they had discontinued the organized search for the child's body. The girl, daughter of Metropolitan Police Pvt. W. K. Gilbert, drowned in a tragic finale to a Girl Scout outing at the Falls.

She lived at 3018 Massachusetts ave. se.

Italian Film Stars Boycott Johnson for Ingrid, Rossellini

ROME, Oct. 10 (U.P.)—Italy's movie stars, directors and newspapermen snubbed a cocktail party at which Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.) was a guest tonight to attend another party six blocks down the street for Ingrid Bergman and Robert Rossellini.

Johnson had denounced Miss Bergman in Washington as "one of Hollywood's apostles of degradation" and Rossellini as "an infamous Nazi collaborator" and "notorious cocaine addict." He also called on the Senate to bar all Italian films.

Today Johnson was among guests at a cocktail party given by TWA Airlines for 35 visiting American journalists.

The entire screen colony and press corps sent regrets. Each note read alike: "We regret to announce that we cannot accept your invitation because we have already been invited to a cocktail party for our friend, Mr. Rossellini."

Five hundred guests stood up and cheered when Rossellini strode in. His wife, who looked more beautiful than ever, had arrived 15 minutes earlier, alone.

Miss Bergman said to questions, "Our baby is fine, thank you, and I'm very happy now. I am having a wonderful life here in Rome."

The touring newsmen and women will visit film studios at Cinecitta Wednesday. It was reported that the extras will walk off the set if Johnson appears.

Weak Defense Invites Attack, Tydings Tells Democrat Rally

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 10—Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.), tonight warned that the United States must maintain the lead in military strength or else invite attack.

Tydings, speaking at a Democratic campaign rally of some 600 persons here, declared that "the only thing that counts now is strength; weakness will invite attack."

He said that our military and economic strength must be maintained "until we can arrive at an honorable peace that is gangster-proof."

He accused the Republican leadership in Congress, with some exceptions—he named Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R., Mich.) as one, of pursuing a policy of "narrow isolationalism." He said the Republican leaders had fought key points in the Administration's efforts to stop the spread of Russian aggression, including the North Atlantic pact. "You can't keep the world safe and free by wishing for it," he said.

He said it was "only common sense" that this country could not escape attack in a third World War.

He was joined by Gov. William Preston Lane, jr., in urging a strong front against Communist aggression. Lane described communism as a "hideout ideology."

The appearance of Tydings and Lane at the rally here climaxed a three-day tour of western Maryland by the members of the Democratic State ticket. They started in Garrett County Sunday, visited Allegany County Monday and spent the earlier part of today in a swing through Governor Lane's home county, Washington, winding up in Lane's home town, Hagerstown, for tonight's meeting.

Both Garrett and Allegany Counties are predominantly Republican; both went against Lane in 1946 and both went against Tydings in 1944. Senator Tydings said, however, that the Democrats have united after the division created by the primary contest for Governor and added: "Things look good for us."

Governor Lane carried Washington County by about 1400 votes in 1946.

His opponent that year and this year, Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, got about 9600 votes to Lane's 11,000.

Governor Lane said that Tydings has the "faith and courage" needed to represent Maryland in Washington. He said the same qualities justified the election of Maj. Gen. Russell Hartle, U.S.A. (ret.), also of Hagerstown, as representative from the Sixth Congressional District. General Hartle is running against Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.).

Lane, referring to the State's sales tax, said it might have been easier for him to have thrown financial problems back to the counties and communities. He siad it was his idea that the State government should be of service to these areas.

Lane sharply criticized McKeldin's administration of Baltimore from 1943 to 1947 when he was Mayor. He said McKeldin increased taxes but made no improvements in schools, streets and other services.

Other speakers included Hall Hammond, candidate for reelection as attorney general, and J. Millard Tawes, unopposed for reelection as comptroller.

Norge-Heat OIL-BURNING AIR-CONDITIONING FURNACE

Outside it may snow or blow, thaw or freeze, but the air in your home automatically stays the same . . . warmed precisely to your comfort, yet as fresh and pure as an ocean breeze. That's the way a Norge-Heat winter-air-conditioner heats your home!

With STEADIHEAT—a development exclusive to Norge-Heat—there is no momentary chill while the furnace gets "under way." There is no overheating either, because the heat stops instantly when the thermostat indicates. The VACUUM-DRAFT . . . exclusive to Norge-Heat . . . assures more efficient combustion, cuts fuel costs, eliminates furnace fumes.

Let us show you these and other advanced features of the NORGE-HEAT winter-air-conditioner . . . finest thing in home heating!

Oust Soviet, Austria May Plead to U. N.

By The Associated Press

Dr. Karl Gruber, Austrian Foreign Minister, declared yesterday that eventually his country may have to appeal to the United Nations for "real liberation."

Asserting Soviet diplomacy has delayed an Austrian peace treaty "with an accumulation of claims which have not the slightest connection," the minister told a National Press Club luncheon, "it may even be conceivable that diplomatic means will fail."

"In that case," he declared, "we shall have to appeal to the United Nations to help us get rid of the intruder, and we are convinced that sooner or later the United Nations not only will have the will, but also the power to restore freedom, peace and order in a country which does belong to the most ardent adherents of the ideas of the United Nations."

Gruber said the "broad masses of the Austrian population are determined to defend the ideal of liberty and to offer determined resistance against all attempts to destroy their independence."

"A few days ago," he said, "we had a severe test of our inner stability. The Austrian Communist Party tried to use a present economic difficulty to stage a general strike and, following this up, to cause an uprising against Austria's free and democratic institutions.

"This attempt failed completely, even though the Communists got some indirect assistance from the Soviet authorities in eastern Austria. This certainly gave ample evidence of the unity of our population and the people's determination to defend free institutions against Communist aggression."

Noting that in 1949 "the Conference of the Four Foreign Ministers in Paris succeeded in getting very close to a settlement of the various open questions on the Austrian State treaty," Dr. Gruber added that "since then the international sky has become clouded."

"Soviet diplomacy has, with an accumulation of claims—which have not the slightest connection with the Austrian State treaty—I mention the question of Trieste whose solution is now being put forward by the Soviet Union as a preliminary condition — delayed its final conclusion and even tries to lay the blame for it at the other's doorstep," he said.

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

Blue Plate Special:

IT DIDN'T take the New York Yankees long to clinch another championship after racking up the Phillies in four straight. When they met to cut up their World Series shares, they set a new record for generosity by declaring Dick Wakefield and Johnny Lindell in.

Neither Wakefield nor Lindell contributed anything to the Yankees' pennant victory; in fact they were burdens to the club before they were traded off early in the season. But they had worn Yankee uniforms this year, and that was enough to get them a series cut from the generosity champs.

Povich

The tough-luck guy was George Stirnweiss who went from the Yanks to the Browns in mid-June. The Yankees couldn't do anything for him, under the rules. Unlike Wakefield and Lindell, Stirnweiss was precluded from a series cut because he was with another American League team.

Steve Owen, of the New York Giants, declared before the start of the season, "We're going to be in an improved football league." And then he went out and made his prediction look good by unveiling his Giants as the most improved club in it.

When his Giants beat the supposedly invincible Cleveland Browns, 6-0, Owen did the whole league a service. He put the wallop back in football's defense and demonstrated that razzle-dazzle can be licked. They've scored only 45 points, but won all of their first three games.

THE SUSPICION now is that the Redskins were out-conditioning most of those teams when they were winning those five straight exhibition games. Apparently the best thing they developed out of it was a bigger season-ticket sale.

When they blew last Sunday's game to the Giants on that Conerly-Roberts pass play in the final quarter, they were properly hoodwinked by the Giants who shook Roberts into such solitude that when the play unfolded the closest Redskin to him was George Preston Marshall in his upstairs box.

That was a sad season's denouement for Dick Poillon, the former Redskin, the other day. A year ago Poillon was the Redskins' No. One punter, and one of the Griffith Stadium favorites. They let him go, and he was picked up by the Baltimore Colts. The Colts finally shunted him off to Brooklyn, in the American Football League, a minor circuit.

Apparently, Poillon was making good with Brooklyn. Anyway an Associated Press dispatch on Monday reported: "Dick Poillon today was named backfield coach of the Brooklyn team of the American Football League." One hour later, the A.P. reported: "The Brooklyn team today was dropped from the American Football League."

DOWN IN ATHENS, GA., the folks are properly mystified by this week's national collegiate football rankings which show the Maryland U. team rated eighth, and the Georgia team that licked 'em, failing to achieve any place in the rankings.

The only possible explanation is that beating Michigan State, which Maryland did, is considered more of a feat than beating Maryland, which Georgia did. But somehow, it still refuses to add up to anything logical.

When Harry Gilmer got that first touchdown for the Redskins against the Giants last Sunday on a plunge from the 3-inch line, you could have said, of course, that Gilmer was merely a guy trying to make a fast buck.

Casey Stengel could never finish in the first division when he was bossing the Braves and Dodgers in the National League, and, when the Yankees gave him a contract as manager two years ago, the gagsters commented that he was hired for laughs. But to the other American League clubs, Casey has been about as comic as a crutch.

Yesterday the Yankees tendered him another two-year contract as manager, with the stipend reported to be as much as $80,000 a season. The one-time clown who has been playing it straight, is doing nicely.

THREE GAMES after the start of the season, Maryland is batting .667 with two victories, but Head Coach Jim Tatum is maintaining a perfect 1.000 average. A week before the season opened, Tatum told his friends privately, "We'll lose to Georgia, and then knock off both Navy and Michigan State."

The St. Louis Browns are now in position to ascend into the first division on the wings of an aria. Their newest stockholder, with what she calls a "nice chunk" of the team, is Helen Trauble, the Metropolitan Opera star, who was invited into part ownership.

In the Browns' case, its a switch. On the theory that what the club needed last season was a doctor, President Bill DeWitt hired Dr. David F. Tracy, a psychiatrist, to administer to his athletes. He couldn't get them out of eighth place, and the Browns had the distinction of being the first club ever to put a psychiatrist on the waiver list. He was unclaimed.

Of the New York Giants

Forest Griffith Pro Player of the Week

FORREST GRIFFITH, rookie halfback of the New York Giants, is The Washington Post's professional football player of the week.

The 195-pound speedster scored one touchdown in the Giants' 21-17 licking of the Redskins last Sunday, but his greatest contribution was being where he wasn't supposed to be and catching a pass that pulled the Giants out of a deep, deep hole at a time when they were trailing.

Griffith's play of the day came in the last period when the New Yorkers were behind, 17-14. With Quarterback Charlie Conerly trying to pass from the end zone, Griffith missed a block on Roland Dale, Redskins' left end.

Quick as a wink, however, he darted out into the Redskins' secondary after missing his assignment. He undoubtedly thought Conerly would have to fling a desperation pass to avoid being tackled in the end zone for a safety.

That's exactly what happened. Practically pinned down by Dale, Conerly let fly with the ball and Griffith latched on to it on the Redskins' 30-yard line. That killed the Redskins. The Giants went from there to their game-winning touchdown. Griffith's heads-up play, trying to recoup from a missed assignment, saved the day for the unbeaten Polo Grounders.

As a runner, the 21-year-old three-time All Big Seven Fullback from Kansas, averaged almost six yards a crack on his 16 carries, including a 39-yard sprint. He went over from two yards out for the first Giants' touchdown in the first period.

Mrs. Gunn Wins Kenwood Golf

Mrs. John Gunn, 95-21—74, won low net yesterday at Kenwood Country Club's annual women's field day. Betty Meckley's 88 took low gross. Doris Jarmon won second low net with 94-18—76.

Mrs. Rex Howard had the longest drive, 225 yards, Mrs. Ed Atwood won low putts with 28, and Alice Dewell won the hole-in-one contest, placing her tee shot four feet from the pin on the 167 yard fourth hole.

Mrs. Lynch Wins Golf Tournament

Mrs. C. F. Lynch, of Congressional with 89—9—80, won the Class A division of Congressional Country Club's invitational ladies golf tournament yesterday. Mrs. Franklin Babcock of Chevy Chase was second with a net 81, and Mrs. A. Wilcox of Chevy Chase was third with a net 82.

EH, WHAT'S UP DOC—This is not Bugs Bunny, it's 2½-year-old Mark Shullenbarger proffering a carrot to his dad, Johnny Shullenbarger, who will do the punting for George Washington against Virginia Tech in Friday night's football game at Griffith Stadium. It will be the third straight night game for the Colonials, and they're eating carrots for vitamin A which helps them see better at night

Colonials Can Tie for Lead In Conference Friday Night

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

By Friday midnight, George Washington may find itself in a unique position—tied for first place in the Southern Conference. Nobody in GW.'s athletic department remembers the last time the Colonials were that lofty.

The Colonials have won both of their conference starts and are favored to take No. 3 Friday night when they tackle weak Virginia Tech at Griffith Stadium.

GW. is currently tied for second place with Wake Forest. On top is Washington and Lee with 3-0. The Generals step out of conference ranks to play Virginia Saturday at Richmond. Wake Forest meets North Carolina at Chapel Hill Saturday.

The Colonials have never won a conference championship, and they won't this year. They still have to play Wake Forest, South Carolina, Maryland and Furman.

If the Colonials come through as expected Friday night, they'll have a 3-1 record (they lost to Virginia, a nonleague, 19-0), their best early-season showing since 1946. In '46, they beat Kings Point, Wayne, Rollins and Citadel before losing their last three to Georgetown, Rutgers and William and Mary.

Friday night has been designated as high school seniors night by G. W. Seniors from area public and parochial high schools will be admitted free to the Virginia Tech game after getting certification from their principals.

Guest Picker

Rowland Says Navy Is Due

GW Coach Bo Rowland reluctantly acts as guest selector for this week's Pick-the-Winners contest. Rowland, an honest man, says, "Look, I don't know who's going to win these games. There are two teams playing, I'll just take one."

Last week Virginia Coach Al Guepe picked 13 winners, including the tie he predicted between USC and Washington State. That one ended, 20-all.

Rowland said he likes:

VIRGINIA over W. & L. (has a tougher game under its belt in Penn); ARMY over Michigan (string along with Cadets, Michigan hasn't proved itself yet); NAVY over Princeton (about due); YALE over Columbia (Herman Hickman has an improved team); VILLANOVA over Tulsa (but Tulsa's a promising team); DUKE over N. C. State (too much manpower, but it will be close).

NORTH CAROLINA over Wake Forest (can't pick against Snavely but Wake Forest will hold its own; Carolina's had tougher competition); GEORGIA over Mississippi St. (must have a fine football team, they beat Maryland, didn't they?); GEORGIA TECH over L.S.U. (light but fast); MISSISSIPPI over Vanderbilt (think my old school had a lot taken out of it in beating Alabama); OHIO STATE over Indiana; WISCONSIN over Iowa; NORTHWESTERN over Minnesota; NEBRASKA over Colorado; SOUTHERN METHODIST over Oklahoma A. & M.

BAYLOR over Arkansas (Razorbacks still are coming); CALIFORNIA over Southern California (it's going to be hard to break that California string on the Coast); KANSAS over Iowa State; HOUSTON over Louisville; BRADLEY over Wichita.

Score: TEXAS, 21 Oklahoma, 14.

Jet Skaters Beat Chicago, 15-11

Washington's spirited Jets won the opening game of the Chicago series last night at Uline Arena before 2980, turning back the Westerners, 15-11.

Suggs Eliminated By Alice Bauer

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 10.—Louise Suggs was knocked out of the Women's Texas Open Golf tournament at River Crest Country Club by 22-year-old Alice Bauer, 5 and 4, in the first round match play today.

Top Coaches Also Put Terps In 8th Place

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The nation's football coaches went along with the writers this week in ranking Army the No. 1 team, Southern Methodist second, Oklahoma third and Maryland eighth.

The United Press announced its coaching board's rankings today. Associated Press released the writers' ratings yesterday. Here is a comparison of their top ten choices:

	UP Coaches	AP Poll
Army	1	1
S. M. U.	2	2
Oklahoma	3	3
Texas	4	4
Stanford	5	6
California	6	7
Kentucky	7	5
Maryland	8	8
Notre Dame	9	10
Purdue	10	9

Here's how the coaches ranked the next 20 next best teams:

Army received 17 first place votes, SMU, 9, Texas 4 and Maryland, Oklahoma, Kentucky and Purdue one each from the coaches.

11, Washington; 12, Ohio State; 13, Cornell; 14, Tennessee; 15, Rice; 16, Clemson; 17, Wisconsin; 18, Michigan; 19 Michigan State; 20, Vanderbilt.

21, North Carolina; 22, Princeton; 23, tie between Nebraska and Wyoming; 25, tie between Illinois, Northwestern and Texas A. & M.; 28, tie between Indiana and Tulane; 30, Alabama.

Game in Contest

Can Michigan End Army's Long Streak?

ARMY VS. MICHIGAN in Yankee Stadium Saturday.

Is another of this season's big upsets in store?

Army has an undefeated string stretching over 22 games. Michigan lost to Michigan State two weeks ago, but Michigan bounced back last Saturday to defeat Dartmouth, 27-6.

Michigan always is at its best against such opponents as Minnesota, Notre Dame and Army. The Cadets have crushed Colgate and Penn State this fall.

The Army-Michigan game figures in The Washington Post's Pick-the-Winners football contest this week. The winner will receive two tickets to the Southern California-Navy game in Baltimore, October 21, as well as first-class, round-trip transportation for two persons.

Contest Rules

THE CONTEST each week will include 20 major college games. The contestant will select the winner (or tie) in each of these games. There will also be a twenty-first game for which the contestant must give the "Probable Score," to be considered by the contest judges only in case two or more persons tie on the first 20 games.

All entries must be in the hands of the Football Contest Editor not later than 3 p. m. Friday of each week. Entries should be left at the Service Counter in the lobby of The Washington Post Bldg., 1337 E St. N. W.

The person submitting the most accurate entry each week shall be declared the winner. In case of ties, all persons sharing in the tie will receive duplicate awards.

The decisions of the judges will be final.

Entries submitted must be legible, with the selections listed in the order they are announced in The Washington Post.

Entries may be handwritten or typewritten. However, carbon copies and mimeographed copies or copies made by any other duplicating machine will NOT be accepted. You may submit as many entries as you wish.

No employe of The Washington Post or member of his immediate family is eligible to participate in this contest.

No person will be eligible to win the weekly contest twice.

Phone NA. 7056 for answers to questions about Contest after 4 p. m.

2-Year Pact Makes Casey Highest Paid

By Jack Hand

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP).—Casey Stengel signed to manage the world champion New York Yankees for two more years today at a salary that could run as high as $75,000 to $85,000 a year.

Old Case, a fabulous success with two pennants and two series victories in two years, explained his new contract in typical Stengelese—with gestures.

"It's not $75,000," he said with a wink. "It's not $85,000, like some of you fellows been guessing. But it could be that."

What did he mean by "It could be that?"

"If I do good work," he said, "I can get it if I want it. No, we don't have to win the pennant. It's not attendance. Maybe, they've just got to like me."

If Casey does "good work" and gets $75,000 or $85,000 it will be the highest price ever paid a manager. Best guesses are that the new agreement calls for a basic $65,000 with a bonus agreement.

"One thing more," said Stengel. "If anything comes up that I desire to leave because of my health, or anything else, I can do it."

Stengel, preparing to leave for his Glendale, Calif., home, where he hopes to "lay dead for a month," talked freely about his first signing with the Yanks in October of 1948.

"I come in here with Brick Laws of the Oakland club," he said. "They give me a two-year contract and asked me a figure I'd work for. I got between 3s and 4s ($30,000 and $40,000). You might say I was compensated by the ball club in the fall with a bonus. Counting all of it, I got better than $50,000 the first year.

"I never had to ask for more but they did the same thing this year, even more at the end of the season. Now I got a new deal that goes 12 months a year. I do extra things and I get extra money.

"You might say I was raised plenty. And I never had to ask for it. Mr. Topping, Mr. Webb and Mr. Weiss have been mighty fine to me.

Having cleared (?) up the salary question, Stengel went on to talk about his ball club.

"Sure I have openings on this club," he said. "We're not standing pat. I'm a man that'll take some young players if they have points. I realize we won with a hard fight.

In Series Play

Seminick Had Ankle Break

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10 (AP). Catcher Andy Seminick played the final four games of the season and the entire World Series with a bone separation in his left ankle.

The Philadelphia Phillies' backstop had the ankle encased in a plaster cast at Temple University Hospital today.

"I thought it was just a sprain," he said.

Seminick said he'd probably have to wear the cast at least a month. "If that doesn't work, they'll screw a bolt through the bone to get it back in shape."

Dr. John Royal Moore examined Seminick after the last game of the series swept by the Yankees in four straight contests. The doctor ordered X-rays which disclosed the damage.

McClure Wins Senior Golf

John E. McClure of Burning Tree won the District Golf Association's Senior tournament yesterday at his home club, carding a 38-33—71, one-below-par.

McClure's score topped the 91-man field and was the best in recent years. Columbia Country Club's R. H. Mills took low net with 88-16—72.

In the various age groups, L. P. McLachlen of Columbia carded 86-13—73 to win the 55 to 60 title, J. S. Brookes, jr., of Burning Tree had 81-8—73 to win the 61-65 class, former Senator Burton K. Wheeler, a Burning Tree member, had 97-24—73 to gain the 66-70 crown, and 79-year-old Dr. Noah Pomeroy of Kenwood took the 70 and over group with 91-14—77.

The oldest man playing was S. B. Maize, an 82-year-old linksman, who shot a gross 104. His 20 handicap cut his net score to 84.

Pritchard to Have Knee Operation

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10 (AP).—Bosh Pritchard, veteran Philadelphia Eagles halfback, will undergo an operation for removal of the cartilage in his left knee tomorrow.

Pritchard, Virginia Military Institute graduate, injured the knee in an exhibition game against the Rams at Los Angeles the middle of August. He will be out five or six weeks.

Oxon Hill Wins, 14-1

Oxon Hill High, Class B champion last season, routed Laurel, 14-1, in the soccer opener for both yesterday at Oxon Hill.

Where to Buy Hoyas-Terps, GW-VPI Tickets

There are plenty of tickets available for Washington's two big weekend college football games at Griffith Stadium, George Washington vs. Virginia Tech Friday night and Maryland vs. Georgetown Saturday afternoon.

For G. W. vs. Virginia Tech, tickets may be bought at the Co-Op Shop, 21st and H sts. nw. and Griffith Stadium.

For Maryland vs. Georgetown, tickets are available at Fairway Sports Store, 1328 G st. nw.; Champion Sports, 816 13th st. nw.; American Automobile Association, 17th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw.; Georgetown and Maryland Universities, and Griffith Stadium.

No Letdown For Terps This Week

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Don't worry about Maryland suffering a letdown against Georgetown in Griffith Stadium Saturday.

Take it from the players—they promise they won't.

"We made up our minds after Georgia beat us that every team we played from then on would pay for that loss," Cocaptain and Center Jake Rowden remarked when it was mentioned the Terps may be a little overconfident against the winless Hoyas.

"We won't be overconfident and we aren't cocky," said Guard Bobby Ward. "We'll simply be as ready for Georgetown as we were for Michigan State last Saturday." The Terps plastered the vaunted Spartans, 34-7, and leaped from fifteenth to eighth in the national football ratings as a result.

Rowden and Ward seemed to know whereof they spoke. Several observers, who have been watching Maryland practices for the last four years, pointed out that the enthusiasm the squad displayed yesterday was the best they'd ever seen.

Halfback Bob (the Brat) Shemonski, who seldom speaks even when spoken to, perhaps voiced the sentiment of the team when he volunteered:

"You have a lot of fun when you win and we love to have fun."

Halfback Ed (Mighty Mo) Modzelewski, who scored two touchdowns against the Spartans and missed a third by an inch, missed yesterday's practice. He's nursing a bruised leg, but will probably take his place in the varsity backfield today.

IN SHORT—Pete Augsburger, 6 foot 4, 220-pound senior end from Pittsburgh, has already caught 11 passes in three games this season, only six less than Stan Karnash, Mafyland's leading pass receiver, caught all last year. . . . . Saturday's Griffith Stadium appearance will be Maryland's only Washington showing this season. They meet N. C. State, George Washington and VPI in their new Byrd Stadium

Georgetown Opens Against LaSalle

Georgetown University's cross country team opens a six-meet schedule this afternoon at home against LaSalle College of Philadelphia.

Thereafter, the Hoyas will face William and Mary (away), Virginia (away), Baltimore Olympic Club (home), Seton Hall (away) and the IC4A championships at New York.

Old Catcher Won 3 Minor League Titles

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP).—The Chicago White Sox today announced signing of Paul Richards, Seattle pilot in the Pacific Coast League, to a two-year contract as manager.

Richards replaced John (Red) Corriden, who became a "fill-in" pilot last May when the White Sox fired Jack Onslow.

Richards, 41, managed three minor league clubs, but this is the first major league managerial assignment for the former catcher for the Detroit Tigers. He was a Tiger player-coach from 1943 through 1946.

His White Sox salary was not disclosed.

Richards' Seattle club finished sixth in the Pacific Coast League. He managed Atlanta of the Southern Association five years from 1938 through 1942. He won two pennants and finished second and won one postseason playoff.

In 1947-48-49, Richards managed Buffalo of the International League, winning the pennant in 1949.

General Manager Frank Lane said the 1950 coaching staff will be selected entirey by Richards, but if he wanted to retain Corriden as a coach, it would be acceptable to the White Sox.

Richards is the fifth White Sox manager since 1946 when Jimmy Dykes left after a 13-season regime. Ted Lyons followed Dykes and was supplanted in 1949 by Onslow.

Corriden's White Sox finished sixth this year, the same as the club did in 1949 under Onslow.

The fate of veteran Luke Appling as a future coach under Richards is conjectural. But Lane pointed out the White Sox perennial, who holds the major league record for games played at shortstop, can be retained as a player.

Hoyas Plan Homecoming This Week

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Although Saturday's football game with Maryland isn't calculated to give Georgetown's old grads too much to cheer about, an elaborate program is being planned for their Homecoming Week.

Scores of former Hoya athletic greats are coming from all over the country for the weekend of events which will be featured by the laying of the cornerstone for the new $860,000 McDonough Gymnasium.

The Very Rev. Hunter Guthrie, S. J., Georgetown president, will bless the cornerstone in a ceremony Saturday morning.

Friday night there will be a "Farewell to Ryan Gym" party.

Coming up from Florida for the reunion of athletic stars of the past will be the colorful Harry Costello, always remembered at Georgetown as the hero of the Virginia game in 1912. Costello kicked a last-minute field goal to beat Virginia, 16-13.

The list of old and young athletes is impressive. In part, it includes Thomas M. (Ooch) Moriarity, Marvin Lee Rich, Billy Sitterding, Tony Plansky, Msgr. Jeremiah Minihan (center of the 1925 team), Harry (Babe) Connaughton, 300-pound guard on the same team, Athletic Director Jack Hagerty, Joe Cusak, Jim Castiglia, Jules Koshlap, Fred Mesmer, Tommy Nolan, Joe McFadden, Augie Lio, John Doolan, Morris McCarthy, Johnny Gilroy.

6 Fishermen Land Top Catch Of Bass Season—15 Hefties

By Ralph Murdock

The top catch of the current striped bass season occurred Saturday when Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hartley, 222 20th st. ne.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hartley and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schuenfelder of Belair, Md., docked with 15 hefties, none under 14 pounds.

Murdock

The party left Deale, Md., at sunrise and until 1 o'clock in the afternoon had only three fish aboard. It was near dusk when the "fireworks" started.

In the battle which ensued, 11 more whoppers were landed. In the excitement one of the anglers latched onto a monster fish which weighed about 35 pounds—the big fella was released.

This excellent catch was made "on the hill" near Bloody Point Light in the upper Chesapeake Bay with the "old reliable skipper Johnnie Manifold, who pilots Pal-o-mine.

Nungesser and No. 2½ Huntington drones were the successful lures used.

Bernie Morrow, Silver Spring, Md.; Jim Hoyle and George Mess of the District, and Harry Thompson, Chevy Chase, Md., also did well, reeling in four big stripers off Holland Point Bar. Eel skins proved a top bait for this quartet.

From Solomons Island Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Lust, Mrs. Phil Lustine, George Sterling and Max Glazer nailed 236 rock and blues off Barren Island on the eastern side of the bay.

The Washington Chapter of the Isaac Walton League is holding its regular meeting this evening at the Ambassador Hotel at 8 p. m. Speaker will be the noted sports fisherman, Col. George Francis Hartman, who will relate his experiences in fishing all around the world.

There is no charge for admission and prospective members are cordially invited.

Friends Raise $1,039.50 for Stricken Colliere

John (Fee) Colliere learned yesterday how many friends he has made in 25 years as a topnotch sandlot catcher and coach. They sent him a $1,039.50 get-well check.

Fee's left leg was amputated a week ago because of diabetes. He's at home now, 1619 K st. se., and won't be able to return to work at the Heurich Brewery for a long time.

The Fee Colliere fund was started by Vic Gauzza, Washington's sandlot baseball czar. Vic collected $493.50 alone at the Heurich-Police Department city championship game a couple of weeks ago.

Tigers' Upset Hopes Rest On Quinn

By Bill Gilbert

Eastern's Ramblers, fresh from a 20-0 triumph over Roosevelt, and Wilson's Green Tigers, who tied McKinley Tech, 7-7, Friday, meet in the Interhigh League football feature Friday at Wilson.

Eastern is undefeated in three league games, although the Ramblers were tied, 12-12, by Anacostia two weeks ago. In addition to their win over Roosevelt, the Ramblers downed Chamberlain, 20-0.

Eastern has one of the strongest teams in the league and banks on good backs such as Ralph Sita, Jimmy Sullivan, Tom McHann and Danny O'Neill.

Coolidge Plays Tech

The Tigers, picked to lose to Tech last week, are led by Bob Quinn, The Washington Post and Touchdown Club high player of the Week. Quinn, a 190-pound fullback, does most of the passing and also goes through the center of the line when a yard or two is needed for a first down or touchdown.

Coolidge, with a 20-6 victory over Chamberlain, meets Tech at Tech Friday.

Coolidge relies heavily on Senior Arnie Tranen, who passes and runs equally well. Tranen is aided in the running department by Bill Horan, switched to the backfield last season after playing end his first year.

Tech Banks on Colandreo

Tech Coach Ed Solomon has a dependable runner in Benny Colandreo, a light but speedy and shifty lad who teams with John Wege when it comes to passing.

Chamberlain journeys to Western and Bell invades Roosevelt in two other League contests Friday afternoon.

Win Would Have Paid Only $387

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

BOWIE, Md., Oct. 10—Favorite players went down swinging here today in contrast to yesterday when the choices stepped home like trained fleas, longshots and near longshots dominated the Tuesday program.

The day's big monetary explosion was not caused by a winner, but by a horse who finished second at $371.80 to place and $126 to show in the second race. Merry Nymph, it was, who carried the colors of P. W. Page of Rockville, Md., to a record Maryland payoff for second position.

A heap of "if he had won" angles figured. Oddly enough, Merry Nymph would have paid only $16 fore (or $387) to win than to place having closed at 192-1 in the final odds. A win would have brought 17 daily double players a $1456.40 mutuel.

The record place price represented 24 tickets out of the $2 rack. The show betting, also confined to $2 pasteboards, totaled 32 tickets. Only $210 of the $42,132 in the pool was played on Merry Nymph to win.

While place price records are not available, the longest win payoff here was on Jocks Cot, paying 158-1, in 1925. The record for Maryland is the $810 mutuel paid by Trycook on May 17, 1934, at Hagerstown.

The State's major track mark was set by Cadeau which returned $576 for the usual deuce at Pimlico on May 7, 1913. Golden Prince is next with a $386 payoff after winning at Laurel on October 13, 1926.

A. R. Cremen's Great Hope, with Willie Downs up, was the winner at $25.80 and put the finishing touches on a $287.80 daily double, started when Mrs. E. G. Boyce's Lock Control, at $7, upset the favored Viva Teddy, handled by Ray Arduini.

DEAR FOLKS: AT BOWIE.

The Wednesday program will be the first of two cards of nine races (the other is Saturday) with the proceeds of the added event going to the fund for the relief of owners and trainers who lost 23 horses in the Marlboro fire. Two such races at the half-mile track netted $3100. Post time for the first race remains at 1:30 p.m. The weights are out for Saturday's $10,000 added Southern Maryland Handicap. Stymie, who won't run, gets tops at 125. Other highweights are : Chicle II, 122; Ualestini, 112; Seaward, 119; Dart by, 118; Inseparable, 117; The Pincher, 117. The poundage summers down to 100 for Be Gracions. Looks like Uncle Miltie, named for Milton Berle is going to be an exception to the superstition that horses named for actors and newspapermen are destined to be duds. See you at the rail.—BILL.

Pool Crowds Drop Here, Schwab Says

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

Voluntary white use of two nonsegregated Interior Department swimming pools dwindled almost to the vanishing point this past summer, dropped sharply in a third and increased in a fourth, according to figures presented to the Recreation Board yesterday by Vice Chairman James E. Schwab.

At the same time Negro swimming increased, although it dropped at two pools formerly reserved for Negroes.

Policy Altered

The policy on segregation was altered after the start of the 1949 season and comparable figures are not available for 1949 because one of the pools was closed as the result of a disturbance.

Schwab's figures on the four pools which were operated formerly on a for-whites-only basis follow:

Anacostia—a white attendance of 102,447 after school closing in 1948 compared to 16,000 Negroes and 2000 whites in 1950. In addition, the pool was used by 10,000 white high school students during school hours before vacations.

McKinley—white attendance of 42,617 in 1948 compared to 21,000 Negroes and 6000 whites in 1950, according to Interior Department figures. Schwab said his information showed a white attendance of 1476 and of that number all but 476 were students from the National Training School.

East Potomac—White attendance of 86,092 in 1948 compared to 6000 Negroes and 21,000 whites in 1950.

Other Figures

Figures on two pools formerly operated only for Negroes:

Banneker—Negro attendance of 47,817 in 1948 compared to 32,000 Negroes and 150 whites in 1950.

Francis—Negro attendance of 21,860 in 1948 compared to 15,000 Negroes and 250 whites in 1950. Schwab said he had been told the white swimmers at Francis were children brought from a day camp operated by the Society of Friends in Rock Creek Park.

Schwab's report showed that total attendance at the pools was 415,952 in 1948, 346,275 whites and 69,677 Negroes.

Attendance dropped to 236,471 in 1950, 146,400 whites and 90,071 Negroes.

Schwab said except that there was no violence he disagreed with the Interior Department that the pools were "operated successfully."

$25,000 Loss Hinted

He said he understood that GSI lost $25,000 on the pools during the summer.

This did not take into account the cost of policing them, he said.

"A large number of police were on duty in uniform, others were in the pools in swim suits," he said.

"A riot squad of 20 was held in reserve, a mobile field headquarters in the form of a trailer was acquired by the Park Police as well as several horses for mounted police."

The Recreation Department previously has requested permission of the Interior Department to run the pools. Interior has agreed to turn them over providing the Recreation Department will operate them on a nonsegregated basis.

The Recreation Department now runs two city owned pools. Both are for whites.

Funds are requested in the 1951 budget for two "all year" pools at Randall and Fort Reno Recreation Centers. The Randall pool would be for Negroes, the Fort Reno pools for whites.

The architect's sketch of the proposed pools was shown to board members yesterday for the first time. They previously had approved the plans.

Proposed All-Year Pools for Two Schools Here

FUNDS REQUESTED—Architect's sketch shows proposed new Recreation Department swimming pools for the Randall and Fort Reno Recreation Centers. Funds have been asked in the 1951 school budget to begin work on the two, expected to cost more than a million dollars. Sliding glass panels permit swimming in summer and winter. Pools were planned by the firm of Ackley, Bradley, Patterson and Burgener, architects and engineers

Jury May Hear Beating Story

Mrs. Lula May Sexton, 30, Kensington, Md., housewife who appealed a 10-day sentence for assault on her crippled husband, may tell her side of the story to a jury.

Her lawyer, Mrs. Kathryn Lawlor, of Silver Spring, said this would depend upon circumstances at the trial.

Mrs. Sexton was sentenced Monday by Trial Magistrate James R. Miller in Bethesda Police Court. She had admitted striking her 49-year-old husband, partly paralyzed Norrell.

Mrs. Lawlor said the entire story was not brought out at the trial in police court but she hoped it would be in circuit court. Mrs. Sexton appealed the sentence to the circuit court and was released on bond of $200. The five children of the Sextons are being cared for in foster homes under jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court.

Montgomery Council Hits At Plans Board on Zoning

Criticism of the alleged failure of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission to prepare zoning maps for the entire metropolitan area was voiced yesterday by the Montgomery County council.

In voting to reject the petition of Charles Lee Cooley, jr., for commercial zoning of 1½ acres of land at MacArthur blvd. and Great Falls-Potomac rd., Frederic P. Lee, president of the county council, charged the planning commission with negligence in providing a master zoning map for the area.

The council held that granting of Cooley's request would result in "piecemeal" rezoning which would not be necessary if a master plan had been prepared and that such zoning would be illegal.

Voicing disagreement, Councilman Thomas C. Kelley contended that each zoning application should be considered upon its individual merits and that denial of the application because no land-use map had been prepared was "discrimination." He agreed with the criticism of the planning commission, however.

Blair Lee 3d, vice chairman of the planning commission, said his commission is "determined to put first things first" and is concentrating upon revision of the county zoning ordinance.

"It is essential that we complete our work on the zoning ordinance as quickly as possible because the present ordinance is inadequate in many respects," Lee said. "Apparently the council president fails to appreciate what a tremendous job that is."

He declared "it would be a waste of time to turn out plans based on the old zoning ordinance, because they will be obsolete when the new one is adopted."

Resignation of James S. Lanigan of Silver Spring, assistant county attorney, to accept a post with the staff of W. Averell Harriman, foreign affairs advisor to President Truman, was accepted with regret.

The Council announced appointment of Mrs. Gertrude B. Overman, 9609 Hastings dr., Silver Spring, as a special police woman for the school crossing at Colesville rd. and Granville dr., Silver Spring. Her appointment brings the number of crossing policewomen to 18 with 12 points still vacant.

A letter was read from Franklin T. Miles, Chevy Chase attorney, contending that the Ober anti-Communist law—the State against Communists, is ineffective and urging adoption of an ordinance to prohibit Communists from remaining in the county. President Lee said that several courts had ruled similar laws unconstitutional but that he felt the letter should be referred to the county attorney for study and report.

Auto Finishes Duck Which Perched on Third-Floor Ledge

Civilization was not for Donald.

Perched atop a third-floor ledge at the National Research Council annex, 21st and E sts. nw., Donald, a reasonably tame duck, defied every device from corn kernels to human "quacks" to bring him down yesterday. He refused to budge.

A representative of the Animal Rescue League, called by a thoughtful person who recognized the bird's plight and fright, tried to reach Donald with a 30-foot "catpole" and noose. Donald winged his way to nearby Virginia ave.

A passing auto collided with Donald, and a fairly tame duck became a very lame duck.

Last night, after his wounds refused to heal, the Animal Rescue League had resorted to its carbon monoxide chamber.

Lutherans Vote Unanimous 'No' To Vatican Envoy

DES MOINES, Oct. 10 (AP).—A resolution expressing "unalterable opposition" to establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Vatican was adopted unanimously today by the convention of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, ULCA president, urged delegates and others "to express now their emphatic views" to President Truman. He suggested a petition might be circulated among administrative heads of other Protestant churches opposing appointment of a United States representative to the Vatican.

Appointment of a representative to the Vatican, he said, would be "a clear violation of the principles of separation of church and state."

Labor Council Backs Teacher College Merger

The District of Columbia Industrial Union Council yesterday supported the recommendation of Dr. Walter E. Hager, president of Wilson Teachers College, that the school be merged with the Negro Miner Teachers College.

In a letter to the Board of Education, the CIO affiliate urged "immediate and favorable consideration." The letter, signed by Glenn E. Watts, executive secretary, said "it is unfortunate that Dr. Hager has been subject to criticism based upon mere technicalities when such a basic problem of ou rcommunity is involved."

Silver Spring Club Benefit Set Wednesday

The Junior Woman's Club of Silver Spring will hold a benefit card party October 19 at 8 p. m. in the Veterans of Foreign Wars clubhouse on Hayden dr., Silver Spring. Proceeds will go toward buying a child's wheelchair for the "Sick Room Loan Closet" operated by the Senior Woman's Club. Mrs. William C. Fortune and Mrs. Gilbert W. Feelemyer are in charge of arrangements.

Revocations Of Licenses Sought for Six Offenses

Keneipp Points Out Only One Charge Now Calls for Mandatory Action on Drivers

District Traffic Director George E. Keneipp asked yesterday that the number of offenses for which a person's driver's permit must be revoked be increased from one to seven.

Under the District Traffic Act, revocation is mandatory only after a person has been convicted of driving while drunk. Keneipp asked the District Commissioners to seek legislation that would add to this category the following offenses: negligent homicide or manslaughter, leaving the scene of an accident involving personal injury, reckless driving involving personal injury, turning off lights of a motor vehicle to avoid identification, any felony in the commission of which a motor vehicle was used, giving false information under oath to the traffic director.

Actually, permits are revoked on conviction of most of these offenses now, traffic officials said.

Keneipp also asked that the present policy of allowing persons to appeal mandatory revocations be abolished. Under present law a person whose permit was revoked because of a convicton for driving while drunk may ask the commissioners to review his case and restore his permit. The Board of Revocation and Review conducts a hearing and recommends action to the commissioners. If the permit is restored the revocation is not recorded.

THE FEDERAL DIARY

Keneipp said, however, that no permit has ever been restored by this process. "It means a waste of the board's time at hearings and serves no useful purpose," he said. He said most States make no provision for such a review. He added that he could think of no occasion where a person convicted of any one of the offenses listed should not lose his permit.

The commissioners could still issue the convicted person a new permit—but not restore the old one—at any time, Keneipp said.

Keneipp also asked for legislation to bring negligent homicide under the provisions of the financial responsibility law. This would require suspension of the permit of a person convicted of negligent homicide until he provided proof—probably by insurance—that he could pay for the next accident he had.

Archbishop Lauds Convent For Prayers

Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle, of Washington, expressed deep gratitude yesterday for the half-century of prayers and service of the sisters of the Religious of Perpetual Adoration in golden jubilee ceremonies at the convent, 1419 V st nw.

The sisters of the convent which opened October 10, 1900, spend their time praying, making religious clothing, teaching and giving retreats to women.

Among the guests of honor yesterday were Mother Severina DiGiovanni, nearing 90, and Mother Rachel Maresca, 77, two survivors of the original six nuns who opened the convent. Also present were the Very Rev. Mother Marie Caroline, Superior General of the order who came from Belgium especially to join the celebration.

The Archbishop also thanked the Board of Lady Managers of the Association of Perpetual Adoration and Work for Poor Churches, a lay group which assist the sisters in their work.

Earlier yesterday, the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Washington, celebrated a pontificial mass in the convent chapel in honor of the occasion. The convant is the only establishment of the order in this country.

Czech Couple Finally Obtains Coveted U. S. Citizenship

Charles Del Vecchio—The Washington Post

END OF A JOURNEY—Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Beran of 1461 Girard st. nw., natives of Czechoslovakia, look over citizenship pamphlet in court after taking naturalization oaths

An artistic couple—a husband who paints and wife who teaches cooking—yesterday reached the end of their long journey to American citizenship.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Beran, natives of Czechoslovakia, and now living at 1461 Girard st. nw., who were among 19 persons naturalized in District Court.

The pair, each 5 feet tall, took the oath of citizenship, shook hands with well-wishers and soon each was discussing his own forms of art.

Beran, 62, is a portrait artist who has painted numerous dignitaries here. His 64-year-old wife holds diplomas from the Cordon Bleu, and from Spanish and Viennese cooking schools as well. They both teach at the YWCA here.

The couple walked disguised from Paris to Madrid in three months, at a time when the Nazis controlled France.

Both find much of value in the American form of their arts. But the French, they claim, had the best of all.

Mrs. Beran finds American apple pie and salads superb, but southern fried chicken not all it's cracked up to be.

Her advice to cooks is simple. "You must love it. You must be terrifically patient. You must have a little bit of money," she said.

Prince Georges Government Study Vetoed

Commissioners Turn Down Request Made By Civic Group Head

A request for an immediate survey of the Prince Georges County government was turned down yesterday by the County Commissioners.

Walter F. Mulligan, president of the County Civic Federation, renewed the federation's request for an immediate study of the government. At their meeting, the commissioners replied that they did not feel a study should be undertaken at this time.

They said they felt it would be better to wait and see how the Sothoron Act revamping the county government worked. The act went into effect July 1.

Mulligan has said that as the heads of an "eight-million-dollar business," the commissioners ought to approve $25,000 for a government survey as "a small investment, indeed."

Reports Protested

The commissioners also received a letter protesting that financial reports published by the county previously have not been sufficiently detailed. The letter was written by William R. Turner, or 1207 Chillum rd., Hyattsville, civic association leader.

Linden Briscoe, clerk to the commissioners, wrote a reply to Turner saying that statements published hereafter would be in conformity with the Sothoron Act.

Those published in the past, Briscoe wrote, "have been, as you say, breakdowns of the county tax levy by budget items. The law you refer to was passed in 1802 and, within my memory, which goes back about 40 years, the kind of statement published has been considered in compliance with that law."

Access to Audits

Briscoe said he would be glad to give Turner access to audit reports or other county records for previous years.

Turner's letter complained that the reports issued were far from being the breakdown of county finances required by law and said that he had been told earlier he could get an audited report, but later learned it would cost him $150.

In other actions, the commissioners:

Voted to rent an additional 40 voting machines. They now have 125.

Took under consideration a request to hire women for part-time school crossing guards. Such action has been taken in Montgomery County.

County School Transit Setup Under Study

Formation of a citizens advisory committee on school bus transportation was voted yesterday by the Montgomery County Board of Education at its meeting in Rockville, Md.

The action followed a request from citizens groups representing Argyle, Sunset Terrace, Sligo Park Knolls and Rosewood for bus transportation for the children instead of making them use a 600-foot long path through woods leading to Forest Grove School. Either bus service of police guards for the path were urged.

The school held that the path was not dangerous and was similar to many other approaches to county schools.

The school board voted to grant use of a school bus to provide transportation for the students of the new Carver Junior College for Negroes. The students will pay the cost of the gasoline and the driver. Dean Parlett L. Moore had estimated that 50 percent more students could attend if the transportation problem were worked out.

McKillen Named Assistant to D. C. Civil Defense Head

District Commissioners yesterday appointed H. Neil McKillen, 37, administrative assistant to the District civil defense director.

A civilian employe of the Metropolitan Police Department for 13 years, McKillen will fill the first of eight paid civil defense jobs created by the Commissioners from their $100,000 civil defense budget. The acting director, Inspector John E. Fondahl, was borrowed from the police department and is paid from police funds.

Numbers Charge Brings Fine for Arlington Man

Bennie Prichett, 56, of 824 Madison st., Alexandria, was fined $300 and given a 90-day suspended sentence in Alexandria Civil and Police Court yesterday on a charge of operating a lottery.

Prichett was arrested Monday at his home by Detective Andrew Benarick and Pvt. Lonnie Pendergraph, who testified they found numbers slips on him.

Lawyer Supply Runs Out, Judge Neilson Recesses Court

The Constitution collided with a scarcity of lawyers yesterday in Municipal Court.

Three weeks ago Judge George D. Neilson announced that henceforth lawyers would be appointed for all defendants appearing before him, even if the defendants asked to waive their constitutional right to counsel.

The plan worked without a flaw until yesterday, when Judge Neilson opened his court promptly at 10 a. m.

For 45 minutes he appointed lawyers so fast that the ordinarily ample supply was exhausted, and the judge was forced to recess for about 15 minutes until it could be replenished.

Fairfax Rule Issue Barred From Schools

Government Change Discussions in Class Banned by Woodson Until After Elections

The proposed change in the Fairfax County form of government, a hot political issue and a topic of county-wide discussion, is a banned subject in the county's schools tthese days.

County School Superintendent W. T. Woodson has issued an order to all principals "to avoid discussion of the proposed forms of county government" until after the November 7 election.

Voters then will decide whether the county government will be changed from the present board of supervisor system, and if so, whether Fairfax will have a county manager or a county executive system.

The subject is so controversial, said Woodson in Fairfax in his directive, that discussion of it has been banned even though the county's schools "are required to teach county, State and Federal governments to the pupils."

No Speakers

The school principals also were requested not to have "any outside speakers or permit distribution of any literature in connection with county government to the pupils."

The order yesterday brought criticism from several teachers as "dictation," and some feel they could discuss the issues objectively with profit to the students. They also pointed out that the subject has special interest for the students at this time.

School officials, on the other hand, are convinced that most teachers are unable to hew a straight line through the controversial local government issues at this time.

"As a matter of fact, one of the things that caused us to do this was the case of one teacher who very conscientiously started out to give all sides," said J. H. Rice, assistant superintendent of schools.

Parents Protest

"We immediately received a dozen or more protests from parents," he declared. Rice said another problem that came up was the dissemination of referendum literature at one school by a speaker. The literature was taken home by some pupils, and that brought more protests, he said.

Rice, who was speaking for Woodson as well as for himself, said the order was not the result of any action by the school board.

"We just decided that you can't keep politics out of such discussions at this time," he said. "We will have to work with the county government no matter what the outcome of the referendum. After all, the schools will still be overcrowded after November 7—so we just don't want any kind of politics or propaganda in the schools."

Over Loudspeaker

In one school, announcement of the order was made over the loudspeaker system while a civics class on county government was in progress. The teacher commented that she guessed it meant they couldn't finish the discussion.

School officials pointed out that the order applies only to discussion of the "proposed forms of county government" in Fairfax County and that they are not attempting to stop the teaching of county government as such.

"We wish our schools to be kept entirely out of this controversy," said the superintendent's order, "and we do not wish the schools to be used by any group as a means of distributing propaganda.

"You should not permit any literature regarding this subject to be distributed to your pupils in the school buildings, on the school grounds or on the school buses," it said.

Gas Boost Plea Argued By Company

Consumer to Get About $2.50 Refund If Appeals Court Backs Goldsborough

The future of the $750,000 gas rate increase was put in the hands of the Court of Appeals yesterday after 4½ hours of arguments.

The District Public Utilities Commission granted the increase to the Washington Gas Light Co. in November, 1949.

District Court Judge T. Alan Goldsborough set aside the increase last June, when, he said, the PUC acted "cynically," "arbitrarily" and "illegally" in granting the raise.

A spokesman for the PUC said yesterday if the Court of Appeals upholds Judge Goldsborough, the average gas consumer will receive a flat refund of approximately $2.50.

Judges Henry W. Edgerton, David Bazelon and Charles Fahy presided. They took the case under advisement at the conclusion of arguments.

The PUC order granting the increase was appealed to Judge Goldsborough by Vernon V. Baker, an Interstate Commerce Commission lawyer, acting as a private citizen and as chairman of the utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

William A. Roberts, attorney for Baker, and former PUC peoples counsel, told the court Judge Goldsborough was right in ruling that the company could not include $1,744,000 worth of abandoned property in the 32-million-dollar rate base on which the company was entitled to a fair return.

Attorneys for the gas company argued that the PUC acted reasonably in allowing the company to earn a return on this investment.

D. C. Man Held In Lynchburg Hit-Run Death

A 36-year-old Washington man was arrested yesterday in the hit-and-run death of a pedestrian early Monday in Lynchburg, Va.

Traced through auto tag numbers sent from Lynchburg, police held Conley Winfield, whose address was listed as 5715 Foote st. ne., for investigation.

Winfield denied knowledge of the accident, but police said there were signs of recent damage to his automobile. Lynchburg investigators were en route to Washington last night.

Howard M. Bradbury, 69, of 1608 Crittenden st. nw., manager of the Washington Wholesale Drug Exchange, was injured yesterday when his auto was in collision with one driven by Morris R. Cohen of Monticello, N. Y., at 16th and Allison sts. nw.

Suffering from shock, Bradbury was treated at Doctors Hospital and admitted for observation. Cohen was charged with passing a red light and colliding.

David Douglas, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Douglas, of 1323 C st. se., was struck and critically injured by an automobile in front of 518 13th st. se., at 4:50 p. m. yesterday.

Traffic Division Pvts. Edward E. Proudfoot and Earl B. King reported the child ran between parked cars into the path of a car driven by William E. Moore, 27, a Navy Yard machinist

Boy, 2, Slightly Hurt In Fall from Auto

A 2-year-old Alexandria boy escaped serious injury yesterday when he fell from the back of an automobile which his mother was driving, Alexandria police reported.

Mrs. Terry Vescer of 3202 Wilson ave., told police her son, John, was riding in the back of her car when she heard the rear door open. When she stopped, John fell to the street. A policeman took the boy to Alexandria Hospital, where he was treated for shock. He received a scratch over the right eye.

Ice Cream for Breakfast? Many Are Called But Few Are Frozen

Exactly 360 men and women sat down yesterday morning to an ice cream breakfast in the Mayflower's Grand Ballroom.

They had ice cream in their fruit cups, their corn flakes and their coffee.

They had it on everything except their scrambled eggs.

This effort to revolutionize the breakfast habits of America was pronounced a burning success by the biased diners, members of the National Association of Retail Ice Cream Manufacturers, in convention here.

"A great deal of ice cream early in the morning would help," said one ice cream man with a gleam in his eye. He didn't say what it would help.

But in addition several breakfast-eaters noted for their detachment—i. e., a Congressman and a table of newspapermen—reported there was nothing quite like getting the day off to a freezing start.

The menu directed that the fruit cup and the cornflakes should be consumed with ice cream. But one newspaperwoman, along with the ice cream men, went a step further and dumped a hunk in her coffee.

"Delicious!" she reported.

President Arthur E. Jowett denounced the rumor that ice cream makes women's stomachs bigger.

"If you eat ice cream," he explained with murky logic, "you don't eat as much other food."

People, he said, should think of ice cream not as a dessert but as a staple menu item. Ice cream in your fruit cup! Ice cream with your corn flakes! Ice cream in your coffee!

About 800 ice cream men from all the States, Hawaii and Canada are expected in town for the convention running through Thursday at the Mayflower.

The convention attacks the subject of ice cream from every angle. An "Ice Cream Clinic" was on the program for yesterday, with ice cream samples from all parts of the United States and Canada available for taste inspection.

Speaker at today's luncheon at 12:30 in the ballroom will be Josh Lee, member of the Civil Aeronautics Board, whose subject will be, "The Sky is the Limit."

Ancient Custom of the Orient

Convention Of Chinese Masons Opens

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

In an aura of tea-drinking and incense-burning, the ancient customs and wisdom of the East flowed into Washington yesterday and at an appropriate time—China's "Fourth of July."

From 48 states, Canada and Hawaii, 200 Chinese Free Masons arrived for their week-long annual convention at 819 Sixth st. nw.

Various formal things were afoot but the most delightful on the first day was an unscheduled event at a dinner in the evening.

While Chinese drums beat, 9-year-old twins Douglas Lee and Ernest Lee Jung each mounted a knee of the oldest Mason present—88-year-old Lee You—and then plucked with happy squeals at his white goatee.

Professional Letter Writer

Old Lee You, who is a professional letter writer from his home at 517 H st. nw., was equally delighted by his visitors, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Jung. Jung, a restaurateur, is head of the District's Chinese Masons.

The merry evening continued with actress, Men Yah-Moy chanting Chinese songs. She is a Mason herself. The Chinese are one of the few nationalities which permit women to be Masons.

Earlier the delegates visited the Chinese Embassy, where they were received by Ambassador and Mrs. V. K. Wellington Koo in observance of the revolt on October 10, 1911, against the Manchu dynasty.

Leo Lee, secretary of the Masons, made it plain, however, that the group is not political and does not intend to become involved in the current Chinese political situation.

Want to Help People

But, he continued, they will discuss how they may help the Chinese people as such.

"When we think of the people," he said, "we think of the family. Family happy . . . people happy. People happy . . . family happy. Everybody in China belong to family. Village all one family. We want family be happy."

The sessions, said Lee, will be characterized by permitting "everyone to have say." Yesterday, everyone who felt like it spoke his piece when any question arose.

"Democratic," said Lee. "Everyone have say."

Council to Aid Dog Owners In Eviction

Tenants fighting for their dogs and homes in three Alexandria Housing Authority projects last night won the support of the city council.

The council appointed a committee to do what it could to help tenants in the Cameron Valley, Chinquapin and John Roberts Homes who have a Housing Authority ultimatum to get rid of their dogs by November 1 or be evicted.

Councilman Leroy S. Bendheim said the tenants had raised quite a furor and declared "I am inclined to agree with them. If the authority wishes to enforce its ban on dogs on new occupants, I would go along with it. But it is unfair to those already occupying the homes to put the rule in effect at this time."

He said that the families of three servicemen now in Korea are among those threatened with eviction because they don't want to give up their pets. Bendheim said he felt the council should ask the commissioners and directors of the Housing Authority to rescind the ban as it applies to those now living in the homes.

Bendheim and Councilman Marshall J. Beverley were appointed to intercede with the authority.

E. F. Ticer, chairman of the board of commissioners, said the authority put the ban in effect after receiving several complaints. One that a child had been bitten, another that the dogs had disarranged children's sand boxes.

Mrs. E. W. Ladry, who owns houses at 320 and 327 North Henry st., complained to the council that an alley running west of her property was dirty. Councilman Albert S. Smoot was named chairman of a committee with other city officials as members to look into the problem. Smoot said that there was a possibility that the city could take action against owners of property abutting dirty alleys.

Another complaint came to the council from Roy A. Maurer of 18 E. Howell ave. He said that sewage was seeping into his cellar.

Pulaski, Polish Hero, To Be Honored Today

Gen. Wladyslaw Anders, commander of the Polish army in exile, and Jan Ciechanowski, former Ambassador to the United States, will join in memorial observances at noon today at the Pulaski Monument, 13th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw.

Several Polish American groups in the Washington area will also take part in the ceremonies sponsored by the Polish American Congress, Inc., to honor the memory of Gen. Casimir Pulaski, Polish patriot and hero of the American Revolution.

Bid to Assure Enlargement Of Park Unit Gets Setback

Virginians Oppose Regional Planning Council's Attempt To Expand NCPPC

Gutheim

The note of discord among area planners developed at the first meeting of the newly-formed Washington Regional Plannning Council, whose advance the "orderly and integrated development on the Washington region."

In the course of approving a constitution and by-laws yesterday, there were two or three other dignified tiffs between Washington planning officials and their Maryland and Virginia counterparts who now are seeking to work in closer hormony.

Frederick Gutheim, author of "the Potomac" and instigator of the Regional Council, was elected chairman. John W. Brookfield, chairman of the Northern Virginia Planning Commission, was named vice chairman and John Nolen, jr., staff director of the National Capitol Park and Planning Commission, was elected secretary-treasurer for the coming year. About 20 area planners attended the initial meeting.

It was Brookfield, supported by another nearby Virginia delegate, who blocked a move to place the council on record for the Senate-approved bill to enlarge the NCPPC and extend its authority into nearby Virginia and Maryland.

Blair, 3d, vice chairman of the Maryland-National Capitol Park and Planning Commission, urged the group to make an indorsement of the measure its "very first action."

Nolen of NCPPC was on the losing end of an earlier argument with Lee and Engineer Commissioner Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young over the stated purpose of the new Regional Council.

Its constitution said the council will "act to achieve a coordinated program of action on all levels . . ." Nolen proposed, but was voted down, to amend that language to read the council will "endeavor to facilitate a coordinated program . . ." because, he said, his NCPPC had sole power to "act."

General Young told the group they should work for close mutual aid agreements in the civil defense program and should consider the District, Alexandria, Arlington, Fairfax, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties as one target area from the civil defense viewpoint.

$15,500 Given Woman Hurt In Car Accident

A 76-year-old woman yesterday received a $15,000 consent judgment in District Court on her contention that she became mentally ill as the result of an automobile accident.

She is Mrs. Laura R. Sullivan, a housewife, of 1424 Holbrook st. ne. Her husband, Harvey Sullivan, 75-year-old retired Western Union employe, received $500 additional for expenses and loss of his wife's services.

The defendants were James D. Garrison, 2d, an automobile salesman; his son, James, 3d, operator of the automobile in the collision, and the Ourisman Chevrolet, Inc., owner of the automobile.

Mrs. Sullivan suffered a cerebral concussion and leg injuries while walking across Bladensburg rd. near Levis st. ne. on December 30, 1949. It was charged that the young Garrison operated the vehicle negligently

43 Sewing Machines Missing; 2 Men Charged With Larceny

Two men who, Arlington police say, pilfered $5000 worth of sewing machines from the Singer Sewing Machine Co., 4036 S. 28th st., where they worked, over a 6-month period, were charged with grand larceny yesterday.

A preliminary hearing for the accused men, Bernard Merritt, 26, of 304 E. Cameron rd., Falls Church, and Alvin R. Mindel, 19, of 410 Cedar st. nw., was continued until October 19 yesterday in Arlington County Court.

Police said Mindel took machines out of the store's stock room, managed by Merritt, for six months until Merritt was fired in July for "irregularities" in handling vacuum cleaners also sold by the store.

The men also would pick up rental sewing machines and instead of returning them to the store, sold them, according to detectives.

Columbia Pike Use Study Gets Started

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

The Arlington County policeman waved the motorists into one lane and the traffic checkers explained that this was a road survey and please, where were you coming from and where were you going. That's all.

Ninety-nine percent of the motorists halted yesterday along Columbia pike responded with good, solid answers—they were going home, or to work or to the dentist, but there was the other 1 percent that makes road surveys interesting.

One male—the only person of the 1077 motorists queried—objected to stopping. Assured it would take only 45 seconds or a minute at the outside, he shouted that he didn't even have that much time to spare.

Stork in the Offing

He was on his way home to take his wife to the hospital — the stork was flapping overhead, he told A. Clason Taylor, technical director of the Regional Highway Planning Survey of Metropolitan Washington.

Taylor waved him on. But today when the Survey is scheduled to resume, he will be watching for the new papa to find out (1) whether it was a boy or a girl and (2) where was he coming from and where was he going yesterday. The records must be complete, Taylor affirmed.

Then there was the male motorist who came by about 9 a. m.—three hours after the survey began—and had this to say about where he was going:

"I'm going to call on a friend—a close friend.

"Oh, you want to know the street address. Well, I don't think she'd like me to say." And that was that.

There was also these replies to the standard questions:

"I'm just driving—no place special."

A Nosy Character

"Oh, I'm not going anywhere. I just drove up to see what it's all about."

"We're looking for an apartment. Do you know where there is one?"

"It's such a nice day, we're heading for Shenandoah Valley. Want to come along?" The checker reluctantly declined.

"I'm looking for a job so I'm just driving around."

But then there was the female who stopped for the one-minute questioning, but stayed for five. She had something on her mind when the questions were asked.

"This road is packed with traffic in the early morning hours. There should be a traffic light on the next corner," etc., etc. . . .

The checker interrupted to explain that he was only there to count noses on origins and destinations—not to change the highway system. It did him no good. Five minutes later he got the information he needed.

The 13 checkers began at 6 a. m. and continued to 2 p. m. Today they expect to run from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m., Glenn G. Persun of the Bureau of Public Roads, head of the survey said.

The checkers were from the Virginia and D. C. highway departments, the Regional Survey staff and the Bureau of Public Roads. The Columbia Pike check, located yesterday between South Columbus and South Frederick sts., supplements one made on Shirley hwy. in August to determine use of expressways.

Postlude

Ormandy Gives Great Performance

By Paul Hume

Eugene Ormandy's impassioned conducting of music from Wagner's Tristan provided the great thrill of last night's Philadelphia Orchestra concert.

It was the first symphony program of the season in Constitution Hall and was played for a packed house. Ormandy, rested from a summer in Switzerland near where Wagner wrote most of his great love drama, made the music come to life in unceasing beauty.

Surely if any orchestra can present this music adequately, intended to be sung by soprano, contralto and tenor, it is the Philadelphia. Their tone gleams in the fullest passages, and can be hushed to a muted whisper.

The solo instrument sang the famous music with expansive warmth. Yet nothing can take the place of Wagner's own conception. Nor can even the most golden trumpet or the silkiest cello give the unique thrill of a Flagstad or Melchior.

For without the voices Wagner intended, there is an agitation in the orchestra that becomes too pronounced if heard minus the long, sustained lines of the singing Tristan and Isolde.

The first half of the program was as familiar as the Wagner. It was an evening disappointing in its lack of any shadow of freshness—for in 1950, it is no longer possible to put ourselves back over a century in sound, with no new note to remind us of an ongoing life. Is music to die because nothing is played until it has lasted a hundred years? How do things survive if they are not played?

Beethoven's third Leonore Overture opened the evening, followed by the same master's seventh symphony. The overture was virile and thrilling, as always, or nearly always. The symphony suffered from absence of the broad line, in place of which one heard minutest details overdone. But it won an ovation. It always does, no matter how it is played. The applause is always the same.

Hartle Blames GOP for Early Korea Setback

Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, USA (ret.), Democratic candidate for the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland, last night blamed the Republicans for South Korean weakness in the early stages of the fighting.

He told the Montgomery County Women's Democratic Club that it was the Republicans who voted against the 50-million Korean aid bill which was later passed.

Speaking in the Jesup Blair Community House, Georgia ave. and the District line, the veteran of both World Wars, said that he was against having military men participate in government in ordinary times, but in times like these military men could contribute much toward preventing World War III, he asserted.

He called the appointment of Gen. George C. Marshall as Secretary of Defense one of the greatest strategic and diplomatic moves ever made. Hartle is running against the incumbent Republican, Representative J. Glenn Beall.

Mrs. Margaret Schweinhaut, candidate for the House of Delegates from Montgomery County, urged the women to attend a county-wide rally at Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, Thursday night, at which leading Democratic candidates will speak.

Mrs. Anna Roach, president of the club, appointed Mrs. Roger Shaw and Mrs. Catherine Davies as delegates to the State convention of United Women's Democratic Clubs in Baltimore, October 25-26.

Citizens Group Votes to Back Rezone Plan

The Lamond Heights Citizens Association last night approved the proposed rezoning of the area at Chillum pl. and Kansas ave. nw., from residential to commercial.

At the same time, the group voted to oppose the proposed rezoning of land on Kansas ave. near Eastern ave., from detached residential to semi-detached residential.

Meeting at the Masonic and Eastern Star Home, 6000 New Hampshire ave. ne., the group asked the Capital Transit Co. to extend its K-2 bus line to provide service along Riggs rd. to Eastern ave.

Another resolution adopted requested quick building up of the five-acre recreation site along Riggs rd.

Thomas Circle

James H. Tobias, of 1453 Rhode Island ave. nw., was elected secretary of the Thomas Circle Citizens Association last night. He succeeds Mrs. Mary B. Wilson, who resigned.

The association adopted a resolution opposing the proposed merger of Wilson and Miner's Teachers Colleges. It also urged that all swimming pools in the District be segregated and that control of all be given to the Board of Recreation, Tobias said.

The group voted to contribute to the Federation of Citizens Associations in its legal fight against a gas rate increase.

3 Youths Held In Robbery Of Hitchhiker

Three Falls Church youths—one of them the son of a bank cashier who was robbed of $13,400 last November—were accused yesterday of robbing an Arlington hitchhiker of $7.

Charged with robbery were William A. Monch, 19, of Route 2, Joseph J. Catte, 21, of 222 W. Greenway blvd., and Charles E. Goldsmith, 21, of 608 North st.

Arlington police and FBI agents quizzed the trio about the $13,468 robbery of the East Falls Church bank November 2. At that time, Catte's mother, Mrs. Beatrice Catte, was the only employe on duty when two men held up the bank.

But Police Chief Harry L. Woodyard said, "We're satisfied that these men didn't have anything to do with" the bank robbery.

Raymond Sliwka, 31, of 2620 N. Ohio st., Arlington, told police the trio picked him up in their car early yesterday in Rosslyn when he asked for a lift to his house.

They drove him west on Lee hwy., Sliwka related, and at N. Potomac st. stopped the car, dumped him from it, took his wallet containing the $7, and sped off.

All three waived preliminary hearing yesterday in Arlington County Court and were held for action of the grand jury. Goldsmith was released in $1000 bond, but Catte and Monch were held in Arlington jail in lieu of the same bond.

3 Hospitalized After Taking Sleeping Pills

Two men and one woman were said by police to have taken sleeping pills yesterday. All were taken to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation. Two were reported in critical and one in fair condition last night.

Mrs. Sarah L. Lynn, 31, of 653 Maryland ave. ne., was in fair condition. Detective Serg. Bernard Crooke of the Homicide Squad said her husband, Arthur, told him his wife had been despondent. Sergeant Crooke quoted him as saying she had taken four sleeping pills just after midnight yesterday while they were riding in their automobile. She was taken to Casualty Hospital and then to Gallinger.

A Pullman conductor, Harry S. Brewbaker, 39, of 3220 17th st. nw., took eight sleeping pills early yesterday, Detective Sergt. Lionel Coucher of the Homicide Squad said. Coucher said that Brewbaker gulped the pills in the presence of friends. He is in critical condition.

Carson Thomas, 30, of 1208 5th st. ne., swallowed 28 sleeping pills about 2 a. m. yesterday, Sergeant Crooke said. Crooke said he was despondent over domestic difficulties. Taken first to Freedmen's Hospital, he was transferred to Gallinger in critical condition. Police said he was an employe of General Services Administration.

4 Rapists Slated For Chair Nov. 17; 3 More Go Nov. 20

MARTINSVILLE, Va., Oct. 10 (AP).—Judge Kennon C. Whittle today fixed new execution dates for seven Martinsville Negroes condemned to death for the rape of a white woman. A Richmond court denied their requests for writs of habeas corpus.

Under the court's order today four of the seven will be put to death at the State Penitentiary in Richmond on November 17. These will be Joe Henry Hampton, Frank Hairston, jr., and Booker T. Millner, all 21, and Howard Lee Hairston, 20.

The others—Francis DeSales Grayson, 38; John Clabon Taylor and James Luther Hairston, 21—will be electorcuted on November 20.

Judge Whittle complied with a request by Defense Attorney Martin A. Martin that the dates not be set prior to November 17.

Dietetic Officials Arrive to Plan 33d Convention

Officials of the American Dietetic Association arrived here last night to hold executive board meetings in preparation for the thirty-third annual convention, which opens October 17.

About 3500 nutritionists and dietitians are expected to meet at the Statler Hotel and the National Guard Armory next week.

Among those arriving for preconvention meetings were Miss Elizabeth Perry, assistant superintendant and head dietitian of City Hospital, Cleveland, who is president of the association, and Dr. Lillian Storms Coover, of Ames, Iowa, nutrition consultant to the Gerber Products Company, who is president-elect.

New Bladensburg Postoffice Opens Its Doors Today

The Bladensburg Postoffice will open its new quarters at 4912 Annapolis rd. today, Postmaster C. Howard Brown announced yesterday.

Formal dedication of the new postoffice will take place Friday at 3 p. m., Brown said, with Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.) and Postoffice officials taking part.

The postoffice has been located since 1904 in a store at 4303 Baltimore ave. It was run by Brown, and by his father, Hyman Brown, before him.

Hours for the new postoffice will be the same as at the old location, Brown said—8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Adventists Vote $10,000 for Korea

By the United Press

The Seventh-Day Adventist relief committee has voted $10,000 to Korean relief, it was announced yesterday in Takoma Park.

An additional $1000 will be used to buy Korean CARE packages, and welfare societies in Adventist churches in this country and Canada will be asked to collect clothing.

A church spokesman said Dr. George Rue, medical director of the Seventh-Day Adventist Hospital outside Seoul, is en route back there to take charge. The 150-bed hospital was undamaged in the battle for the Korean capital.

From Center of Alexandria to Heart Of Washington—Only 19 Minutes

Have you wondered whether you are taking the quickest route to work? TRAFFIC TRICKS, recommended routes developed from the Regional Highway Planning Survey of Metropolitan Washington, has the answer on the fast way to get to 14th and Pennsylvania ave. nw. or the Capitol.

RESIDENTS of Alexandria, Va., should take this route—

From the intersection of King and Washington sts., take North Washington st. through on Mount Vernon Memorial hwy., cross the East Highway (14th st.) bridge and continue up 14th st. to Pennsylvania ave.

The average peak traffic time is 19.25 minutes for the 6.8-mile distance. From the starting intersection, it should take 13 minutes to the bridge.

OTHER ROUTE: Take North Washington st., bearing left on Powhatan st., cross the railroad tracks on the Monroe ave. overpass, right on River rd. through Jefferson Davis hwy., across the East Highway (14th st.) bridge and up 14th to Pennsylvania ave. Time: 21.5 minutes for the 6.9-mile distance; 15.3 minutes to the bridge.

The recommended route to the Capitol is via North Washington st., Mount Vernon hwy., East Highway bridge, up 14th, right on Constitution ave. to the Capitol. Time: 24 minutes for the 7.9-mile distance; 13 minutes to the bridge. If you prefer, take a right on D st. and follow the Route 1 truck route to Constitution ave., but surveys indicate this will not save time over the Constitution ave. direct route.

Here Comes the Bride—Dressed in a Hurry

By Evelyn Hayes

ONCE AGAIN THE THEME song is "Here Come the Brides!" With Uncle Sam sending greetings again, there's been a great rush to the altar. Rush or no, the "I do's" remain the same, but there IS a difference when wedding preparations have to be telescoped and when future plans are indefinite.

War or peace, though, the bride always wants to look her prettiest on her day, no matter what the practical considerations. The traditionalist will always wear a formal white gown complete with train—and there are lovely new ones in the shops to choose from.

They are simple in design with snug-fitting bodices and great full skirts which are invariably worn over hoops so the bride will make a pretty picture walking down the aisle. Some are appliqued with lace, others are embellished with beads at the neckline.

ONE OF THE LOVELIEST of lovely gowns is at Garfinckel's Bridal Salon. In champagne color (newer than white!) silk taffeta, it is cut on flattering princess lines with huge bows of matching satin posed on either side of the full skirt. Also in this shop is a long-sleeved white cotton lace with tight bodice and full skirt—the whole over champagne colored net to give a flattering tone to the white.

Many brides this year want to compromise with tradition and wear a shorter dress or one that can shed its cover-up after the ceremony and serve as a dance dress. Newest of these—and very young and appealing—are the guimpe dresses. These are low-necked dance dresses with attractive guimpes to fill in bare spots, the dress to be worn beautifully bare for dancing later.

WOODWARD & LOTHROP is selling lots of young brides the jacket-type convertible. One of their prettiest is made of imported chantilly-type lace lined with taffeta for stand-out and swish. The basque jacket fits snugly over a strapped ballerina dance dress with flaring skirt.

At Kaplowitz there's a charming informal bridal gown, perfect choice for a very young bride. It's a full-skirted net ballerina dress with embroidered net bodice and an enchanting tiny collar. This, spiced with bright velvet accessories, could go dancing after the bride shakes off the rice.

BEAUTIFUL THE BRIDE who wears this magnificent bridal gown. A dream of a dress spun of ivory satin and lace with an extravagant train of lace. Alternating godets of lace and satin fashion the flattering skirt. Photographed in Helena Rubinstein's New York penthouse. Available at Jelleff's

CLEVER THE BRIDE who chooses a convertible wedding gown such as this. A three-piece costume of white brocaded taffeta and net, its separate waist-length jacket covers a basic sleeveless dress of matching taffeta. The trailing overskirt of white net is detachable, can be worn with this or other pastel sheaths after the wedding. At Joan Roberts on Connecticut ave.

HAPPY THE BRIDE who can be married in the flattering bridal gown pictured above. Made of starched cotton lace, its bare-shouldered decolletage is camouflaged by a tiny shoulder cape. Happy the bride's father, too, at the modest price of this beauty. At Hecht's

New Nutrition Theories

By Lucia Brown

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 10. Would your child just naturally pick out the foods he needed most if you turned him loose on the refrigerator three times a day instead of serving meals?

New evidence says not, Dr. C. G. King told the National Food Editors' Conference here yesterday. This may come as no surprise to mothers of small Jackies and Susies, but it does shed doubt on recently propounded theories on the ability of animal and man to select by instinct the foods required for health.

In a long-continuing study, Dr. King told the 136 food editors, only 20 to 35 per cent of test animals picked out and ate sufficient protein food to sustain health.

Dr. King, scientific director of the Nutrition Foundation, Inc., had other news of vital interest to homemakers in his annual summing-up of nutrition research for the food editors.

The effects of maternal diet on the health of a baby at birth was one subject he reported on. New records in an extensive Harvard study of the subject, Dr. King said, show that when mother's diet was "excellent" or "good," 43 per cent of the infants had a health rating of excellent and 52 per cent had a rating of "good." When mother's diet was rated "poor" or "very poor," only 3 per cent of the babies had excellent health; 5 per cent good, 27 per cent fair and 65 per cent poorest.

Enrichment of bread has resulted in the almost entire disappearance of pellagra in the United States, Dr. King said.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Rebuilding Her Life and Planning for Her Child, Girl Who Was Deserted by Bridegroom Sees Little Husband Material Here; Is It Wise to Move Away?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I married at 23, thinking I had found the ideal partner. He deserted me within the year, four months before our son was born. Sonny is 4 years old now and I am 28. My wonderful understanding parents came to our rescue and we've been making our home with them. I've held a job since Sonny was 8 months old, and mother cares for him during the day.

I hold church and club memberships and consequently have some social contacts. In the past three years I have had two marriage proposals, and I regret that I did not accept the second offer, but that is water under the bridge now. I find adequate dating material here, but I do not feel there is adequate husband material in this city,—hence the problem.

I am a Government employe, and owing to the nature of my work I have opportunity to be transferred to almost any part of the country. I am thinking of going to the West Coast, and mother is willing to keep Sonny for a period of six months to a year, until I could provide adequate care for him in the new location. But is it right for me to leave him behind for six months or more, at this stage of his growth? I would miss him very much, and he might suffer insecurity feelings that would be hard to eradicate later on.

I feel I have already overstayed my welcome in my parents' home, and I don't want to live with them permanently; consequently the time seems ripe to change things. But yet I don't want to put Sonny in charge of a disinterested stranger, or in a nursery school, while I am at work—nine hours a day. He was in school for a short time and begged not to go back. When I try to weigh alternatives my thoughts go in circles, and I do need outside advice, preferably yours—so please answer soon. L. K.

DEAR L. K.: As I get the picture, Sonny has lived in his grandparents' home virtually from the day he was born, with the possible exception of a hospital sojourn at the time of delivery. And it appears that his grandmother has been chief custodian of his person during most of his four years, taking care of him during the day since you went to work when he was eight months old.

In view of this background, he seems pretty well insulated against insecurity feelings, in the event you should leave him anchored to these familiar associations while you go away for six months or so, to pioneer a new home site in surroundings that would be strange at first to both of you. Assuming you are a devoted mother, it is likely, indeed, that you will be made more anxious than he, by the dislocating experience of prolonged separation.

You may console yourself that a young child's memory is fairly short on the score of grieving for departed favorites, if his daily regimen is sustained by good physical care and loving interest from his custodians; and if these guardians deal sympathetically with his initial distress, and give him confidence that "all is well" with the absentee. And it seems safe to say that your "wonderful understanding" parents would do a good job on this front with Sonny.

However, Sonny is facing an orientation problem of sorts, I think. He may have difficulty getting weaned from undue emotional dependency upon his granny, when the time comes to live under your wing away from her. Or even when the time comes for him to start grade school, supposing he might still be living in the present set-up then.

Thus it's constructive to think ahead about that transitional phase of his growth, from infantilism to tentative self-reliance, so that you won't be caught off guard if he fumbles or fights new experiences appropriate to his years.

For advice, don't remain semi-dependent on your parents' bounty, due to fear of mistakes you may make in trying to stand on your own feet. Muster the courage to try your luck as an independent operator, and don't be pessimistic about the effects on Sonny.

Any expansion of effort that matures your character should indirectly help him also, even though both may suffer emotional bruises in exploring new territory. And to get your bearings and keep your head as a fully responsible parent, talk face-to-face with any good specialist in family relations when you feel uncertain how to proceed in a given instance. The Yule Log

Today You Can Get a Start

By Dorothea Cruger

LET'S FACE IT! Maybe it's not exactly around the corner but it's coming down the street, and fast! In fact, in just 75 more days it will be with us.

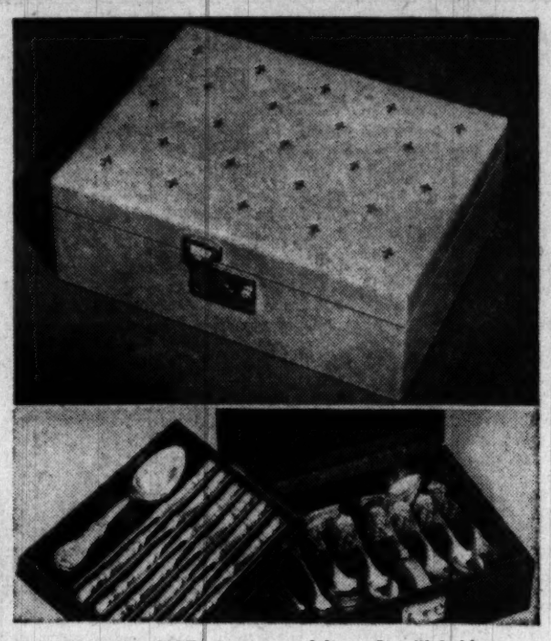
What? Christmas, of course. That magical season of St. Nicholas, eggnog and mistletoe, snow on the roof and gifts by the tree. Yes, gifts! Does that call to mind other years when you've trekked from counter to counter, dashed frantically into the drugstore at the last moment, reaching out for almost any gadget, like a drowning man clutching a swizzle stick.

Well, this year, by the old gray beard and glittering eye of Santa himself, there'll be some changes made. And we're going to help make them, by giving you a shove in the right direction with a series of gift suggestions twice a week. TODAY WE START off with four items that will make nice gifts for special people on your shopping list. One for the sportsman, one for a recent bride or homemaker, one for any gal you choose, and one for the junior member of the family.

WHETHER the girl on your shopping list does any traveling or not, she'll be grateful for these plastic jars and bottles, which come in a neat matching case. Made of Vinylite plastic, with shiny metal tops, they are amazingly light, and also resistant to most chemicals, scuffing, abrasion and moisture. Available under $3 at Jelleff's and Garfinckel's.

THIS IS such a cute gift you won't be able to wait till Christmas to present it to the baby of the family. A gaily decorated baby carriage holds a dainty comb and brush set in either white, pink or blue satiny plastic, with bristles that are soft as down. By Hughes, available at most drugstores and department stores for $1.

THIS GOLF-BALL MARKER will do everything but chase after the ball for you! The set comes with enough type to spell out any name, plus waterproof ink that won't rub off during the life of the ball. The device is easy to use, and will avert the loss of many a ball. Available for under $4 at most sporting goods stores.



PRACTICAL GIFT for a winter-season bride, as well as for Christmas giving, is this leather covered silver chest, lined with non-tarnish material, and equipped with lock and key. It will hold a complete service for 12, and has a rack in the bottom plus a lift-out tray to keep the silver in order. The top is gold-tooled in a fleur-de-lis pattern. Under $10, at Becker's.

Jobé Says...

When I saw the Dior collection the day after I reached Paris in August, I was literally stunned to find the mannequins wearing their hair in chignons—big buns or little rolls at the back of the neck, always neatly held in place with a net.

But later I saw any number of smart young women with the same hair-dos, so it certainly looks as if longer hair is staging a comeback. The buns were usually extra hair pinned on, but the rolls were actually longer hair.

Another smart hair-do that is less extreme than the chignons—and much younger—has longer hair brushed back smoothly and tied at the back in a jeweled bow, that Paris calls "Cadogan"—but looks George Washington to us.

Experiment Edna

Oval Face Today's Ideal Although Few Possess It

Fourth day of Edna's 14-day beauty program

By Ann Lawrence

TIME WAS WHEN, to some far away nations, the pinhead was considered the ideal beauty. Other tribes found loveliness in flat noses and flat heads. Tattooed lips, enlarged to twice or thrice their normal size, have also been considered the epitome of beauty.

But today, the ideal type is the oval-faced beauty. Few and far between are the women born with this ideally-oval face. But happily, we have learned that the art of make-up, hair styling and correct dress can create the illusion of an oval, even though you may have been born with round cheeks, a square jaw, or like Edna, with a long and narrow face.

Edna really did not know the actual shape of her face. And this knowledge is a "must" before choosing your coiffure, your necklines, your jewelry and your make-up.

HERE IS THE WAY Edna determined her own facial type. You can do the same.

She covered her head down to the hairline with a towel, first of all. Then, with an ordinary ruler, she began to measure the spaces between her hairline and eyebrows, her nose and chin, etc., and comparing them against the ideal standards.

For the perfect oval face, the eyes are one half the distance between the hairline and the chin. The nostrils of the nose are halfway between the eyes and the bottom of the chin. The mouth is one third from the underside of the nose and two thirds from the bottom of the chin. Using this basis of measurement, you can decide for yourself whether your face is oval, long, square, round or triangular.

EDNA FOUND HER EYES set well above the half-way mark . . . a common fault . . . and the distance from her lips to her chin well over the two thirds marks. Thus she knew that her face was longer than the standard of beauty; and her own eyes told her it was a narrow face.

The first way to counteract imperfect proportions, she learned, is by working on the shapes within your face . . . your hairline, your eyebrows and your mouth. These can all be altered to create a better shape for the face. These were lessons she would learn in the 14-day beauty course.

'Cabinet' Officers Celebrate

DAR Has Its 60th Birthday Party

By Nicha Searle

NOT FOR A MINUTE yesterday did the Daughters of the American Revolution forget their 60-year-old birthday.

On the eve of the DAR 60-year anniversary, the national cabinet officers and State regents celebrated at a formal dutch treat dinner at the Mayflower Hotel. A large silver and gold decorated "60" on the head table centerpiece told the Daughters how old their organization was and, as an extra reminder, "60" decorated the individual place favors on the tables.

It was the first large social function of the DAR since Mrs. James B. Patton was elected president general last April. A cross section of DAR leaders is convening in Washington for a series of national meetings.

SPEAKING BEFORE the 150 DAR members at the dinner, Jennings Randolph, former Congressman from West Virginia, said: "It is futile to fight for freedom in Korea if we fail at home to resist the tragic trend toward dictatorship."

As an example, Mr. Randolph cited the case of Ohio, Mrs. Patton's home State. "Only 56½ percent of potential voters in Ohio exercised their franchise in 1948."

As a result of this trend, pressure groups and selfish blocks assume control of the Government, thus leading toward dictatorship, Mr. Randolph said. "We are in danger of losing democracy by default."

WE ARE ALWAYS so sure that what has happened to other nations can never happen here, he continued. But Mr. Randolph pointed out that in 1939, communist-control embraced 171,000,000 persons, whereas today more than 830,000,000 have fallen within the Red circle.

Women have a responsibility to safeguard democracy, he told the DAR members, to a greater degree than men. Women, he continued, are closer to youth development, and that is where the job has to be done.

Korean War Has Proved U. N.'s Use, Says Blair Bolles

The District of Columbia League of Women Voters opened its 1950-51 season yesterday at the YWCA with a meeting dedicated to the United Nations.

Guest speaker Blair Bolles, director of the Washington Bureau of Foreign Policy Association, said that the Korean war has proven the usefulness of the U. N. in its present form. "Both the United States and the Soviet Union today take the organization more seriously than they have at any time during the past five years."

Mrs. Loyd Luther, second vice president of the league, announced the opening of its finance drive which will last for two weeks. Mrs. Donald C. Beatty, league president, presided.

Announce Daughter's Birth

Serve this Orange Loaf Cake from Mrs. Farnon's recipe tonight

- ½ cup shortening
- 1¼ cups Franklin Granulated Sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon orange extract
- 2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅔ cup milk
- Orange Frosting

Cream together shortening and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each. Add orange extract. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; add alternately with milk to first mixture. Pour into greased loaf pan, 9¼" x 5¼" x 2¾"; bake in moderate oven, 350°F., about 1 hour. Cool 10 minutes, remove from pan, cool on wire rack. Make up orange frosting with Franklin Confectioners' Sugar, butter, orange rind and juice. Spread on cake. Mrs. Joseph Farnon, Philadelphia, Pa., explains that the most important part is to be sure to get the right sugar . . . "I always use Franklin Extra Fine Granulated," she says. "It makes everything I bake taste so much better." Ask your favorite grocer for Franklin Pure Cane Sugars, and you will get

Franklin's "Famous Five" Advantages

1. 100% Pure Sugar Cane Sugar
2. Extra-Fine Granulated
3. Fast-Dissolving
4. Free-Mixing

Colonial Wars Group Voices A Few "No's"

The National Society of Daughters of Colonial Wars voiced opposition to the "Crusade for Freedom" at their semiannual meeting yesterday.

The patriotic society commended the Nation-wide movement known as the "Crusade for Freedom," in which men, women and children are being asked to sign a petition endorsing this crusade. But, the society added, since the list of Crusade sponsors includes the names of known World Government supporters, the society is resolved "that the National Society, Daughters of Colonial Wars, commends the idea of freedom but wished to record opposition to the organization in the belief that its program, if carried out, would lead to the loss of sovereignty of the United States."

In their trio of resolutions yesterday, the national board, DCW, opposed the use of the United Nations flag or any other flag but that of the United States on any public building.

Another resolution, concerning mobilization of the woman power of the Nation through the Department of Defense, suggested that the president of the DCW write a letter to Miss Margaret Banister, director of the women's interest section of the Department of Defense, offering the services and cooperation of the society.

Iran's Embassy Scene of Supper

By Marie McNair and Elizabeth Maguire

A BUFFET SUPPER at the Iranian Embassy last night with Gholam Abbas Aram, counselor of the embassy, as host, was given to speed the international commission of water experts happily on their way to Iran.

The commission, composed of C. E. Webb from Canada, Francisco Javier Dominiguez Sola of Chile and Robert L. Lowry of the United States, are going to Iran and Afghanistan to make recommendations to both governments on the subject of the Hirmand River which separates the two countries and about which there have been some differences.

The new Iran Ambassador, Nasrollah Entezam, sent out invitations for the fete and had expected to be present, but duties as president of United Nations kept him in New York.

Among the 70 or more guests were Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. George McGhee and former U. S. Ambassador to Iran and Mrs. John Wiley.

Abdul Hamid Aziz, Afghanistan Minister, was a guest along with members of his embassy's staff.

ALONG EMBASSY ROW

THE AMBASSADOR OF GREECE, Anthanase G. Politis, shared honors with Mrs. Leigh Wade, wife of the U. S. Air Attache at the U. S. Embassy in Greece, at a cocktail party given yesterday by Col. and Mrs. Harvey Smith of Arlington. Colonel Smith has recently returned from Greece, where he served as Army Attache at the embassy. Mrs. Wade, who has been widely entertained during her visit to Washington, is returning to Europe Saturday on the Ile de France

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Browne and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hillhouse were honored yesterday at a cocktail party given by the Commercial Counselor at the Canadian Embassy, John H. English, and Mrs. English at their home from 6 to 8 o'clock. Mr. Browne and Mr. Hillhouse are new commercial secretaries at the Canadian Embassy.

THE COUNSELOR OF THE IRISH EMBASSY, Hugh McCann, and Mrs. McCann entertained a small company at dinner last evening in honor of Paul Walter Meyer, newly appointed Counselor of the United States Embassy in Dublin, and Mrs. Meyer.

GEORGE BAKER of the State Department is sailing Saturday on the Ile de France. He will be at the U. S. Embassy in London from six weeks to two months on a special consultation job.

PARTY PARADE:

A STAG DINNER for officers of the Argentine training cruiser L'Argentina, was given last evening by Rear Admiral Milton E. Miles, director of Pan American affairs and U. S. naval missions. In the group were 10 Argentina naval officers and 10 U. S. naval officers, including Capt. Ignacio Chamaro, commandant of L'Argentina, and Rear Admiral Merlo Flores, Argentine Naval Attache.

Admiral Miles invited his guests to have cocktails at his home, and to dine at the Officers Club at Bethesda Naval Medical Center.

Yesterday at 9:30 a. m. the visiting officers placed flowers on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and on the monument of the Liberator General San Martin. In the afternoon they drove to Mount Vernon.

Today Captain Chamaro and his officers will visit Annapolis, and in the evening they will return to New York, whence they will sail for Puerto Rico, Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires.

AT LA SALLE DU BOIS yesterday the Secretary of the Senate, Leslie Biffle, had luncheon with Senator Clinton Anderson, and the U. S. Minister to Luxembourg, Mrs. Perle Mesta lunched with Mrs. India Edwards.

THE FOREIGN MINISTER of Austria, Dr. Karl Gruber, was honored at a reception at Georgetown University last evening following his lecture in Gaston Hall. The reception was held in the hall of Cardinals. The Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., vice president of the university and regent of the School of Foreign Service, was host.

THE OPENING OF AN EXHIBITION of French prints was held yesterday at the United Nations Club from 5 to 7 o'clock. Miss Agnes Delano, chairman of the committee, arranged the prints which were brought down from the Georges Binet galleries in New York.

FOR A WORTHY CAUSE:

Mrs. Harold Burton, wife of Justice Burton, was chairman for the Community Chest tea held yesterday at the Lindens, home of Mr. and Mrs. George Maurice Morris.

Three members of the YWCA put on a skit on the right and the wrong way to solicit funds for the Community Chest and afterward a film of Chest activities was shown. Mrs. Burton and Hugh Duffield, campaign chairman, instructed the group on campaign methods.

DOWN THE MIDDLE AISLE

Flight Lieut. and Mrs. Allan A. Sherlock are now on a wedding trip on the West Coast. On their return, they will make their home in Ottawa, Canada, where Flight Lieutenant Sherlock is stationed as Royal Canadian Air Force aide de camp to the governor general, Viscount Alexander of Tunis.

The wedding took place Saturday in All Saints Church, Ottawa, Canada. The bride is the former Miss Dulcie Ann Steinhardt, daughter of Mrs. Laurence A. Steinhardt. Her father, the late Laurence A. Steinhardt, was Minister to Sweden, and Ambassador to Peru, Russia, Turkey, Czechoslovakia and Canada.

For her wedding, the bride was gowned in ivory Chinese brocade, a gift of her father when he was Ambassador to Russia. Her veil was of rosepoint lace, and she carried a prayer book covered in brocade with a white orchid and streamers of stephanotis.

Flight Lieut. Sherlock is the son of Mrs. George Sherlock of Toronto. During World War II he served as a bomber pilot, completing 54 operational missions in the North African, Italian and European theaters of war. He was decorated by the King of England in 1944 with the Distinguished Flying Cross, and in 1945 he was awarded the Bar to the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Miss Bickelhaupt, Maj. d'Autremont Married at All Souls

Miss Nancy Jean Bickelhaupt, daughter of Capt. Ivan Bickelhaupt, and Maj. Louis Paul d'Autremont United States Air Corps Reserve, were married yesterday afternoon in All Souls Memorial Church. The Rev. Frank Blackwelder officiated.

The bride wore white satin made with a long train and a headdress of tulle and orange blossoms and heirloom lace. Mrs. William Hewitt of San Francisco was matron of honor and Miss Ann Heard of Washington, maid of honor. The four bridesmaids included Mrs. Bonny Powell, wife of Commander Powell of Sarasota, Fla. and Washington; Miss Elaine LeFevre, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Jay LeFevre; Mrs. James Macon of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Eads Talman of Washington.

Serving as best man was the bride's brother, Peter Bickelhaupt

Following the reception at home the couple left for Hobe Sound, Fla., and Cuba. They will live at Melbourne, Fla., where the bridegroom is engaged in an engineering project on the off-coast islands.

The bride is a graduate of the Madeira School and Bennington College. She is the granddaughter of the late Hamilton Harrison of Howard County, Md.

Major d' Autremont, a former White House Aide, has been on duty at the Pentagon for the last two years. He served in the Fifty-first Troop Carrier Wing in Europe during the war.

"Seeing is believing!"
says MRS. EUGENE A. ROSS
3802 Yuma St., N.W., Washington, D.C.

"I'll admit I was skeptical about this 'no rinse' business, so I really put it to the test! I washed all my bedding—quilts, blankets, even spreads—with No-Rinse Surf. What a difference it made, not having to rinse those heavy things!"

"I kept peeking at the wash on the line—to see what would happen. Well, my blankets dried so fluffy and smelled fresher than if they'd been rinsed. All my clothes were softer and colors came out brighter and clearer than ever before!"

"Seeing is believing, but I still can't get over the way No-Rinse Surf got my husband's shirts so white—without a bit of bleaching or hard rubbing! I washed in half the usual time—and even the ironing seemed to go easier. You bet I'm sold on No-Rinse Surf."

See for yourself with No-Rinse Surf—only washday product approved by U. S. Testing Co. for no rinsing!

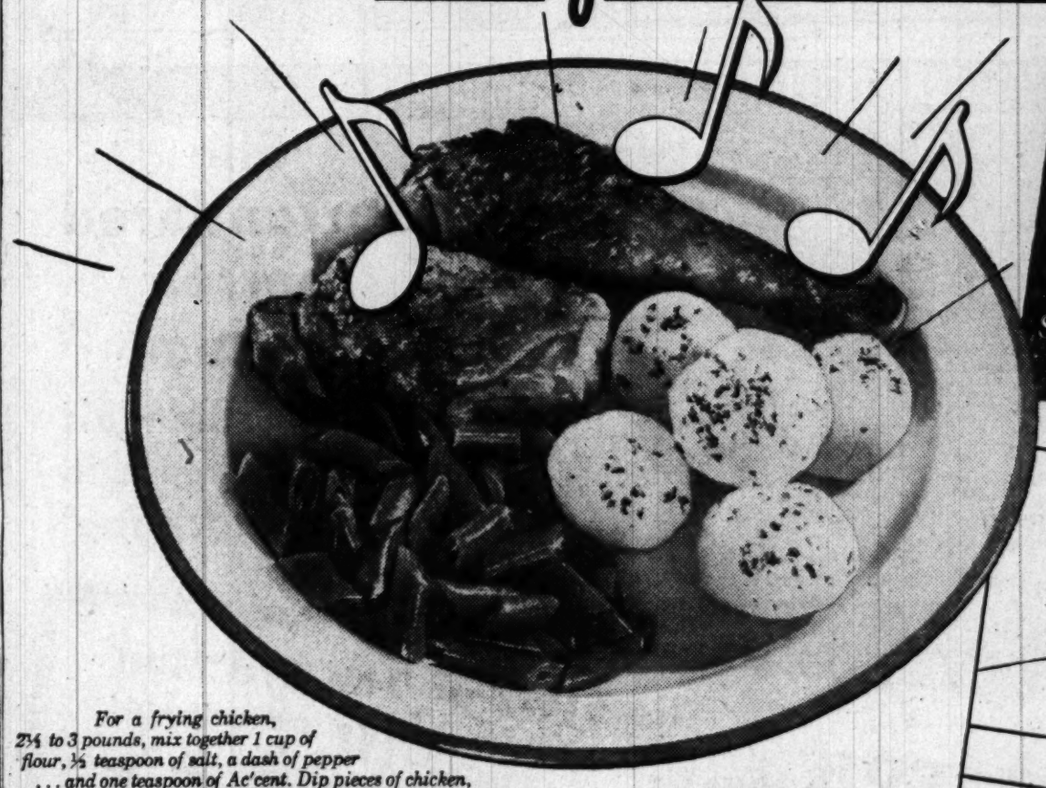
There's more chicken flavor in chicken than you've ever tasted!



Accent will prove it to you...and you'll say "wonderful"

WITHOUT Accent

WITH Accent

For a frying chicken, 2½ to 3 pounds, mix together 1 cup of flour, ½ teaspoon of salt, a dash of pepper ... and one teaspoon of Ac'cent. Dip pieces of chicken, dripping wet, into mixture and coat thickly. Place pieces carefully in fat and fry slowly till tender, 40 to 50 minutes, turning to brown evenly. A bit of Ac'cent—a world of difference!

For the chicken-i-est chicken your family ever tasted . . . fry one with Ac'cent on it.

For Ac'cent adds no flavor, no aroma of its own. It brings out the good natural flavors of the food itself.

How does Ac'cent work? Scientists, while searching for the complete answer, have established that, unlike any seasoning known, Ac'cent urges the taste buds to a quick, intense and sustained appreciation of food flavors.

Chefs and gourmets have known Ac'cent . . . delighted in the wonders it does for their prized dishes. Now you can get it in local food stores . . . in attractive kitchen shakers.

Before another day goes by . . . try this exciting, easy, wholesome way to give new lift, new life to familiar foods!

Ac'cent is a registered trade mark of Amino Products Division, International Minerals & Chemical Corp.

NOT a flavoring!
NOT an ordinary seasoning or condiment!

Ac'cent is a 99+% pure monosodium glutamate in crystal form. A product of Nature, refined from vegetable sources, it is wholesome, good for you and your family.

One On the Aisle

Isa Miranda Was A Hollywood Blonde

By Richard L. Coe

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE: Isa Miranda, the Italian actress of "The Walls of Malapaga," learned from the war to treat each day as if it were to be her last . . . "As a result," she remarks in a husky, intent voice, "I relish every little thing that happens; I am disappointed in nothing; I expect nothing . . . Each day becomes a distinct adventure and though I am 10 years older than I was in my Hollywood career, I feel far younger, more alive." . . . The Miranda Hollywood years were spent as a blonde, employed as a sort of young Garbo-Dietrich type . . . It didn't lead to much of a career, but there she did marry Alfred Guarini, the Italian producer whose picture is now at the Dupont . . . They're still married, what's more . . . After Hollywood, this daughter of a Roman streetcar conductor went back to the stage briefly, but with the Germans occupying Rome, she hid out and ignored orders to go to Berlin for an official film . . . Those hard days taught her that lesson in living and she taught herself to know that some day they would end . . . Now she's visiting the States and there's talk of her as a possibility for the lead in Tennessee Williams' "The Rose Tattoo." . . . Anna Magnani, you'll recall, was wanted for this, but she won't leave Rome . . . After watching the Miranda of the screen and the Miranda of the flesh, two decidedly different people, I'm inclined to think Producer Cheryl Crawford would do well. . . . Another possibility, and more likely, is the role of an Italian ballerina in "Mike MacCauley," a new soldier play by Fred Finklehoft anad Leo Lieberman.

RORY CALHOUN, Sibyl Bowan, Dick Haymes, and Eileen Barton are among the live sprites who'll be strutting on the Capitol stage within the next few weeks . . . Calhoun, darksome young villain who's been climbing the movie rungs, will arrive on the 19th with his wife, Lita Barron, as part of his act; the same day Sibyl Bowman will be offering her comic impressions . . . Haymes takes over the 26th, with Miss Barton, the "Bake-a-Cake" girl, and the Three Stooges also on the bill.

MARGOT FONTEYN will be here only in shadow this year, thanks to the fact that we have no auditorium for the Sadlers' Wells ballet, but she'll be a special kind of star, anyway . . . The dancer is the star of "The Little Ballerina," a film about youngsters studying to be dancers . . . It will be shown at the Plaza the Saturday mornings of October 21 and 28, at 9:30 and 11 o'clock . . . Seats for children and adults will be 50 cents and may be purchased by mail now . . . The four performances, primarily for children, are being sponsored by the Children's Theater of Washington and Sam Roth, president of the Plaza Theater corporation.

THE D'OYLY CARTE Gilbert and Sullivan company has arrived in America for a four that will stretch into April . . . Closest this impeccable company will get to Washington will be Baltimore's Ford's Theater, where it starts a two-week run November 13 . . . New Haven and Boston get the first dates, with New York enjoying four weeks starting March 12 . . . This will be the group's first American tour since the death of Rupert D'Oyly Carte, son of the founder, two autumns ago . . . He's succeeded by his daughter Bridget, whose grandmother, Helen, also ruled the unique organization after the death of the first Carte, Richard.

HARRY COHN, Columbia Pictures chieftain, is getting be a legendary character a la Sam Goldwyn . . . The newest Cohn yarn I've heard concerns his visit to the set of a costume piece wherein knights on horseback were supposed to ride majestically across the landscape . . . "This is an action picture," growled Cohn, "they should ride faster." . . . "But," the director answered, "fast riding wouldn't be right for this scene; they're going to a formal dinner." . . . The mogul of the studio though seriously a few moments, then came up triumphantly: "They're in a hurry because they're hungry!"

VIOLET HEMING, now Mrs. Bennett Champ Clark, will make her first stage appearance since her marriage tomorrow night . . . The star of countless Broadway hits will be acting a role in the Community Chest Red Feather variety show in Constitution Hall; she'll share a satirical sketch with Mrs. Harold H. Burton, wife of the Supreme Court Justice, which means two wives of justices in one scene . . . Seats at the Hayes concert agency, the lobby of the Washington or the Chest offices, 1101 M st.

FOR RED FEATHER: Mary Day, codirector of the Washington School of the Ballet, as she will appear in "The Galop," tomorrow night in Constitution Hall. The dance will be a feature of the Red Feather Cavalcade, tee-off event of the Washington Community Chest. Musical inspiration for Miss Day's offering is the Strauss "Perpetual Mobile"

De Gast, 'Y' Leader 21 Years, Hailed at Farewell Banquet

The Washington Post

TRIBUATE—Leonard W. Degast (center), retiring general secretary of the YMCA for the District of Columbia, is presented with a lifetime membership card by Dr. Carson P. Frailey (left), president of the local "Y." Looking on is Harper Sibley, president of the National Council of YMCA's

Members and supporters of the YMCA of Washington paid tribute to retiring General Secretary Leonard W. DeGast with a testimonial dinner last night.

More than 300 persons attended the banquet at the Mayflower Hotel where Harper Sibley, president of the national council of YMCAs, reviewed the contribution DeGast has made to the organization in the last 44 years.

It is such service, Sibley said, that "develops our youth into the type of leaders we need to preserve freedom and democracy."

DeGast, general secretary here the past 21 years, began his "Y" career in 1906 at Butler, Pa. He played a leading role in organizing the first Boy Scout troop in America four years later at Springfield, Mass.

The Washington YMCA has increased in membership from less than 5000 to more than 15,000 men and boys in 11 branches since he joined the staff as boys' work director in 1914.

Dr. Carson P. Frailey, president, presided at the dinner. Other speakers included Lee D. Butler, president of United Community Services, who saluted DeGast as "the Community Chest leader"; Frederick P. H. Siddons, former president of the Board of Trade, who paid tribute to him as "the civic leader," and the Rev. Carl Heath Kopf, pastor of the First Congregational Church, who addressed the honor guest as "the community Christian leader."

Murder Charge Eased, Myers Held in Bond

A charge of murder against William S. Myers, 42, of 712 D st. sw., at 4 a. m. yesterday was reduced to second degree murder by United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence at a hearing later in the day.

Lawrence said he reduced the charge on the recommendation of Assistant United States Attorney J. Warren Wilson because of the circumstances of the death of David Leake, 50, of 477 Casey ct. sw., for which Myers was arrested. Lawrence held Myers in $3000 bond for the action of the grand jury.

Lawrence said testimony at the hearing showed that the two men had engaged in a scuffle Friday night at the 4th st. entrance to Casey ct. Leake was knocked down, Lawrence said, struck his head and fractured his skull. He died Sunday in Gallinger Hospital.

Had Leake lived, Lawrence said, police could have charged Myers only with simple assault. Because of these circumstances, the charge of murder against Myers when he was arrested was reduced.

22 Escape At Boys' Home; 10 Recaptured

Twelve of 22 inmates who escaped from Boys Village at Cheltenham, Md., Monday night were still at large last night.

Among the missing youths is the ringleader, Superintendent Lawson Veney said.

The youths, ranging from 13 to 17 years old, were all housed in a detention cottage for cases requiring close supervision, Veney said.

Just after supper, five older boys made a break for the cottage door in what Veney said was a planned break. The others "just followed along," he said.

Several were rounded up within a matter of minutes, the superintendent said. The remainder of the ten who were recaptured were found during the night and next morning. The missing dozen have probably gotten some distance away, Veney believed.

The superintendent classified only two of the missing inmates as "possibly dangerous."

He picked out one boy, "nearly 16," as the ringleader. This boy, he said, tried to escape several times before during periods of "emotional disturbance."

Boys Village is a State training school for Negro boys. It has no walls or fences.

This is the first escape since Veney assumed charge of the farm in February, 1949, he said.

3-Hour Limit Put On 4 Parking Lots In Silver Spring

Temporary three-hour parking limitation of four of Silver Spring's seven public parking lots was announced yesterday by Montgomery County Manager Irving G. McNayr.

The limitation became effective Monday and will remain in effect until after the Christmas holiday season. McNayr said that seven or more additional parking lot attendants will be hired to enforce the time limit. They will receive $200 a month salary and will have authority to issue parking summons.

Those interested in the positions should contact Ben H. Hall, personnel assistant to the county manager, at the courthouse in Rockville.

The lots where the restrictions will be in force are at Ellsworth dr. at Fenton st., Fenton st. between Thayer and Silver Spring aves., Fenton st. between Silver Spring and Sligo aves., and at Ward pl. The present two-hour parking limit will be continued on the Bonifant st. lot in rear of the Suburban National Bank.

2 Railroads Ask ICC to Throw Out 'Jim Crow' Case

By the United Press

Two railroads argued yesterday that the Interstate Commerce Commission has no jurisdiction over a complaint by a New York Negro woman against "Jim Crow" railroad cars and other "discriminatory" practices.

Attorneys for the Pennsylvania and Seaboard Air Line told the commission the two-year statute of limitations ran out before the woman, Lillie Bell Perez, complained to the ICC last August.

They also accused Miss Peres of bringing the complaint to support her $100,000 damage suit against the railroads which is now pending before Federal District Court in New York. The woman asked the ICC to outlaw "Jim Crow" cars on all railroads.

She charged that while traveling between Richmond and Petersburg, Va., in April, 1948, she was forced to give up her reserved seat in the New York-to-Tampa, Fla., "Silver Meteor" and ride in a "Jim Crow" car. The train is

County Residents Get 81% of Jobs, Council Asserts

Approximately 81 percent of the persons employed by Montgomery County were residents of the county at the time of their employment, the County Council reported yesterday.

Of those not county residents, 14 were from other Maryland counties and 10 from Washington. The selection has been made without deviation from the policy of selecting the best qualified person, the statement said.

Of the 28 top supervisory positions, 22 were filled from county residents and 5 of the 6 directors of county departments were residents of the county, the statement said.

The statement was issued "in view of the numerous misstatements current regarding county employes," the council report declared.

County Schools Group Makes Chest Plans

Members of the Independent Schools Association of Montgomery County last night voted to participate as an organization in the Community Chest Campaign.

The 14 member schools will set their own quotas and will study work of the Red Feather agencies as well as collect funds. Carle O. Warren, president of the association, also is chairman of the Chest committee for all private schools.

Girl Scout Leaders Choose 2 from D. C.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 10 (AP).—Girl Scout leaders and delegates from five States today elected Mrs. J. H. Lavenstein of Petersburg, Va., chairman of Region 3 of the Girl Scouts of America at the Region's twenty-fourth conference.

All new officers were elected as the three-day conference came to a close. Mrs. Paul Porter of Washington, is first vice president. Mrs. Maceo Hubbard of Washington is one of four new members of the Region nominating committee.

ADVERTISING OPPORTUNITY

Here's a chance for a college graduate to get a toehold on the advertising ladder. To start, it's only a messenger's job at $30 a week. Within a few months, the next step will be calling on the retail trade, doing merchandising. After that—probably advertising salesman, but maybe research or production or copy, depending on the man. This is really a good opportunity and we want to give it to the right man. Since it's primarily a stepping stone to selling advertising, don't apply unless you have a sales personality. If in doubt, you haven't.

Gibbs' play, "Season in the Sun" (which caricatures them), in the window . . . Olsen & Johnson's "Pardon Our French" has 1162 props . . . Critic Howard Barnes (in the Herald Trib) refers to the "quasipragmatic" approach of a doctor . . . Grandmaw used to simply say "busybody."

Succe$$ Story: Broadway's newest overnight click is Howard Richmond, a 32-year-old former GI . . . He struggled as a press agent . . . He made the dreary rounds of the disc-jockeez—pleading with them to spin his clients saucers . . . Few of them knew that he was about to be dispossessed from his desk space on 52d Street, where he "dabbled" at music publishing . . . Not long ago Richmond didn't even have enough coin to pay the rent . . . Before 1950 ends he figures to wind up with $500,000 . . . He is now rated the "hottest individual" in the music business (in 20 years) by top Tune Pan Alley execs. . . . Because he is the first to pick five song hits in a row . . . They are: "Hop Scotch Polka," "Music, Music," "Tsena, Tsena," "Good Night, Irene" and now the awful "Molasses, Molasses" . . . And without a piano in his office!

Times Sq. Taffy: The M. Todd bankruptcy story (for a million) was a tip to a morning paper from a publicity man for a Coast film magnate. The story is 3 years old . . . Georgette Windsor Cushing (Mrs. Ramon Reachi) expects a visitor . . . Doris Dowling, the American talent in "Bitter Rice" (the Italian film), was felled by Virus X, which has hit scads of locals, including columnists . . . Dr. Kinsey's next tome (on women) is six months behind schedule—he has That Much to Say . . . Newsmen hear Ted Thackrey may chuck his gazette post and enter book publishing . . . Dick Lauterbach of Time-Life, who died too soon recently, left about 40Gs to his wife and tots . . . The waiting list for page boys at NBC is now 2000 names long. Tougher to be a page there than a yeep . . . The One World Award Comm., dedicated to peace, is having an internal war . . . The net profit on "Kiss Me, Kate" so far is $880,119.61 . . . The Automat on B'way near 46th has installed an electronic towel device which not only dries ya but sprays poifewm atcha.

Curtain Calls: Camilla Williams' vocallure at the N. Y. City Center Opera . . . The 3 Suns' recording of the swingy "Petite Waltz" (Capitol) . . . Irving Fields' Trio at the Park Sheraton . . . Eadie & Rack's pinano magic via WJZ-TV and Blue Angel . . . Jane Harvey's song styles via Broadway Open House . . . The rhumba tomtomusic of Noro Morales and Chuchu Martinez at the China Doll—a zingy double-feature.

Manhattan Murals: The lovely models in their kimonos, who pose peeled at The Art Students' League on W. 57th—sipping java in the school lunchroom during the rest periods . . . The ballet students mincing to the W. 56th rehearsal places . . . The placard in the W. 46th pet shop: "Dog for sale, eats anything, loves children" . . . The pert little mam'zell on Park at 57th berating her leash-straining pooch in rapid-fire French, gestures and all . . . Sign in a Delancey St. delly: "Kosher Cola."

Sounds in the Night: At Eddie Condon's: "She's giving him the old ruin-around" . . . At Cafe Tokay: "He's very unimportant. Mike Todd doesn't owe him a cent" . . . At Chablis: "She's getting prettier, but it takes longer" . . . In Lindy's: "She's real society. You know, a Blah-Blood" . . . At Pelham Heath Inn: "Very funny. She's afraid of mice, but every night she's out with a different rat" . . . At Fireside Inn? "With the right publicity he might become almost as big as his head."

The Late Watch: Since banker R. Crowe got away with $800,000, most banks changed the safe combinations . . . Signe Hasso left a broken heart in London. It belongs to a supposedly hardboiled British newsman . . . Pictures may be Better Than Ever but Loew's Lincoln is the latest to close . . . After planning 10 years Frank Lloyd Wright's blueprint for a 5th Ave. museum has been scrapped by the 5th Ave. Ass'n . . . Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein II isn't rich enough (with "S. Pacific," etc.) so she just got a $10,000 advance on a new floor polish invention . . . Pultizer Prize winner Fred Woltman's "Daily Worker" history is ready for Collier's . . . "Tell Me That You Love Me" is oof'ly close to "Sweet Leilani," dearie . . . One of the top models is taking psychiatric treatment to find out why she loves another man instead of her husband . . . The "public figure" to be named in the police-bookie scandal is not O'Dwyer, as many thawt. Insiders say he's a Magistrate appointed by La-Guardia.

Library to Get Manuscript Of Classic by W. S. Maugham

W. Somerset Maugham, 76-year-old novelist and playwright, will present the manuscript of the first version of his best-known work, "Of Human Bondage," to the Library of Congress at a 1 p. m. luncheon in his honor today.

The manuscript is the draft of a novel, "The Artistic Temperament of Stephen Carey," written in 1897-1898 and never published. Years later, Maugham rewrote the novel and it was published in 1915 under the title, "Of Human Bondage." The manuscript of the later work was presented to the library in 1946.

He is represented in the list of fall books with an anthology, "The Maugham Reader." A bibliography of his books, "Maughamiana," has also just been published. Several days ago he signed a contract with the Columbia Broadcasting System for televising his writings in a program, "Teller of Tales," to begin next Wednesday. The program will be carried over WTOP-TV from 9 to 9:30 p. m.

Sherman Still Has Faith in People

—By John Crosby—

RANSOM SHERMAN, the philosopher from Chicago, has a theory that people are pretty interesting, pretty bright and pretty generally under-estimated. That's radical doctrine these days. When a sewer explosion in Greenpoint sets people to scurrying around in a panic shouting "atom bomb," it takes a man of strong conviction to cling to the idea that people another six months." can be under-estimated.

Sherman

The prevailing opinion about people was summed up on the Fred Allen show a couple of weeks back—"I give people another six months." That's the fashionable doctrine about people at the moment. Therefore, it's refreshing to run into a reactionary like Ransom Sherman who probably thought the horse would outlive the horseless carriage too. Sherman seems to think that people are here to stay and what's more he likes people—ridiculous as that may sound.

HE HAS an insatiable curiosity about people and talks to everyone he can from soda jerks to old ladies in streetcars. A former movie actor, he feels strongly that movie producers could learn a lot about people and improve their pictures if they'd get out of the limousines and ride a streetcar now and then. He also thinks they should send their stars down to the Farmer's Market once in a while to take a good look at people. After all, they're supposed to be impersonating them.

When he was in Hollywood, Sherman used to go shopping with "my wife by marriage" at the Farmer's Market, fall into conversation with a couple of farmers from Iowa and talk for hours while his wife by marriage waited patiently in the car outside.

This liking and respect for people is largely responsible for the type of comedy Sherman used so successfully on television last summer and will do again this winter. Like Dave Garroway, he is a low-pressure guy; his humor is human and subtle and he underplays everything. Where many comedians hammer the points home with a hammer, Sherman has enough faith in the fundamental intelligence of people to trust them to catch the nuances.

SHERMAN was the summer replacement for "Kukla, Fran and Ollie" and will be back on N. B. C.—TV with an afternoon show five times a week at 3:30 p. m. next Monday That means he'll be playing almost exclusively to housewives—or homemakers, as they say now—where once he had a more general audience. He doesn't propose to change his show for the girls, though. He harbors a superstitution that the homemakers are reasonably intelligent, too.

Sherman's methods of putting a show together flabbergast everybody else in the business. Where most half hour programs are rehearsed for hours, Sherman's show is rehearsed about 12 minutes. He tells the cameramen approximately where he'll be from time to time. And that's that for the cameramen. The script department has nothing to worry about because there isn't any script. Sherman can't memorize anything. He knows what he's going to do but he never knows how he's going to do it. A minute before the show is to go off the air, a man waves a flashlight at him—he's too nearsighted to see anything else—and Sherman winds up the act. It's always been a mystery how the show comes out on time.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Modern Technique for Husband-Trapping

Mrs. James D. Redding of 827 Rose la., Falls Church, Va., passes along this bit of advice on how to get a husband:

"First, get a date. Second, during the course of the evening tell the young man how wonderful he is—even if it's only because he has legs that are long enough to reach the ground.

"Third, when the date is over, ask him to give you a ring sometime. Fourth, get him to take you to the circus and be sure to ask him which ring he's looking at. Fifth, tell him about the ring your girl friend was displaying at the office.

"Sixth, while pretending to buy a watch for some relative's birthday, lead him slowly past the diamond rings. Seventh, tell him the joke about the little boy who always left a ring around the bathtub. Eighth, tell him how you thrill to hear the church bells ring.

"Ninth, take him out to visit some married friends of yours—happily married, of course—and ask to see the wife's ring. On the way home, when you say, 'He must be making a lot of money to buy her a ring like that,' if he's any kind of man at all he'll come right back with, 'Wait'll you see the ring I'm going to buy you.' This sets the stage for the tenth step, in which you put the ring in his nose and lead him around by it for the rest of his life."

On attempting to analyze the foregoing, to see what makes it funny, I am forced to the conclusion that it's the delightful understatement of the case.

MISCELLANY

Are District Liners worried about the possibility that an atom bomb may be dropped on Washington? Are they interested in preparing for such an eventuality? We'll get an answer of sorts from the attendance—or lack of it—at the civil defense mass meeting to be held at 8 tonight at the Kimball School, Minnesota ave. and Ely pl. se. Archie C. Edwards, president of the North Randle Citizens Association, says everybody is welcome—especially those who live in the area bounded by the Anacostia and Texas ave., between East Capitol and N st. se... The guinea pig offered as a Give-Away recently belonged to Chip Planck of 3234 N. Pershing dr., Arlington, Va., who found his pet too tame after spending the summer in Ontario's Algonquin Park... L. M. H. of The Plains, Va., and Gaston Lellouche, of 3955 S st. se., explain about that unusual Parisian parking plan: "On one-way streets, parking is prohibited on one side of the street on alternate days, so that vehicles park one day in front of odd-numbered addresses and the next day in front of the even numbers."... Gail Davidson, of 4800 Chevy Chase blvd., Chevy Chase, Md., has collected almost $50 for the Polio Fund... Six-year-old Richard Pizer and 8-year-old David Lesser forward a check for $5.40 representing small amounts collected for Children's Hospital from their neighbors in Naylor Gardens... And Maurice D. Holtzman, of 5105 2d st. nw., sends along a streetcar token wrapped in a dollar bill for the hospital... Mrs. Max D. Bovey, of Martinsburg, W. Va., tells me that my "Kid Stuff" item about her daughter, Sharilyn, is causing much mirth in the neighborhood because the "big sister" to whom Sharilyn paid a visit is strictly imaginary... The other day I had a story about Earle P. Brown, the Statler publicity man who got a Statler towel into an operation which was being televised to a group of doctors. Earle comments: "The whole thing was a deal. The doctors agreed to use a Statler towel if I'd let them take out my liver. Come see me on television."... Well, that's one way to get into TV, but it would be mighty tough on a guy if they'd ask him to audition for the part first.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Two-month-old mixed breed pups; their mother is a Scottie." (Warfield 7760.)

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

The lights at the intersection of 17th st., Mount Pleasant st. and Park rd. nw. seem unnecessarily complicated.

Northbound traffic on 17th st. is not permitted to turn left on the through arrow, but must wait until a left arrow comes on. This often backs up autos waiting to turn left.

But there appears to be no need for the delay because the one-way routing at this intersection would permit left turns to be made without interference with other vehicles.

Elmer F. Greenleaf.
2817 Connecticut ave. nw.

Dear Elmer:

Traffic Director George Keneipp reports that this set-up was installed in 1940, before he assumed his present duties, and that the records show that the plan was adopted on the recommendation of citizens' groups.

Pedestrians were having a hard time crossing Park rd., on the west side of 17th st. because of left-turners. As a result, pedestrians are now given 20 seconds to cross before the left arrow comes on.

However, Keneipp says that any installation that's been functioning for 10 years without review is worth taking another look at, so he's going to run another survey up there, to see whether conditions have changed in that time. Bill.

END OF A FRIENDSHIP

Overheard: "Oh, how do you do, my dear. It's been so long since I've seen you I wouldn't have recognized you except for that darling green dress you're wearing."

SUSIE Q.

"If I have t' dance, I don't want a GIRL for a partner . . . I want SUSIE!"

Henry Kaiser Initiative Pays Off

By Drew Pearson

Private enterprise, according to some people, is dead. But the other day, Henry Kaiser proved that it isn't. He paid 87 million dollars back to Uncle Sam which he had borrowed on a gamble that big business had branded as foolhardy.

Back in the early stages of World War II, Kaiser, then building ships at breakneck speed, was frequently short of steel. Finally, he decided to build a steel plant in Southern California, the first of its kind in that part of the Nation. Heretofore, the big steel companies of the Pittsburgh-Cleveland-Youngstown area had dominated all markets, even supplying the West Coast.

They argued that the West was too sparsely populated to support a steel industry of its own, flatly refused to expand in that region. At Geneva, Utah, the United States Government, contending that the big steel companies were wrong, pioneered its own plant for Western operation.

But even farther West, and without Government subsidy, Kaiser erected the Fontana steel mill, wholly owned by himself though financed with a wartime loan of $123,805,000.

After the war, when competitors expected Fontana to close down, Kaiser expanded. He has paid 21 million dollars to the RFC on interest alone, expanded his plant with 30 million dollars of private funds, and the other day arranged to repay all the money borrowed from the Government.

Kaiser's gamble in private enterprise is in contrast to various other private steel companies which waited for the Government to set up its own plants, then bought them in after the war, for a song.

United States Steel, for instance, purchased the Government's Geneva, Utah, plant for 20 cents on the dollar. It also purchased Uncle Sam's steel mills at Homestead and Duquesne, Pa., for 33 cents on the dollar, and a blast furnace at Duluth, Minn., for 24 cents. The total Government investment in these plants was 527 million dollars. The price paid for them by United States Steel after the war was 148 million dollars.

Republic Steel also bought the Government's South Chicago plant for 30 cents on the dollar, while Inland Steel picked up two Government blast furnaces at Indiana Harbor, Ind., for 38 cents on the dollar.

Meanwhile, Kaiser, the man who believes that private initiative is not dead, paid 100 cents on the dollar, plus interest.

Taft's Publicity

Ohio Senator Bob Taft is not always smart with his public relations, but he was smart enough the other day not to get caught in a radio debate with forthright and possibly unfriendly newsmen.

Scheduled to appear on a coast-to-coast network "Reporters Roundup," Taft was to be interviewed by Joe Loftus of the New York Times, Sam Stavisky of The Washington Post, and Cecil Brown of the Mutual Broadcasting System. At the last minute, however, Taft telephoned the program director and refused to appear unless he could name his own reporters.

In order to save the program from cancellation, Taft was given his way. He selected four Ohio newsmen whom he knew personally — Alvin Silverman of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Jack Kennon of the Cleveland News, Richard Maher of the Cleveland Press, and Clingan Jackson of the Youngstown Vindicator. They dealt with him gently.

Texas Tax Haven

If you want to cheat Uncle Sam on your income taxes and not go to jail, you should arrange to do your cheating in Texas. That is the private advice sorrowfully given by Internal Revenue agents as a result of lenient convictions handed down by Federal judges in Texas.

The latest of these came from United States Judge T. Whitfield Davidson of Dallas, when he imposed a fine of only $20,000 on E. P. Mead, millionaire Texas bakery owner and one-time president of the Gideon Society which distributes Bibles in hotel rooms.

Mead has cheated the Government out of $245,593.78—though part of this had been outlawed for criminal prosecution due to the fact that the T-men were a little slow in catching up with Mead and the statute of limitations had run.

Mead had operated a neat fraud scheme whereby invoices for bakery products bore instructions to pay Mead personally, rather than the bakery. Thus he concealed a large part of his income.

When he went to trial, however, Mead hired one of the most politically potent attorneys in Texas, J. Percy Rice. And when Mead appeared before Judge Whitfield, the judge asked him this amazing question:

"It is difficult to arrive at a penalty, but the court will ask Mr. Mead, for the purpose of determining his financial ability—would you rather pay a $20,000 fine, or pay $5000 to $10,000 and take a short probated sentence?"

CANNON BEAUTI-FLUFF BATH TOWELS

If you're tired of towels that get as wet as you are the minute you step from the shower . . . get fluffy, absorbent Beauti-Fluff towels. If you're disappointed with the towels that hang limply on the towel rack . . . get thick, fluffy Beauti-Fluff towels. Beauti-Fluff towels dry you more quickly than ordinary towels, because the loops are long and twisted. They look more luxurious folded across the towel rack! Look thicker and heavier stacked in sparkling rows in your linen closet. For "Beauti-Fluff means just that . . . that Cannon permanently fluffs them in a brand new process. Means that your towels will always stay as soft and absorbent as the day you buy them. Get a different color for each one in your family; mist grey, mimosa, yellow, flamingo, aqua, petal pink and citron. 20x40 inch size.
